Eastern Remains Idle

Mediators Tackle Strike That Shuts Down Airline

NEW YORK (AP)—Top Labor Department officials and federal mediators sought today to settle the labor dispute that has shut down Eastern Air Lines and holds the threat of a strike resumption over Pan American World Airways.

Eastern, the second largest domestic carrier with nine million passengers a year, has been idle since its flight engineers struck Saturday. Eighteen thousand of Eastern's employes are on furlough.

Pan Am's flight engineers, who also struck Saturday afternoon, returned to work a short time later under a federal court order temporarily restraining them from striking. The order remains in effect until Tuesday afternoon, when a hearing on it is scheduled.

The strike against Eastern has stranded thousands of persons in various parts of the United States and in Puerto Rico and Bermuda. Pan Am ran three extra flights to Bermuda Sunday to pick up stranded travelers.

Undersecretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz and Francis A. O'Neill Jr., a member of the National Mediation Board, were assigned to meet here today with negotiators for Eastern and for the AFL-CIO Flight Engineers International Association.

The dispute between the union and Pan Am was put before negotiators for both sides at a meeting in Washington today.

The government's top representative for the meeting in Washington was Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg, who had a major role in bringing about the tentative settlement between the flight engineers and Trans World Airlines last Thursday.

The dispute between the union and the three airlines is basically on the same issue—the makeup of jet cockpit crews.

Flight engineers of Eastern and Pan Am balked at the terms of the Trans World settlement, which provided for transition from four to three-man jet cockpit crews. The flight engineers are fighting against losing jobs to members of the AFL-CIO Air Line Pilots Association.

An Eastern spokesman said that airline did not seek a court injunction similar to that which brought Pan Am's flight engineers back to their jobs because Eastern's position is "somewhat different." He did not elaborate.

Operation Salvage

Kennedy, Aides Battle For Parts Of Program

Fund Action Made First Objective

Tax Extension Bill Debated By Senate; Trade Act Vote Due

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Kennedy administration buckles down this week for an operation aimed at salvaging part of its battered legislative program and putting opponents of its proposals on record.

First on the agenda laid out in a series of conferences between congressional Democratic leaders and White House aides is an effort to get the House to accept a $277-million stopgap money measure the Senate passed Saturday.

If the House approves this bill, which would supply funds to agencies which have run out of money, the action would be regarded as the first step toward ending the won't-play impasse created by an argument between the Senate and House Appropriations Committees over prestige.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said Saturday the time had come to end the bickering over whether senators or House members shall preside over conference sessions to iron out differences of the two houses in money bills.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, assistant Democratic leader, predicted in a separate interview that a compromise will be reached this week.

This would open the way for final action on measures which bear a June 30 deadline—the end of the fiscal year. The Senate takes up one of these today, a tax extension bill preserving $4 billion of federal revenue by continuing for another year present corporation income and major excise tax rates.

The bill also would kill the 10 per cent travel tax on train and bus fares effective Oct. 1 and cut the airline levy from 10 to 5 per cent on the same date.

Humphrey also said administration leaders are hopeful of salvaging some of the provisions of the Kennedy farm bill rejected by he House last week.

He said he anticipates the House will vote to continue the present emergency wheat and feed grain programs for a year. But he reminded that the Senate had voted previously to link far stricter acreage controls and marketing allotments to price supports.

"When we get in conference with the House people, I believe we may be able to save some of the controls," Humphrey said.

The administration bill turned back last week by the House would have required farmers to vote on acreage controls with the results binding on all growers in the big grain states, whether they had voted for them or not.

West Pushes New Talks On Berlin Issues

Rusk Holds Parley With British Aides On Vital Problems

LONDON (AP)—U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk met with British Foreign Secretary Lord Home today to align British-American policies on the most urgent problems of Europe, Asia and Africa.

As the two statesmen began their conference the three big Western powers sent new notes to the Soviet Union urging early East-West talks in Berlin to ease tensions along the wall through the divided city.

American, British and French notes were sent to Moscow for delivery, probably by Tuesday. They proposed that the Big Four commandants meet in an attempt to curb shooting incidents along the wall that divides the Communist and Western sectors of the city.

The Western notes replied to a warning earlier this month from Moscow. The Soviets blamed a series of shootings across the Communist-built wall on what they called German Fascist elements backed by the Allies.

The Soviets demanded Western action to halt these incidents, which were termed provocative, the U.S.S.R would come to the aid of the East German Communist ally.

Rusk brought with him new and stiffened American proposals for a Berlin settlement.

Qualified informants reported the United States has raised its price for a settlement of the dispute because Washington is convinced that the Soviet Union is in the grip of a grave internal crisis.

"It seems to us that the entire Communist camp is in the midst of a very serious food shortage," one authority said.

"With agricultural output and organization fouled up, the Soviet leadership may well be rethinking its foreign policies. This, therefore, is no time for Western concessions without very definite counter-concessions."

Rusk reportedly told West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer in Bonn Friday that the Americans, for the time being at least, are dropping the idea of proposing an international authority to run the air, land and water lanes into Berlin.

This plan, which caused so much dissension between Washington and Bonn, could be revived if the Russians publicly abandon their demand for the withdrawal of American, British and French garrisons from the city.

Informants said Rusk would outline the new American ideas about a Berlin settlement to Lord Home, the British foreign secretary, at their meeting.

Another top item for discussion was the buildup of Red Chinese military power in Fukien Province opposite the offshore islands of Quemoy and Matsu, held by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's Formosa-based Nationalist regime.

The British favor turning the islands over to the Chinese Reds. They want to hear what the Kennedy administration proposes to do if the Chinese Reds launch an offensive against Chiang's men on the islands.

Another problem certain to be discussed is India's plan to buy and build Soviet Mig fighters, raising the prospect of growing reliance on, and links with, Moscow.

Police Seized In Burglaries At Bluefield

BLUEFIELD, W. Va. (AP)—Residents of this southwestern West Virginia city were stunned Sunday when four members of their police force, including its highest-ranking officer, were arrested in connection with a string of burglaries dating back to 1955.

And they probably are in for some more surprises because Mercer County Prosecutor W. O. Bivens Jr. said he planned to arrest three more persons in connection with the case within 48 hours.

Capt. Charles Preston Crigger, second in command only to the chief, and a 17-year-veteran of the force, was arrested yesterday and charged with the $18,000 burglary of the Bluefield residence of John Michael in October 1960.

The 38-year-old Crigger was released from custody on $2,000 bond and is scheduled for preliminary hearing Friday before Magistrate James E. Belcher at Princeton along with the other three policemen.

Lt. Charles A. Fox, 49, a veteran of 25 years, was arrested yesterday and has admitted to participating in a series of thefts and burglaries, Bivens said.

Fox is charged with breaking and entering in connection with the 1955 robbery of the J. C. Penny Store here and was released on his own recognizance. The robbery netted about $600.

A sergeant and a patrolman also were arrested. Sgt. Eugene Kirk, an 11-year-veteran, was picked up yesterday and charged with breaking and entering in the theft of about $40 worth of paint supplies from the F. Bailey Lumber Co. of Bluefield in 1958. He was freed on $2,000 bond.

Patrolman Robert E. Lee was the last policeman arrested yesterday. Lee is charged with breaking and entering in connection with the $1,800 theft of 100 pistols from the Bluefield Supply Co. He was released on his own recognizance.

"The arrests were an extension of several similar arrests made two years ago," Bivens said.

He referred to the convictions of Ira Methany and Kenneth Murphy, both of Bluefield. Both are serving prison terms in the Virginia Penitentiary at Richmond.

Bivens said outside help was needed to crack the case. The state police, headed by First Sgt. E. C. Guthrie of the Beckley detachment, worked on the case for about five months as did the Mercer County sheriff's department and Bivens' office.

The first break came in February when ex-convict William Furman (Rabbit) Martin of Bluefield was arrested in connection with a breaking and entering case. Martin then implicated the police department in several thefts.

Youth Admits Slaying Girls At Mansfield

Police Hold Up On Details Of Killings; 2 Bodies In Creek

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP)—Police here are holding an 18-year-old youth who they say has confessed the mysterious slayings of two Mansfield girls. However, the mystery continues.

The bodies of the girls—Jean Bertoch, 9, and Connie Lynn Hurrell, 7—were found in a shallow creek about a half-mile from their homes Saturday night by a group of boys.

Every available officer was placed on the case as the investigation went on all night. Early Sunday, the youth, whose name has not been released, was reported arrested and later admitted the killings, police said.

No other details have been disclosed, but police indicate they plan to seek first-degree murder charges against the boy.

When the bodies were found, the Richland County coroner, Dr. D. C. Lavender, said only that a preliminary examination indicated violence. He would not say whether the youngsters, who wore only the bottom of swim suits, had been sexually assaulted.

He quickly sent the bodies to Cleveland and the Cuyahoga County coroner's office where an autopsy was to be performed today.

Police said Saturday night that it appeared one of the girls had been beaten, and witnesses said the other had a piece of clothing around her neck.

Mrs. Bertoch said the girls, who lived across the street from one another, left about 4 p.m. Saturday to play in the rain. They were wearing swimming trunks and tee-shirts.

She said Jean would not have gone to the creek of her own accord. "She was out of her boundary line," Mrs. Bertoch said. "She has always minded me. How she got there I'll never know."

The Bertochs adopted Jean after their own four children were grown.

Connie was the daughter of Mrs. Beverly Schulties, a divorcee. Neighbors said the two moved to Mansfield a week ago from Arizona.

The announced confession by the Mansfield youth came only a few hours after another 18-year-old — James H. Vance Jr. of Morristown, N.J. — confessed to the murder of two teen-age girls in that eastern city. That slaying apparently happened late Wednesday night.

Court Rules Against Law On Narcotics

California Statute Declared Invalid In 6-To-2 Decision

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court ruled unconstitutional today a California law making it a crime to be addicted to narcotics or to make unprescribed use of them.

Justice Stewart delivered the 6-2 decision.

Justice White, who went on the high bench April 16, wrote his first dissenting opinion, protesting that the court had gone too far in its decision. Justice Clark also dissented. Justice Frankfurter took no part.

The California statute reads: "No person shall use, or be under the influence of, or be addicted to the use of narcotics, except when administered by or under the direction of a person licensed by the state to prescribe and administer narcotics."

Stewart said the California law had to be put in the same category as statutes which inflicted cruel and unusual punishment.

"We hold that a state which imprisons a person thus afflicted as a criminal," said Stewart, "even though he had never touched any narcotic drug within the state or been guilty of any irregular behavior there, inflicts a cruel and unusual punishment in violation of the 14th Amendment."

Austerity Program

Canadians Begin Belt-Tightening

OTTAWA (AP) — Canada today began a belt-tightening emergency austerity regime of widespread tariff increases and government economy ordered by Prime Minister John G. Diefenbaker to bolster the Canadian dollar.

Diefenbaker, whose Progressive Conservative party was badly weakened in the general election last week, called on Canadians to support the new measures "in a spirit of national purpose." He said Canada's economy is fundamentally strong and sound.

He announced the program on Sunday to avoid market upheavals and emphasized that the measures would be temporary.

The prime minister said Canada has obtained more than $1 billion in short-term financial aid to strengthen the nation's dwindling foreign exchange reserves until the other government measures have their effect. Two-thirds of these loans and credits were made available by the United States.

He said the government is determined to defend the dollar's exchange rate at the recently devalued level of 92½ U.S. cents.

In a related step, the Bank of Canada hiked its interest rate to 6 per cent, a move apparently designed to retain capital that recently has been going abroad for investment. The fluctuating rate was 5.17 per cent last week and 4.18 the week before.

In Washington, U.S. Treasury officials expressed satisfaction with Canada's dollar-strengthening moves even though one effect could be to hurt the United States.

Canada's new tax increase on most imports will make it more difficult for American goods to compete in the Canadian market, thus hampering U.S. efforts to ease its own balance of payments problem through an increase in exports. The special Canadian tax boost ranges from 5 per cent to 15 per cent.

The U.S. balance of payments position could also suffer through Canada's efforts to provide a climate that invites foreign investment. U.S. investors already have poured more than $1.5 billion into Canada, and any more funds attracted from the United States will increase the payment deficit.

Nevertheless, the U.S. Treasury Department said "the readiness of the United States to join the International Monetary Fund in providing a substantial part of the financial support. . . reflects both the traditional close relationship between our two countries and American confidence in the capacity and determination of Canada to defend the value of the Canadian dollar."

Under the austerity program, the duty-free exemption on purchases by Canadians abroad will be cut sharply; in the case of purchases from the United States, from $300 to $75 a year.

Diefenbaker said the measures would mean a $300-million annual improvement in Canada's international balance of payments deficit recently running at about $1.25 billion annually.

The program calls for immediate tariff increases of from 5 to 15 per cent on imports which total some $3.1 billion annually. Another $2.9 billion in imports, including basic foods, raw materials and manufacturing materials, are not affected.

The 5 per cent boost applies to such imports as machinery, electrical goods, textiles, pulp and paper products, pipes and tubes. The 15 per cent rate applies to such luxury items as wines, jewelry and perfume. A 10 per cent boost was put on such imports as automobiles, furniture and television sets.

Contracts Let On 3 Schools For Hancock

$4,752,539 Total Seen For Projects In County System

Contracts amounting to $4,752,539 were awarded by the Hancock County Board of Education at a special meeting Saturday night for construction of three new schools in the county system.

The board entered into contracts agreements with four companies pending approval of Prosecuting Atty. Floyd R. Tarr of Weirton, its legal advisor.

With the approval of Tarr, the contractors may begin work soon on construction of two new high schools in Pughtown and Weirton and a new elementary school in Chester.

The contract for general construction was awarded the Knowlton Construction Co. of Bellefontaine for $3,085,070.

The mechanical contract for plumbing and heating work was awarded the Neuman Plumbing & Heating Co. of Wheeling.

The Stark Electrical Co. of Huntington was awarded a contract for electrical work in the two high schools amounting to

6 Charges Due Study As Grand Jury Meets

The recalled Grand Jury convened this morning at the Courthouse in Lisbon to study six cases, including a state examiner's report which found a $23,841 shortage in the East Liverpool water and sewage departments and returned a finding against Miss Roberta Smith, former chief clerk.

Prosecuting Atty. G. William Brokaw recalled the panel after a copy of the examiner's report was filed with him Thursday. The Grand Jury is expected to report Tuesday afternoon.

Francis Waiwaiole, Clyde Sell and Mary Lawrence, all of Salem, were sworn in today as new members of the panel, filling vacancies. Other Grand Jurors are Robert Dunn, Louise Moore, Norman Houger, David Kackner and Richard Charlton, all of Salem; Paul Ward, Phyllis Crook and Charles H. Purton of East Liverpool; Florence Roberts of East Palestine; Robert Christian of Alliance R. D. 5; Olive Schubert of Salineville, and J. Reed Galbreath of Beloit R. D. 2.

Woman Dies, 2 Hurt When 2 Cars Wreck

RAVENNA, Ohio (AP) — Mrs. Nancy Goodrich, 30, of Chardon, a summer student at Kent State University, was killed today in a two-car collision on Ohio 303 about 10 miles northeast of Ravenna. Two other women were injured.

The Ohio Highway Patrol said Mrs. Goodrich was a passenger in a car driven by Mrs. Nancy Dean, 34, of Burton. The patrol identified the driver of the other car as Mrs. Margetta Turner, 39, of Windham.

Mrs. Dean and Mrs. Turner were reported in fair condition in Robinson Memorial Hospital here.

Mrs. Goodrich and Mrs. Dean were en route to classes at Kent State.

Nation's 4th Greatest Health Problem

Alcoholism Grips 5 Million In U.S.

Millions of Americans use alcohol safely, finding relaxing conviviality in friendly drink. But for some alcohol cannot remain a pleasure campaign against the nation's fourth greatest health hazard are new. The challenge and the modern response are outlined in this first of a series of five articles.

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

The blight of a tragic sickness touches perhaps a majority of families across this broad land.

The sickness — alcoholism, the uncontrolled and seemingly uncontrollable drinking by nearly five million Americans.

It robs human brains, destroys homes, marriages, careers. It is the nation's fourth greatest health problem. There is no miracle pill to ease its miseries. It is estimated one in every 15 teen-agers is likely to become an alcoholic.

Were this disease caused by a bug or virus — as polio is—tremendous public interest and effort might be mobilized to halt its devastating human, social and economic losses.

But its root is alcohol, the same alcohol that millions use safely.

Doctors long have recognized alcoholism as a real sickness. The alcoholic simply cannot drink normally. He, or she, falls into the grip of alcoholic drink for complex emotional and physical reasons. Once there, he's enslaved by alcohol, unless he abandons it completely.

Unsuspected alcohol in a cough medicine triggered one middle-aged man—dry for many years—into an unwanted alcoholic binge. Another was seized by his old uncontrollable urge to drink when he breathed fumes on a warm day from alcoholic antifreeze in an automobile radiator.

Mankind has found comfort, conviviality, relief of tensions — and sometimes oblivion—in alcohol since he first learned some foodstuffs could be fermented or distilled into intoxicating beverages.

Down through history, a percentage of men, women and even youngsters have fallen victims to alcoholism.

Society's historic reactions toward control have been jail, ostracism, scorn, nagging, the accusation it's all due to moral weakness.

Prohibition has been tried, and missed the mark.

Now there are encouraging signs of real progress.

1. Alcoholics Anonymous has helped thousands stop their drinking, completely.

2. Allied groups, Al-Anon and Alateen, are helping wives, husbands, children, and friends understand the complexities of alcoholism and to render effective

West Pushes New Talks On Berlin Issues

Police Seized In Burglaries At Bluefield

BLUEFIELD, W. Va. (AP)—Residents of this southwestern West Virginia city were stunned Sunday when four members of their police force, including its highest-ranking officer, were arrested in connection with a string of burglaries dating back to 1955.

Youth Admits Slaying Girls At Mansfield

Police Hold Up On Details Of Killings; 2 Bodies In Creek

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP)—Police here are holding an 18-year-old youth who they say has confessed the mysterious slayings of two Mansfield girls. However, the mystery continues.

The bodies of the girls—Jean Bertoch, 9, and Connie Lynn Hurrell, 7—were found in a shallow creek about a half-mile from their homes Saturday night by a group of boys.

She said Jean would not have gone to the creek of her own accord. "She was out of her boundary line," Mrs. Bertoch said. "She has always minded me. How she got there I'll never know."

The Bertochs adopted Jean after their own four children were grown.

Connie was the daughter of Mrs. Beverly Schulties, a divorcee. Neighbors said the two moved to Mansfield a week ago from Arizona.

The announced confession by the Mansfield youth came only a few hours after another 18-year-old — James H. Vance Jr. of Morristown, N.J. — confessed to the murder of two teen-age girls in that eastern city. That slaying apparently happened late Wednesday night.

Court Rules Against Law On Narcotics

California Statute Declared Invalid In 6-To-2 Decision

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court ruled unconstitutional today a California law making it a crime to be addicted to narcotics or to make unprescribed use of them.

Justice Stewart delivered the 6-2 decision.

Justice White, who went on the high bench April 16, wrote his first dissenting opinion, protesting that the court had gone too far in its decision. Justice Clark also dissented. Justice Frankfurter took no part.

The California statute reads: "No person shall use, or be under the influence of, or be addicted to the use of narcotics, except when administered by or under the direction of a person licensed by the state to prescribe and administer narcotics."

Stewart said the California law had to be put in the same category as statutes which inflicted cruel and unusual punishment.

"We hold that a state which imprisons a person thus afflicted as a criminal," said Stewart, "even though he had never touched any narcotic drug within the state or been guilty of any irregular behavior there, inflicts a cruel and unusual punishment in violation of the 14th Amendment."

Austerity Program

Canadians Begin Belt-Tightening

OTTAWA (AP) — Canada today began a belt-tightening emergency austerity regime of widespread tariff increases and government economy ordered by Prime Minister John G. Diefenbaker to bolster the Canadian dollar.

Diefenbaker, whose Progressive Conservative party was badly weakened in the general election last week, called on Canadians to support the new measures "in a spirit of national purpose." He said Canada's economy is fundamentally strong and sound.

He announced the program on Sunday to avoid market upheavals and emphasized that the measures would be temporary.

The prime minister said Canada has obtained more than $1 billion in short-term financial aid to strengthen the nation's dwindling foreign exchange reserves until the other government measures have their effect. Two-thirds of these loans and credits were made available by the United States.

He said the government is determined to defend the dollar's exchange rate at the recently devalued level of 92½ U.S. cents.

In a related step, the Bank of Canada hiked its interest rate to 6 per cent, a move apparently designed to retain capital that recently has been going abroad for investment. The fluctuating rate was 5.17 per cent last week and 4.18 the week before.

In Washington, U.S. Treasury officials expressed satisfaction with Canada's dollar-strengthening moves even though one effect could be to hurt the United States.

Canada's new tax increase on most imports will make it more difficult for American goods to compete in the Canadian market, thus hampering U.S. efforts to ease its own balance of payments problem through an increase in exports. The special Canadian tax boost ranges from 5 per cent to 15 per cent.

The U.S. balance of payments position could also suffer through Canada's efforts to provide a climate that invites foreign investment. U.S. investors already have poured more than $1.5 billion into Canada, and any more funds attracted from the United States will increase the payment deficit.

Nevertheless, the U.S. Treasury Department said "the readiness of the United States to join the International Monetary Fund in providing a substantial part of the financial support. . . reflects both the traditional close relationship between our two countries and American confidence in the capacity and determination of Canada to defend the value of the Canadian dollar."

Under the austerity program, the duty-free exemption on purchases by Canadians abroad will be cut sharply; in the case of purchases from the United States, from $300 to $75 a year.

Diefenbaker said the measures would mean a $300-million annual improvement in Canada's international balance of payments deficit recently running at about $1.25 billion annually.

The program calls for immediate tariff increases of from 5 to 15 per cent on imports which total some $3.1 billion annually. Another $2.9 billion in imports, including basic foods, raw materials and manufacturing materials, are not affected.

The 5 per cent boost applies to such imports as machinery, electrical goods, textiles, pulp and paper products, pipes and tubes. The 15 per cent rate applies to such luxury items as wines, jewelry and perfume. A 10 per cent boost was put on such imports as automobiles, furniture and television sets.

Contracts Let On 3 Schools For Hancock

$4,752,539 Total Seen For Projects In County System

Contracts amounting to $4,752,539 were awarded by the Hancock County Board of Education at a special meeting Saturday night for construction of three new schools in the county system.

The board entered into contracts agreements with four companies pending approval of Prosecuting Atty. Floyd R. Tarr of Weirton, its legal advisor.

With the approval of Tarr, the contractors may begin work soon on construction of two new high schools in Pughtown and Weirton and a new elementary school in Chester.

The contract for general construction was awarded the Knowlton Construction Co. of Bellefontaine for $3,085,070.

The mechanical contract for plumbing and heating work was awarded the Neuman Plumbing & Heating Co. of Wheeling.

The Stark Electrical Co. of Huntington was awarded a contract for electrical work in the two high schools amounting to

6 Charges Due Study As Grand Jury Meets

The recalled Grand Jury convened this morning at the Courthouse in Lisbon to study six cases, including a state examiner's report which found a $23,841 shortage in the East Liverpool water and sewage departments and returned a finding against Miss Roberta Smith, former chief clerk.

Prosecuting Atty. G. William Brokaw recalled the panel after a copy of the examiner's report was filed with him Thursday. The Grand Jury is expected to report Tuesday afternoon.

Francis Waiwaiole, Clyde Sell and Mary Lawrence, all of Salem, were sworn in today as new members of the panel, filling vacancies. Other Grand Jurors are Robert Dunn, Louise Moore, Norman Houger, David Kackner and Richard Charlton, all of Salem; Paul Ward, Phyllis Crook and Charles H. Purton of East Liverpool; Florence Roberts of East Palestine; Robert Christian of Alliance R. D. 5; Olive Schubert of Salineville, and J. Reed Galbreath of Beloit R. D. 2.

Nation's 4th Greatest Health Problem

Alcoholism Grips 5 Million In U.S.

Millions of Americans use alcohol safely, finding relaxing conviviality in friendly drink. But for some alcohol cannot remain a pleasure campaign against the nation's fourth greatest health hazard are new. The challenge and the modern response are outlined in this first of a series of five articles.

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

The blight of a tragic sickness touches perhaps a majority of families across this broad land.

The sickness — alcoholism, the uncontrolled and seemingly uncontrollable drinking by nearly five million Americans.

It robs human brains, destroys homes, marriages, careers. It is the nation's fourth greatest health problem. There is no miracle pill to ease its miseries. It is estimated one in every 15 teen-agers is likely to become an alcoholic.

Were this disease caused by a bug or virus — as polio is—tremendous public interest and effort might be mobilized to halt its devastating human, social and economic losses.

But its root is alcohol, the same alcohol that millions use safely.

Doctors long have recognized alcoholism as a real sickness. The alcoholic simply cannot drink normally. He, or she, falls into the grip of alcoholic drink for complex emotional and physical reasons. Once there, he's enslaved by alcohol, unless he abandons it completely.

Unsuspected alcohol in a cough medicine triggered one middle-aged man—dry for many years—into an unwanted alcoholic binge. Another was seized by his old uncontrollable urge to drink when he breathed fumes on a warm day from alcoholic antifreeze in an automobile radiator.

Mankind has found comfort, conviviality, relief of tensions — and sometimes oblivion—in alcohol since he first learned some foodstuffs could be fermented or distilled into intoxicating beverages.

Down through history, a percentage of men, women and even youngsters have fallen victims to alcoholism.

Society's historic reactions toward control have been jail, ostracism, scorn, nagging, the accusation it's all due to moral weakness.

Prohibition has been tried, and missed the mark.

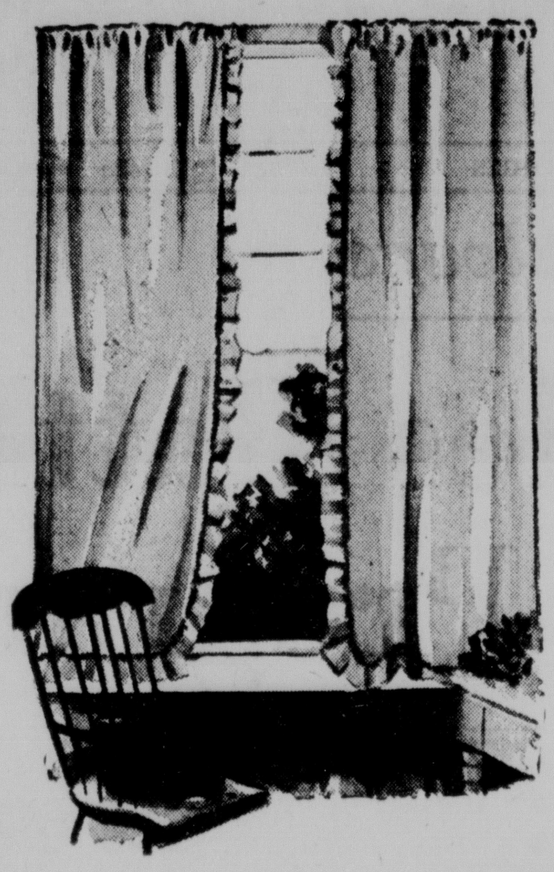

Now there are encouraging signs of real progress.

1. Alcoholics Anonymous has helped thousands stop their drinking, completely.

2. Allied groups, Al-Anon and Alateen, are helping wives, husbands, children, and friends understand the complexities of alcoholism and to render effective

Auto Of Weirton Man Damaged In Blaze In Hancock

A late model convertible owned by a former West Virginia State Police officer from Weirton was damaged by fire north of New Cumberland Saturday night at 8:19.

Hancock County sheriff's deputies said the 1961 model convertible of Joel J. Abbott of Weirton burned on Globe Hill Rd., off Route 66.

Deputies said the incident still is under investigation. They gave no reason for the fire, which apparently started in the interior.

Abbott, now retired, according to deputies, was taken to Weirton General Hospital by ambulance and was treated for a possible back injury.

Deputies also reported the crash of two cars driven by Weirton residents Sunday afternoon at 4:30 on Wiley Ridge Rd., south of New Cumberland.

The crash involved a 1961 Cadillac driven by Cyril Zaberl Jr., 49, and a 1961 model station wagon driven by William B. Harrison, 32, both of Weirton. J. D. Pratt of Weirton, a passenger in Harrison's car, was injured slightly.

Auto Crashes Hurt 2 Youths

Two Hookstown and Georgetown district youths were hurt in separate weekend traffic mishaps.

A Hookstown R. D. 1 motorist was treated at City Hospital for minor injuries after a traffic accident Saturday about 7:25 p. m. on Route 168, three miles south of Shippingport.

Edwin Wright, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Wright of Hookstown R. D. 1, suffered lacerations of the right chest and contusions of the right shoulder.

The Chippewa barracks of the Pennsylvania State Police estimated $600 damage to the 1957 auto. It was demolished.

Police said Wright, southbound, claimed he was forced off the road by a car driven by Gene Stewart, 31, also of Hookstown R. D. 1, who was northbound.

Police said there was no contact between the two vehicles. They said Wright went off the right side of the road, lost control, crossed the highway and ran off the left side of the road and hit a cement post in a field.

Cecil Frazier, 19, of Georgetown R. D. 1, is in "good" condition today at City Hospital after suffering injuries Sunday night when his car overturned on Route 18 near Raccoon Creek State Park.

He received contusions and a possible fracture of the left ribs. The Carnegie barracks of the Pennsylvania State Police had no details of the accident.

Auto Of Weirton Man Damaged In Blaze In Hancock

A late model convertible owned by a former West Virginia State Police officer from Weirton was damaged by fire north of New Cumberland Saturday night at 8:19.

Hancock County sheriff's deputies said the 1961 model convertible of Joel J. Abbott of Weirton burned on Globe Hill Rd., off Route 66.

Deputies said the incident still is under investigation. They gave no reason for the fire, which apparently started in the interior.

Abbott, now retired, according to deputies, was taken to Weirton General Hospital by ambulance and was treated for a possible back injury.

Deputies also reported the crash of two cars driven by Weirton residents Sunday afternoon at 4:30 on Wiley Ridge Rd., south of New Cumberland.

The crash involved a 1961 Cadillac driven by Cyril Zaberl Jr., 49, and a 1961 model station wagon driven by William B. Harrison, 32, both of Weirton. J. D. Pratt of Weirton, a passenger in Harrison's car, was injured slightly.

Auto Crashes Hurt 2 Youths

Two Hookstown and Georgetown district youths were hurt in separate weekend traffic mishaps.

A Hookstown R. D. 1 motorist was treated at City Hospital for minor injuries after a traffic accident Saturday about 7:25 p. m. on Route 168, three miles south of Shippingport.

Edwin Wright, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Wright of Hookstown R. D. 1, suffered lacerations of the right chest and contusions of the right shoulder.

The Chippewa barracks of the Pennsylvania State Police estimated $600 damage to the 1957 auto. It was demolished.

Police said Wright, southbound, claimed he was forced off the road by a car driven by Gene Stewart, 31, also of Hookstown R. D. 1, who was northbound.

Police said there was no contact between the two vehicles. They said Wright went off the right side of the road, lost control, crossed the highway and ran off the left side of the road and hit a cement post in a field.

Cecil Frazier, 19, of Georgetown R. D. 1, is in "good" condition today at City Hospital after suffering injuries Sunday night when his car overturned on Route 18 near Raccoon Creek State Park.

He received contusions and a possible fracture of the left ribs. The Carnegie barracks of the Pennsylvania State Police had no details of the accident.

Khrushchev Changes His Boast

Within the scope of recent memory Nikita Khrushchev was boasting the communists would outproduce U.S. agriculture in the foreseeable future. Now he has changed his tune. He predicts the communists will outproduce U.S. industry in the next decade.

One reason for the switch in boasts is the miserable failure of communist agriculture this year wherever communist states exist. Collectivization in farm operations never has worked well for the Reds, but the most disastrous collapse of all could not have come at a worse time for Khrushchev in terms of his propaganda war.

Like a professional politico, therefore, he seeks to divert attention from the ludicrous farm boast by talking about some other realm of economic competition.

But there is another reason for his optimistic prediction in the heart of Romani's steel-producing region. Khrushchev is worried about the growing economic strength of the West in general and the European Common Market in particular. So are his colleagues in the satellite countries of eastern Europe.

The West is not without its economic problems, some of them created by the success of the Common Market, which has surpassed the expectations even of its original planners. The United States itself is becoming increasingly aware of its stake in those problems, and debate over the proper solution of the problems may give Khrushchev temporary satisfaction.

But more immediately important to the Kremlin and its communist-bloc associates is the challenge posed to the whole Red ideology by the vast and rapid changes taking place in the world's economy.

With the agriculture failures and the long history of communist failure to achieve its total industrial goals to guide him, Khrushchev must realize that discouragement and apathy could quickly overtake his communist domain, especially among the satellites filled with unhappy subjects, and depress even more the will to win the economic fight against the free world.

The Romanian boast, therefore, was probably no more than just that—a pep talk to bolster the spirits of downcast comrades.

They will need more than pep talks, however, to make his boast come true.

Prospect In Laos Isn't Bright

Less than an hour after the formation of a coalition unity government in Laos, the pro-Communist Prince Souphanouvong, one member of the troika regime that is to rule this strife-torn country, unleased an attack on the United States for maintaining troops in neighboring Thailand and South Viet Nam.

This in itself is no surprise but it points up dramatically the treacherous road which lies ahead for any government by committee.

An outward impression of stability has been restored in Laos. The Soviet Union is very much impressed with it, or so it says. U.S. doubtless feels that coalition government is not the best possible solution but is, realistically, the best that can be hammered out. Hence, we are ready to resume large-scale economic aid.

With a leftist, a neutralist and a rightist in command of the government, Laos ostensibly is to establish a status of neutrality. To achieve it, all foreign troops are to be withdrawn from the tiny kingdom.

Americans will be withdrawn, to be sure, but no one will know for sure whether the North Vietnamese do a complete fadeout and that's why we will not move any farther than the borders of Thailand and South Viet Nam. We simply don't have that much confidence that all pledges will be carried out.

Does the troika have any reasonable chance for success? We doubt it. The Chinese Communists, who have been agitating the trouble in Southeast Asia, certainly don't want it to work. The Soviets will support it as long as the pro-Communists are able to exercise more than their just share of influence.

We sincerely hope the new arrangement is the answer to the Laotian crisis and we don't criticize President Kennedy for expressing hope that it will serve as a guide for the solution of other problems between East and West.

We are frankly skeptical.

Water Travel In 1980?

Revelation that the United States has undertaken preliminary soundings on the possibility of building a new waterway between the Atlantic and Pacific oceans to replace or supplement the Panama Canal seems a bit incongruous in the dawn of the space age.

The motive for the soundings is that the historic old canal, built in 1903, is expected to be obsolete or hopelessly jammed with traffic by 1980. This somehow dims the visions passed on to us by our space scientists that we will be able to travel to the moon by 1970.

Designs for space stations to be used as refueling, repair and rest stops already are on the drawing boards. Only recently special power units to enable men to leave their ships and stations in space and soar about on their own were modeled for public view. Some especially far-out scientists have even set their sights beyond the moon.

Is it possible, then, that a decade after the moon has been forced to surrender its mysteries to earthlings we will still be going from one ocean to another via water? Won't it be commonplace to transport people and products from the Atlantic to the Pacific or vise versa within minutes after pressing a button in a control center?

Perhaps the answer to these questions lies in the space dream itself. Maybe the pace of life will have picked up so much speed by 1980 the availability of a low boat to somewhere will be even more desirable than it is now.

Laos Slumbers On

By Tom Lambert

VIENTIANE, LAOS

The Laotian truck driver pulled his machine to a halt on the Avenue of a Million Elephants as the single traffic light in this city of 60,000 glowed red.

The driver squinted and wiped his forehead as the humid afternoon sun glowered down on him, closed his eyes, rested his head on his forearm across the steering wheel and quietly fell asleep.

In the city's afternoon market on Samsenthai Ave., its other main street, a Laotian silk merchant sleepily climbed up on the counter alongside his shimmering stock of sari like skirts, stretched out and began snoring.

Throughout this city, capital of this Alice in Wonderland state, where thousands of people still believe the earth is flat, dragons exist and amulets can turn aside bullets, those were typical reactions to the end of the civil war and formation of a Communist-menaced coalition government for Laos.

The announcement of a new government seemed unnoticed by the hundred people thronging the market to examine or haggle over trays of tropical fruit, U.S.-made toothpaste, great scarlet chunks of raw meat, dried and highly odorous fish.

IT SEEMED unnoticed also by the saffron-robbed monks strolling near the great gold-leafed Buddhist obelisk at the east end of the city, each prudently carrying an umbrella against the fitful monsoon rains which steam and muddy the streets.

Soldiers at the royal - crested Gates of the King's pinkish white summer palace dozed in sentry boxes and a pedicab driver took a quiet snooze under a banyan tree.

It was the same around the morning market, near the towering black obelisk in the city's center, on the western outskirts of the city and with shoppers dawdling along rutted streets past shops raucous with nasal whine and tin can clatter from loudspeakers blaring Laotian state music broadcasts.

Actually, no other reaction should have been expected because thousands of Laos' estimated 2 million people never have known —or cared particularly—that a civil war was going on, that talks about formation of a coalition government were under way or that they and their country were subjects in Washington and Moscow, respectively for concern and capture.

Most Laotians wouldn't recognize a Communist or what he stood for if he wrapped himself in a red flag, introduced himself, handed out hammers and sickles and started preaching Marxism-Leninism.

This capital, this country and its indolent, unbothered, childlike people, almost have to be seen to be believed. Terms such as state, government, diligence, public opinion, neutrality are only words to most Laotians. Food, shelter and no trouble with anyone seem their basic and only desires.

UNDOUBTEDLY it is one of the most backward nations in Asia, a lush, humid-smelling land of lettuce-green rice fields and jungled mountains and a black monument to the ill-starred French colonial policy.

Laos has not a single mile of railroad, less than a handful of Laotian doctors or engineers, roads which all but disappear in the monsoon season, a painful lack of civil servants, no inter-city telephone communications, almost none of the technical necessities of a 1900, let alone a 1962 state.

The United States has pumped possibly $300 millions into Laos in indirect aid since 1954 plus unannounced millions in arms. Much of the former went to corrupt Laotians through import and currency swindles. Soldiers of the pro-Western forces abandoned their American guns when the North Vietnamese and the Communist-directed Laotians made threatening gestures.

And despite the formation of a coalition government — the Communists certainly will attempt to make further inroads here.

This And That

"Make mine vanilla" is still the most frequent call for ice cream, but just barely. There are some 170 other ice cream flavors vying with vanilla, but vanilla leads the parade 52 per cent of the time. Chocolate is way behind as a second place choice at ice cream stands, at 19 per cent.

Green Lake, at Spicer, Minn., claims the distinction of having "the purest water" of any lake on the North American continent. It is 98.99 per cent pure.

On a dark, moonless night, a white light can be seen farther than any other color—and on a bright night, red can be seen farther.

Only The Beginning

Root Of Medicare Issue Goes Deep

By Rowland Evans Jr.

WASHINGTON

A bold gambler might bet on passage of President Kennedy's Medical Care bill this year, if he could get odds of approximately 20-1.

Strangely enough, the Administration's assiduous cultivation of public opinion on the issue has not seemed to build support for it in Congress in proportion to energy expended. Between now and mid-September, when the 87th Congress is expected to quit for the year, the prospect of the King-Anderson bill might brighten, but just why or how no one seems to know.

The root of the controversy goes deep. It is emotional. It has been badly confused by scare words and scare slogans, such as "socialized medicine," the "sacred" doctor-patient relationship, the "intrusion" of the Federal government into the doctor's waiting room and so on.

THE CHARACTER of the opposition, as President Kennedy has indicated many times, does not always do justice to the character of the issue itself. The American Medical Association may never have opposed Social Security, as it claims not to have done, but its loudest voice—the AMA Journal—has been hostile to the concept of Social Security and almost all other welfare proposals with the predictable regularity of a dripping facuet. This intransigeance dilutes the force of the argument against the President's proposal.

In truth, the proposal to finance hospital and nursing-home care for the roughly 13,000,000 citizens who are 65 or older, and are covered by the Social Security Act, is certainly far-reaching. It is an answer to a fact—the fact that geriatrics, the science of prolonging life, has been astonishingly successful.

At the height of the Roman Empire, life expectancy was about 20 in the City of Rome, about 30 elsewhere.

LIFE EXPECTANCY stayed in that general range for countless generations, then started in the late 19th century to climb, pushed up by new drugs, better medicine, sanitation, more leisure, and other advances of civilization. Today a girl baby born in the United States has a life expectancy of 73 years—and thousands live 10 and 20 years longer than that.

This is the fact, and it has given rise to universal agreement that we need some kind of special federal government help to take care of the health needs of the aging population—17 million or more who are now 65 or over, whose earning power is exhausted and whose savings in many cases are thin. The dispute is not over the need, but how to supply it.

The Eisenhower approach, and the approach of many moderate and conservative politicians, was government support of private insurance plans, backed up by various kinds of federal aid to take care of catastrophic illness and help the payment of premiums.

THE KENNEDY approach, and the approach of liberals in both political parties, is to broaden the Social Security system, raise the Social Security tax and set a schedule of hospital and other health services available to everyone covered by Social Security.

Of the 17 million now 65 or older, some 13 million are in the Social Security system. If the Kennedy bill passed, the 4 million not covered by Social Security would have to get their help elsewhere. Various amendments would fill this gap, and the Administration would certainly accept any one of them.

What the President and Abraham Ribicoff, secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, will not compromise on is the Social Security principle for financing the health care.

The Social Security insurance system was adopted by Congress in 1935 as a limited retirement plan. The progression of the plan from its original base is interesting. In 1939, survivors' benefits were added; in 1950, the level of benefits was raised, and still other beneficiaries added; in 1954 the farmers were brought in; in 1956 disability benefits were added; in 1958 and 1960, benefits were extended still further.

To a fiscal conservative, this progression of the limited retirement plan adopted 27 years ago is frightening. He does not rely on the cost estimates of the King-Anderson bill, despite the fact that the Social Security administrators have not erred yet in their estimates of cost during the ever-widening circle of the system.

He fears that King-Anderson costs might swell out of all proportion and damage the integrity of the Social Security find, which today is regarded as fiscally sound. He doubts whether there will be enough hospitals and nursing homes to go around.

THE COMBINED payroll tax without medical care is already slated to be close to 10 per cent by 1968, without any addition, and the fiscal conservative wonders whether this isn't scraping the roof.

Conservative Congressmen are inclined to discount the AMA's argument about "socialized medicine," but they stand four-square with the AMA on the larger question of big government. They're against it, and further, the conservatives tend to represent rural districts, where health costs for the aged are more easily handled on a local level.

The liberals see the other side of the coin. The estimate cost from the program—$1.2 billion the first year, $1.6 billion the second —is accepted without question. On a Social Security fund now totalling $22.2 billion, the cost argument does not impress them.

The politicians supporting the King-Anderson bill are concentrated in urban areas, where population pressure swells and where the bill has become an article of faith. They believe in Social Security, scoff at the fears of big government and discount the AMA as a fringe pressure group with a voice far out of proportion to its numbers or its representative character.

THE FISCAL conservatives, however, control the House Ways and Means Committee, where the bill is now undergoing its final test of the year, and may defeat it in committee by as much as 15 to 10. If the bill did emerge, and went to the floor, it probably would pass, because the issue has top-billing for the Congressional election campaign. Last winter the Republican National Committee suddenly woke up to the political potency of medical care and sent out an SOS to its senior citizen division.

What Price Liberty?

Strike Puts Kennedy On Hot Spot

WASHINGTON (AP) — What price liberty?

"Eternal vigilance" is the classic answer.

But there are other answers, and one of the most important may be this: If you expect to preserve your freedom of action, be careful how you exercise it. Be statesmanlike about it; don't rock the boat.

The flight engineers' strike against Eastern Air Lines may be a case in point. Nobody thus far has denied that the engineers had a right to strike Eastern, though a federal judge did restrain them at least temporarily from striking Pan American.

The procedures provided by law had all been run through during two years of negotiations. The flight engineers felt perfectly free to strike.

But what a dubious time to take what President Kennedy denounced as irresponsible action!

Kennedy's crackdown on U.S. Steel and other steel companies, after which they rescinded a price increase, was still reverberating. Angry businessmen, and many others, were watching to see what Kennedy would do if and when a labor union stuck its neck out. Would he hold the scales of justice evenly? Would he be as rough with labor as with management?

Thus the engineers, by exercising their right to strike, tended to put Kennedy on a hot spot; and this is a risky thing to do to a man as powerful as a president of the United States.

Regardless of the merits of labor-management disputes, if rights are insisted upon to the hilt, those rights may suffer erosion.

Take freedom of speech, for illustration. The First Amendment says Congress shall make no law "abridging the freedom of speech." This is a seemingly flat prohibition, with no ifs, ands, or buts.

The doctrine is that freedom of speech may be limited if the general good demands. Nobody, according to a famous aphorism, has the right to shout "fire" in a crowded theater.

No one would argue, of course, that a comparatively minor strike such as the flight engineers' carries anything like the menace of shouting fire in a theater. But in a complex industrial society the right to strike and the right to raise prices may hurt a lot of innocent bystanders.

It could be that one day—if labor and management are injudicious enough—Congress might see fit to pass new laws designed to protect the bystanders.

As for Kennedy, it is difficult to see how he can win if the flight engineers strike is prolonged. If he went to Congress for new legislation to end it, he would be accused of curtailing American freedoms; if he let the engineers get away with is, he would be charged with favoritsm to labor.

Make-Believe Words

By Raymond Moley

When Mr. Kennedy asked Congress to lend $100 million to the United Nations, he said that this would make the U.N. "solvent." Since I've never heard that solvency could be achieved by borrowing more money, I was prepared for the great exercise in semantic make-believe unfolded in the Yale speech. For this attempt to change the meaning of words to the advantage of the party in power is not new. All that is news is the prestidigitator.

In 1939, when Mr. Kennedy was 22 years of age, Washington was witnessing a big investigation of national economic policies by the Temporary National Economic Committee. Its major figures were liberals whose purpose was to divest our economic life of what they then, like the President now, considered to be the "cliches of our forebears."

THERE WAS prepared for their confidential use a memorandum on semantics by Stuart Chase.

Arthur Krock secured a copy of the document, "Standardizing Terminology, or First Aid to the Layman," and commented upon it in the New York Times. I secured a copy and in an article in the Saturday Evening Post under date of April 6, 1940, noted that its purpose was to supply a number of palatable definitions for old, unpleasant economic facts.

Basically, its purpose was to get people to believe that "spending" was "investment" and that "thrift" meant "economic stagnation." The following are some excerpts:

The memorandum boldly began with the statement: " 'Savings' is a 'good' word, tenderly regarded on the folkways." It explained that "if 'savings' are not invested, they become 'hoardings,' or idle money." . . . "Debt" is likewise "a very 'bad' word on the folkways."

Yet, Mr. Chase said, it is "important to keep 'debt' and 'investment' closely associated . . . Otherwise you are going to get stump speeches on the horrors of government debt and the sublimities of private investment . . .

And now, warming to his subject, Mr. Chase announced: " 'Spending' is a 'bad' word. Avoid it like a copperhead. Talk about 'government running expenses' and 'government plant' . . .

"In connection with 'spending,' 'economy' will be talked about . . . 'Economy' is a beautiful word. Visions of Uncle Abner, rolling balls of waste string. Economy, however, means a 'loss' to somebody else — loss of 'sales' or 'wages.'

"Keep 'economy' and 'loss' firmly associated. . . . And so Mr. Chase suggested that it "might be better to use two relatives: 'A rapidly expanding economy' and 'a slowly expanding economy.' "

Now we find in the Yale speech an almost exact restatement of what was current in the liberalism of the 1930s.

THESE ATTEMPTS to change definitions are now revived. They are, according to the Hale declaration, "old records, long playing, left over from the middle 30s." But these new 1962 records sing the same song, only in a quite different setting. It is the President who is guilty of "cliches." It is he who is reviving a myth.

To show how closely Mr. Kennedy is following the T.N.E.C. line, consider this Yale paragraph:

"The administrative budget," (which is a simple statement of income and outgo in dollars) "omits our special trust funds and the effect they have on our economy. It neglects changes in assets and inventories . . . And worst of all it cannot distinguish between operating expenditures and long-term investments."

The point he makes here is also a revival of an idea urged upon President Roosevelt by some of the predecessors of the Kennedy advisers. They told him that the way to balance the budget would be to put on the plus side as "assets" the estimated value of things which the government had built, such as highways, dams, parks, etc. Even the Washington Monument and the Lincoln Memorial might be used to "balance" the budget under this plan.

Roosevelt privately accepted this and made some comments about it in public. But wiser heads in the administration, including his budget director, dissuaded him from actually reconstructing his budget on this play. He also toyed with the "five-year" or "cyclical" budget which seems already well on the way to adoption in 1962.

IT SHOULD be added that President Kennedy's suggestions that the trust funds should be used in calculating the budget is the most absurd of all these suggestions. For the trust funds are not like money in the bank. They are federal IOU's which must be redeemed when needed out of current tax collections. They are not assets. They are liabilities, no matter how you change the words.

And now we have Walter Lippmann resurrecting another cliche of the 1930s, the term "reflating our economy," which then was designed to make deficits more palatable.

Roger Blough, who listened to the Yale speech, might have learned from this eloquent exercise in make - believe how he could have avoided his trouble with the President. Under this new government philosophy he could have kept the price of a ton of steel where it was, but could have delivered only 1,800 pounds.

Khrushchev Changes His Boast

Within the scope of recent memory Nikita Khrushchev was boasting the communists would outproduce U.S. agriculture in the foreseeable future. Now he has changed his tune. He predicts the communists will outproduce U.S. industry in the next decade.

One reason for the switch in boasts is the miserable failure of communist agriculture this year wherever communist states exist. Collectivization in farm operations never has worked well for the Reds, but the most disastrous collapse of all could not have come at a worse time for Khrushchev in terms of his propaganda war.

Like a professional politico, therefore, he seeks to divert attention from the ludicrous farm boast by talking about some other realm of economic competition.

But there is another reason for his optimistic prediction in the heart of Romani's steel-producing region. Khrushchev is worried about the growing economic strength of the West in general and the European Common Market in particular. So are his colleagues in the satellite countries of eastern Europe.

The West is not without its economic problems, some of them created by the success of the Common Market, which has surpassed the expectations even of its original planners. The United States itself is becoming increasingly aware of its stake in those problems, and debate over the proper solution of the problems may give Khrushchev temporary satisfaction.

But more immediately important to the Kremlin and its communist-bloc associates is the challenge posed to the whole Red ideology by the vast and rapid changes taking place in the world's economy.

With the agriculture failures and the long history of communist failure to achieve its total industrial goals to guide him, Khrushchev must realize that discouragement and apathy could quickly overtake his communist domain, especially among the satellites filled with unhappy subjects, and depress even more the will to win the economic fight against the free world.

The Romanian boast, therefore, was probably no more than just that—a pep talk to bolster the spirits of downcast comrades.

They will need more than pep talks, however, to make his boast come true.

Prospect In Laos Isn't Bright

Less than an hour after the formation of a coalition unity government in Laos, the pro-Communist Prince Souphanouvong, one member of the troika regime that is to rule this strife-torn country, unleased an attack on the United States for maintaining troops in neighboring Thailand and South Viet Nam.

This in itself is no surprise but it points up dramatically the treacherous road which lies ahead for any government by committee.

An outward impression of stability has been restored in Laos. The Soviet Union is very much impressed with it, or so it says. U.S. doubtless feels that coalition government is not the best possible solution but is, realistically, the best that can be hammered out. Hence, we are ready to resume large-scale economic aid.

With a leftist, a neutralist and a rightist in command of the government, Laos ostensibly is to establish a status of neutrality. To achieve it, all foreign troops are to be withdrawn from the tiny kingdom.

Americans will be withdrawn, to be sure, but no one will know for sure whether the North Vietnamese do a complete fadeout and that's why we will not move any farther than the borders of Thailand and South Viet Nam. We simply don't have that much confidence that all pledges will be carried out.

Does the troika have any reasonable chance for success? We doubt it. The Chinese Communists, who have been agitating the trouble in Southeast Asia, certainly don't want it to work. The Soviets will support it as long as the pro-Communists are able to exercise more than their just share of influence.

We sincerely hope the new arrangement is the answer to the Laotian crisis and we don't criticize President Kennedy for expressing hope that it will serve as a guide for the solution of other problems between East and West.

We are frankly skeptical.

Water Travel In 1980?

Revelation that the United States has undertaken preliminary soundings on the possibility of building a new waterway between the Atlantic and Pacific oceans to replace or supplement the Panama Canal seems a bit incongruous in the dawn of the space age.

The motive for the soundings is that the historic old canal, built in 1903, is expected to be obsolete or hopelessly jammed with traffic by 1980. This somehow dims the visions passed on to us by our space scientists that we will be able to travel to the moon by 1970.

Designs for space stations to be used as refueling, repair and rest stops already are on the drawing boards. Only recently special power units to enable men to leave their ships and stations in space and soar about on their own were modeled for public view. Some especially far-out scientists have even set their sights beyond the moon.

Is it possible, then, that a decade after the moon has been forced to surrender its mysteries to earthlings we will still be going from one ocean to another via water? Won't it be commonplace to transport people and products from the Atlantic to the Pacific or vise versa within minutes after pressing a button in a control center?

Perhaps the answer to these questions lies in the space dream itself. Maybe the pace of life will have picked up so much speed by 1980 the availability of a low boat to somewhere will be even more desirable than it is now.

Laos Slumbers On

By Tom Lambert

VIENTIANE, LAOS

The Laotian truck driver pulled his machine to a halt on the Avenue of a Million Elephants as the single traffic light in this city of 60,000 glowed red.

The driver squinted and wiped his forehead as the humid afternoon sun glowered down on him, closed his eyes, rested his head on his forearm across the steering wheel and quietly fell asleep.

In the city's afternoon market on Samsenthai Ave., its other main street, a Laotian silk merchant sleepily climbed up on the counter alongside his shimmering stock of sari like skirts, stretched out and began snoring.

Throughout this city, capital of this Alice in Wonderland state, where thousands of people still believe the earth is flat, dragons exist and amulets can turn aside bullets, those were typical reactions to the end of the civil war and formation of a Communist-menaced coalition government for Laos.

The announcement of a new government seemed unnoticed by the hundred people thronging the market to examine or haggle over trays of tropical fruit, U.S.-made toothpaste, great scarlet chunks of raw meat, dried and highly odorous fish.

IT SEEMED unnoticed also by the saffron-robbed monks strolling near the great gold-leafed Buddhist obelisk at the east end of the city, each prudently carrying an umbrella against the fitful monsoon rains which steam and muddy the streets.

Soldiers at the royal - crested Gates of the King's pinkish white summer palace dozed in sentry boxes and a pedicab driver took a quiet snooze under a banyan tree.

It was the same around the morning market, near the towering black obelisk in the city's center, on the western outskirts of the city and with shoppers dawdling along rutted streets past shops raucous with nasal whine and tin can clatter from loudspeakers blaring Laotian state music broadcasts.

Actually, no other reaction should have been expected because thousands of Laos' estimated 2 million people never have known —or cared particularly—that a civil war was going on, that talks about formation of a coalition government were under way or that they and their country were subjects in Washington and Moscow, respectively for concern and capture.

Most Laotians wouldn't recognize a Communist or what he stood for if he wrapped himself in a red flag, introduced himself, handed out hammers and sickles and started preaching Marxism-Leninism.

This capital, this country and its indolent, unbothered, childlike people, almost have to be seen to be believed. Terms such as state, government, diligence, public opinion, neutrality are only words to most Laotians. Food, shelter and no trouble with anyone seem their basic and only desires.

UNDOUBTEDLY it is one of the most backward nations in Asia, a lush, humid-smelling land of lettuce-green rice fields and jungled mountains and a black monument to the ill-starred French colonial policy.

Laos has not a single mile of railroad, less than a handful of Laotian doctors or engineers, roads which all but disappear in the monsoon season, a painful lack of civil servants, no inter-city telephone communications, almost none of the technical necessities of a 1900, let alone a 1962 state.

The United States has pumped possibly $300 millions into Laos in indirect aid since 1954 plus unannounced millions in arms. Much of the former went to corrupt Laotians through import and currency swindles. Soldiers of the pro-Western forces abandoned their American guns when the North Vietnamese and the Communist-directed Laotians made threatening gestures.

And despite the formation of a coalition government — the Communists certainly will attempt to make further inroads here.

This And That

"Make mine vanilla" is still the most frequent call for ice cream, but just barely. There are some 170 other ice cream flavors vying with vanilla, but vanilla leads the parade 52 per cent of the time. Chocolate is way behind as a second place choice at ice cream stands, at 19 per cent.

Green Lake, at Spicer, Minn., claims the distinction of having "the purest water" of any lake on the North American continent. It is 98.99 per cent pure.

Only The Beginning

Root Of Medicare Issue Goes Deep

By Rowland Evans Jr.

WASHINGTON

A bold gambler might bet on passage of President Kennedy's Medical Care bill this year, if he could get odds of approximately 20-1.

Strangely enough, the Administration's assiduous cultivation of public opinion on the issue has not seemed to build support for it in Congress in proportion to energy expended. Between now and mid-September, when the 87th Congress is expected to quit for the year, the prospect of the King-Anderson bill might brighten, but just why or how no one seems to know.

The root of the controversy goes deep. It is emotional. It has been badly confused by scare words and scare slogans, such as "socialized medicine," the "sacred" doctor-patient relationship, the "intrusion" of the Federal government into the doctor's waiting room and so on.

THE CHARACTER of the opposition, as President Kennedy has indicated many times, does not always do justice to the character of the issue itself. The American Medical Association may never have opposed Social Security, as it claims not to have done, but its loudest voice—the AMA Journal—has been hostile to the concept of Social Security and almost all other welfare proposals with the predictable regularity of a dripping facuet. This intransigeance dilutes the force of the argument against the President's proposal.

In truth, the proposal to finance hospital and nursing-home care for the roughly 13,000,000 citizens who are 65 or older, and are covered by the Social Security Act, is certainly far-reaching. It is an answer to a fact—the fact that geriatrics, the science of prolonging life, has been astonishingly successful.

At the height of the Roman Empire, life expectancy was about 20 in the City of Rome, about 30 elsewhere.

LIFE EXPECTANCY stayed in that general range for countless generations, then started in the late 19th century to climb, pushed up by new drugs, better medicine, sanitation, more leisure, and other advances of civilization. Today a girl baby born in the United States has a life expectancy of 73 years—and thousands live 10 and 20 years longer than that.

This is the fact, and it has given rise to universal agreement that we need some kind of special federal government help to take care of the health needs of the aging population—17 million or more who are now 65 or over, whose earning power is exhausted and whose savings in many cases are thin. The dispute is not over the need, but how to supply it.

The Eisenhower approach, and the approach of many moderate and conservative politicians, was government support of private insurance plans, backed up by various kinds of federal aid to take care of catastrophic illness and help the payment of premiums.

THE KENNEDY approach, and the approach of liberals in both political parties, is to broaden the Social Security system, raise the Social Security tax and set a schedule of hospital and other health services available to everyone covered by Social Security.

Of the 17 million now 65 or older, some 13 million are in the Social Security system. If the Kennedy bill passed, the 4 million not covered by Social Security would have to get their help elsewhere. Various amendments would fill this gap, and the Administration would certainly accept any one of them.

What the President and Abraham Ribicoff, secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, will not compromise on is the Social Security principle for financing the health care.

The Social Security insurance system was adopted by Congress in 1935 as a limited retirement plan. The progression of the plan from its original base is interesting. In 1939, survivors' benefits were added; in 1950, the level of benefits was raised, and still other beneficiaries added; in 1954 the farmers were brought in; in 1956 disability benefits were added; in 1958 and 1960, benefits were extended still further.

To a fiscal conservative, this progression of the limited retirement plan adopted 27 years ago is frightening. He does not rely on the cost estimates of the King-Anderson bill, despite the fact that the Social Security administrators have not erred yet in their estimates of cost during the ever-widening circle of the system.

He fears that King-Anderson costs might swell out of all proportion and damage the integrity of the Social Security find, which today is regarded as fiscally sound. He doubts whether there will be enough hospitals and nursing homes to go around.

THE COMBINED payroll tax without medical care is already slated to be close to 10 per cent by 1968, without any addition, and the fiscal conservative wonders whether this isn't scraping the roof.

Conservative Congressmen are inclined to discount the AMA's argument about "socialized medicine," but they stand four-square with the AMA on the larger question of big government. They're against it, and further, the conservatives tend to represent rural districts, where health costs for the aged are more easily handled on a local level.

The liberals see the other side of the coin. The estimate cost from the program—$1.2 billion the first year, $1.6 billion the second —is accepted without question. On a Social Security fund now totalling $22.2 billion, the cost argument does not impress them.

The politicians supporting the King-Anderson bill are concentrated in urban areas, where population pressure swells and where the bill has become an article of faith. They believe in Social Security, scoff at the fears of big government and discount the AMA as a fringe pressure group with a voice far out of proportion to its numbers or its representative character.

THE FISCAL conservatives, however, control the House Ways and Means Committee, where the bill is now undergoing its final test of the year, and may defeat it in committee by as much as 15 to 10. If the bill did emerge, and went to the floor, it probably would pass, because the issue has top-billing for the Congressional election campaign. Last winter the Republican National Committee suddenly woke up to the political potency of medical care and sent out an SOS to its senior citizen division.

Pro-Red Calls U.S. Units In Thailand Peace Threat

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — A pro-Communist Cabinet minister denounced the presence of U.S. troops in Thailand Sunday shortly after Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma turned leadership of his day-old coalition over to his Red-leaning half-brother.

Information Minister Phoumi Vongvichit called a news conference as soon as Souvanna's plane had left for France. Claiming to speak for the regime, he denounced the U.S. troops as a threat to "the peace and neutrality of Laos."

"The government of national union protests against the American troop landings in Thailand," declared Vongvichit, a member of Prince Souphanouvong's pro-Communist Pathet Lao faction.

It was not known whether Souvanna knew Vongvichit was going to issue the statement. The neutralist premier had shrugged off the dispatch of U.S. troops to neighboring Thailand as a precautionary measure.

The official minutes of Sunday's initial Cabinet session, over which Souvanna presided, carried no mention of U.S. troops.

U.S. officials had no immediate comment. The United States has said repeatedly the U.S. troops, landed after the Pathet Lao made big military gains in northern Laos, had come at Thai request to protect Thailand, not Laos.

Vongvichit said later the Cabinet did discuss extending recognition to the Communist governments of Red China, East Germany and Poland. He said no decision was taken.

Any foreign policy decision can be vetoed by any of the three factions represented in the coalition — neutralist, pro-Communist and right-wing.

Laos now has diplomatic relations with Nationalist China, but a Red Chinese mission has been operating for some time at Souphanouvong's headquarters in Khang Khay.

Before leaving to attend a daughter's wedding in Paris, Souvanna cautioned his half-brother not to stir things up while he was gone.

"I am counting on you," said the neutralist premier, kissing Souphanouvong on both cheeks. "I do not want to come back earlier."

After the premier departed, Souphanouvong took off for Khang Khay, saying he wanted to clear up some administrative matters.

Before Souvanna's departure, the Cabinet:

1. Proclaimed an immediate cease-fire throughout Laos, thus ending—in effect at least—the 22-month civil war during which the Pathet Lao has taken over about two-thirds of the kingdom.

2. Formed a delegation representing all three factions to go to Geneva and sign the 14-nation accord on Laos guaranteeing the country's neutrality. Souvanna is expected to attend the final session of the conference which the Western powers want to reconvene July 2.

Hearing's Set July 12 In Beaver Falls Death

BEAVER FALLS — A preliminary hearing on a murder charge is scheduled July 12 at 7:30 p.m. for Lawrence James Smith, 20, of Aliquippa, accused of the fatal stabbing of William Morris Jr., 18, Friday night in a parking lot at the Firemen's Hall, where a record hop was being held.

Authorities said Smith has been chaged with murder generally and the degree of the alleged offense will be fixed later.

Morris died at Providence Hospital about 90 minutes after he allegedly was stabbed in the throat. Police quoted witnesses as saying the two fought over a girl.

Mediation Scheduled In Walkout At Kobuta

Resuming negotiations for the first time since June 7, both labor and management are scheduled to meet with federal and state mediators Wednesday at Pittsburgh in an attempt to work out a settlement to a 54-day-old strike at the Kobuta Plant of the Koppers Co. along the Ohio River in Beaver County.

The walkout came May 1 as the climax of negotiations over a new contract. The 615 employes are members of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International Union.

A wartime producer of synthetic rubber, the Kobuta plant now turns out plastics.

Cook several slices of bacon until crisp and then crumble the strips; add both the bacon fat and the bacon crumbles to freshly cooked spinach, fresh or frozen.

Work Detail Planned By Wellsville Legion

William (Buck) Powell, commander of Wellsville American Legion Post 70, said today the post will not meet tonight at the Eagles Lodge as originally announced, but the members are requested to meet at 7 p.m. at the post home to form a work detail.

The post home was damaged heavily by fire Tuesday. The hospital section at the rear was not damaged and will be cleaned to serve as a temporary headquarters.

The entire attic and second floor were gutted by the flames and heavy water damage resulted to the first floor. Francis House, adjutant, said the loss is partially covered by insurance.

Death Claims Woman At 74

Mrs. Nell Anderson McGillivray, 300 W. 4th St., former chairman of the East Liverpool Women's Republican Club, died Sunday at 8:15 p. m. at City Hospital after a brief illness. She was 74.

She was born in Salineville to the late John Anderson and Mary Anderson and lived here virtually all her life.

She was a member of the First Methodist Church, its Susannah Wesley Circle, the Women's Society of Christian Service and the Wesleyan Class. She also belonged to the Renaissance Club, the United Mothers Club, Ceramic Rebekah Lodge 286 and Pa Mir Zuanna 43, Ladies of the Orient.

She was past president of the Council of United Church Women of East Liverpool.

She is survived by two sons, Donald McGillivrary of East Liverpool and Richard R. McGillivray of Parma Heights, and two grandchildren. Her husband, John D. McGillivray, preceded her in death.

Services will be held Wednesday at 10:30 a.m. at the Dawson Funeral Home by the Rev. John L. Clark. Burial will be in Riverview Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home Tuesday.

Body Of Man Found In Car On Parking Lot

A man found dead in his parked auto this morning at 9:54 in Steubenville has been identified tentatively as Ralph A. Bender, 37, of Wellsville, Steubenville police reported.

Police discovered the body in checking reports that a dead man was in a car in a city-operated parking lot in the 100 block of N. 3rd St.

Police found two parking tickets inside the car and another on the windshield, indicating the car had been parked in the lot since Saturday.

Upon checking the man's wallet and auto license number, police tentatively identified him as Mr. Bender, and the papers listed an address on 10th St., Wellsville.

Dr. John P. Smarrella, Jefferson County coroner, was notified. The body was taken to the Mosti Funeral Home in Steubenville. Wellsville police also were notified.

Mrs. George Steele

Mrs. Ethel Peace Steele, 69, wife of George Steele, 3292 St. Clair Ave., died Sunday evening at the North Shore Hospital in Miami, Fla., following a brief illness.

Her husband is the owner of the Columbiana County Finance Co. on Dresden Ave. Mrs. Steele was vacationing at their winter home in Miami.

Born in Worsop, Nottinghamshire, England, she lived in East Liverpool 45 years. She was a member of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church.

In addition to her husband, she leaves a son, Kenneth Steele of East Liverpool; a daughter, Miss Phyllis Steele of Miami, and four grandchildren.

The Dawson Funeral Home is arranging services.

Mrs. Frances Egli

LISBON — Mrs. Frances R. Egli, 92, who resided with her son, Dr. Edward B. Egli, 222 W. Lincoln Way, died Sunday at 8:15 p. m. at Salem City Hospital. She had been in failing health three years.

Born Oct. 26, 1869, in Glenwood, Iowa, a daughter of Luke and Lucinda Hartman Wiles, she came to Lisbon in 1933. She was a member of the First Christian Church and the Order of Eastern Star. Her husband, Ernest E. Egli, died in 1907.

Surviving are another son, Paul Egli, of Staten Island, N. Y.; three daughters, Mrs. Alfred Deghton of Sioux City, Iowa, and Mrs. Lester Cornett and Mrs. Lester Johnson, both of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., two grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Services will be held Wednesday at 8 a. m. at the Eells-Leggett Funeral Home by the Rev. William Spangler. Burial will be at Onawa, Iowa.

Friends may call at the funeral home Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Carry Garrett

Mrs. Mechia H. Garrett, wife of Carry Garrett, 801 Green Ln., died Sunday at 1:30 p.m. at City Hospital following a long illness. She was 57.

Mrs. Garrett was born in Schilling, W. Va., May 30, 1905. She lived in this vicinity 20 years.

In addition to her husband, she is survived by a step-daughter, Mrs. Lawrence (Edna) Bickel of East Liverpool, and three grandchildren.

Services will be held Wednesday at 2 p.m. at the Martin Funeral Home by the Rev. Albert J. Rodenhausen, pastor of the First Baptist Church. Burial will be in Columbiana County Memorial Park.

Friends may call at the funeral home Tuesday afternoon and evening.

Sidney Manypenny

Sidney Wendell Manypenny, 58, of Chicago, a native of New Cumberland, died in his sleep Sunday morning at his home.

He was born July 5, 1903, to the late Samuel Manypenny and Mary Jane Scott Manypenny. He served in World War II with the 1st Infantry. He was a member of American Legion Post 114 of Newell.

He leaves a brother, Robert Manypenny of New Cumberland, and two sisters, Mrs. Sadye Knapp and Mrs. Alberta Dickey, both of Newell. He was preceded in death by two older brothers, Harry Manypenny and Archie Manypenny.

The Fields Funeral Home in New Cumberland is arranging services.

Bannow Dies At 65

EASTON, Conn. (AP)—Rudolph Bannow, 65, former president of the National Association of Manufacturers, died Saturday. Bannow, president of the Bridgeport Machine Co., was stricken with a heart attack two months ago.

Alcoholism

help. It inevitably becomes a family problem, says Mrs. Marty Mann, executive director of the National Council of Alcoholism. She believes it involves a majority of families, if one includes cousins, in-laws, the "entire constellation" of a family.

3. Alcoholics now are seeking treatment at an earlier age, many in their late 20s or 30s, compared with an average age in the 40s and 50s a few years back. Earlier treatment improves chances of success.

4. Physicians have a few more helpful techniques of treatment, and more understanding, too. States have established 158 clinics to treat alcoholism.

5. Hidden alcoholics, especially women, are coming forward, recognizing their sickness, seeking help.

6. Industry and unions are increasingly and successfully dealing with alcoholism as a sickness, no moral degeneracy.

7. National population is increasing, but the number of alcoholics per 100,000 population possibly is not increasing, says Mark Keller, editor of the authoritative Quarterly Journal for Studies of Alcohol.

8. And, says Dr. Ruth Fox, medical director of the National Council, "Alcoholism is not a hopeless disease, even though the alcoholic may well not succeed the first time he tries to give up drinking."

The proof is that hundreds of thousands of former alcoholics now live useful, normal, and often highly successful lives — without alcohol.

Out of the 70 to 75 million Americans who drink occasionally, or even daily, 4½ to 5 million have become compulsive drinkers—although an accurate count is hard to come by. The alcoholic is defined by Mrs. Mann as "anyone whose drinking causes a continuing problem in any department of life."

The public image of alcoholics concentrated on skid row is erroneous. Actually, says the council, only 3 per cent are found there among the homeless and the chronically unemployed.

Today's alcoholic may be a businessman, lawyer, government official, doctor, bus driver, factory worker, baker, housewife—anyone, including some teenagers.

Usually it takes years before the drinking becomes uncontrolled. A small percentage of persons leap into full-blown alcoholism after the first few drinks.

Experts say alcoholism has complex psychological, physiological and social causes. The alcoholic becomes dependent on alcohol as a way of life, even though he frequently succeeds in going on the wagon for periods of time.

Fundamentally, says Mrs. Mann only the alcoholic can truly help himself. His first step is to recognize he's ill, that drink is a severe problem. Usually he won't do this until the damage to health, home, or job becomes obvious.

One helpful beginning, for himself or family, lies in the alcoholism information centers operated by many of the council's 75 local chapters, Mrs. Mann adds.

"He can walk in and find neutral ground, knowing he'll just find information, not treatment. He can walk in knowing that a trap door is not about to be sprung, with a noose around his neck."

This is one of the means now by which the alcoholic and distraught family members are finding there are more and more hands stretched out to help combat the sickness.

Program

old D. Cooley, D-N.C., chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, introduced a bill to continue the voluntary control program.

The committee takes up the measure today and hopes to finish work on it by nightfall.

The third major administration move of the week will involve the offering in the Senate of a modified version of the Kennedy plan for financing hospital and nursing care for the elderly through Social Security taxes.

Mansfield said the compromise will be offered as a rider to a House-passed welfare bill aimed at revising public assistance systems to rehabilitate those on relief.

The administration plan is to offer this rider Saturday, the final day of the current fiscal year. The welfare bill carries funds for aid of unemployed fathers of dependent children.

Since thousands of these persons would go off the rolls Saturday if the bill is not passed by then, this circumstance will be cited as a reason for quick action.

The major opposition to the health care program has been based on its system of financing—an increase in the Social Security tax paid by employes and employers—and on this point the administration has said it will not budge.

The major action in the House this week begins Wednesday, when Kennedy's sweeping new trade bill comes up for debate. The vote, perhaps late Thursday, will be the second major test in a week for the Kennedy legislative program.

Eclipses have aided in precisely computing the movements of moon and earth and in calculating the earth's exact size and shape.

Contracts

$446,900, while Sayre Electric Co. of East Liverpool was contracted for electrical work in the Chester elementary school for $33,305.

The expansion program will be financed with proceeds of a $5,283,000 bond issue approved by county voters in a special election May 17, 1961.

Plans call for construction of a new 600-pupil senior high school on a 96-acre tract on Gas Valley Rd. in Pughtown for North Hancock students, a new 1,000-pupil high school and 300-pupil junior high school in Weirton and a new 300-pupil elementary school on a 15.8 acre tract in Chester, former site of the Chester mill.

Kellam & Foley, Columbus architects, designed the new campus - style buildings seen necessary by the board to cope with a yearly boom in enrollment. Approximately 8,000 students now attend schools in the county system.

The board opened bids for the construction program April 25, but delayed awarding contracts because only one bid was received for electrical work. The board then re-advertised for electrical work and received several bids.

As most bids were higher than expected, the architects made several changes in the building plans but none were of much significance, the board said earlier.

When the board approved the designs of the buildings submitted by the architects last year, the date for occupancy of the new schools was set for September 1963. There was no announcement if the delay in awarding contracts is expected to alter the date for opening of the buildings, although a school spokesman indicated the date may be advanced a few weeks.

Supt. Robert H. Hall, who spearheaded the proposal for passage of the bond issue last year, is slated to speak at Marshall University in Huntington Tuesday at a summer institute on creative school administration. His topic will be "Capital Outlay as One Aspect of School Finance."

Deaths and Funerals

Death Claims Woman At 74

Mrs. Nell Anderson McGillivray, 300 W. 4th St., former chairman of the East Liverpool Women's Republican Club, died Sunday at 8:15 p. m. at City Hospital after a brief illness. She was 74.

She was born in Salineville to the late John Anderson and Mary Anderson and lived here virtually all her life.

She was a member of the First Methodist Church, its Susannah Wesley Circle, the Women's Society of Christian Service and the Wesleyan Class. She also belonged to the Renaissance Club, the United Mothers Club, Ceramic Rebekah Lodge 286 and Pa Mir Zuanna 43, Ladies of the Orient.

She was past president of the Council of United Church Women of East Liverpool.

She is survived by two sons, Donald McGillivrary of East Liverpool and Richard R. McGillivray of Parma Heights, and two grandchildren. Her husband, John D. McGillivray, preceded her in death.

Services will be held Wednesday at 10:30 a.m. at the Dawson Funeral Home by the Rev. John L. Clark. Burial will be in Riverview Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home Tuesday.

Body Of Man Found In Car On Parking Lot

A man found dead in his parked auto this morning at 9:54 in Steubenville has been identified tentatively as Ralph A. Bender, 37, of Wellsville, Steubenville police reported.

Police discovered the body in checking reports that a dead man was in a car in a city-operated parking lot in the 100 block of N. 3rd St.

Police found two parking tickets inside the car and another on the windshield, indicating the car had been parked in the lot since Saturday.

Upon checking the man's wallet and auto license number, police tentatively identified him as Mr. Bender, and the papers listed an address on 10th St., Wellsville.

Dr. John P. Smarrella, Jefferson County coroner, was notified. The body was taken to the Mosti Funeral Home in Steubenville. Wellsville police also were notified.

Mrs. George Steele

Mrs. Ethel Peace Steele, 69, wife of George Steele, 3292 St. Clair Ave., died Sunday evening at the North Shore Hospital in Miami, Fla., following a brief illness.

Her husband is the owner of the Columbiana County Finance Co. on Dresden Ave. Mrs. Steele was vacationing at their winter home in Miami.

Born in Worsop, Nottinghamshire, England, she lived in East Liverpool 45 years. She was a member of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church.

In addition to her husband, she leaves a son, Kenneth Steele of East Liverpool; a daughter, Miss Phyllis Steele of Miami, and four grandchildren.

The Dawson Funeral Home is arranging services.

Mrs. Frances Egli

LISBON — Mrs. Frances R. Egli, 92, who resided with her son, Dr. Edward B. Egli, 222 W. Lincoln Way, died Sunday at 8:15 p. m. at Salem City Hospital. She had been in failing health three years.

Born Oct. 26, 1869, in Glenwood, Iowa, a daughter of Luke and Lucinda Hartman Wiles, she came to Lisbon in 1933. She was a member of the First Christian Church and the Order of Eastern Star. Her husband, Ernest E. Egli, died in 1907.

Surviving are another son, Paul Egli, of Staten Island, N. Y.; three daughters, Mrs. Alfred Deghton of Sioux City, Iowa, and Mrs. Lester Cornett and Mrs. Lester Johnson, both of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., two grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Services will be held Wednesday at 8 a. m. at the Eells-Leggett Funeral Home by the Rev. William Spangler. Burial will be at Onawa, Iowa.

Friends may call at the funeral home Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Carry Garrett

Mrs. Mechia H. Garrett, wife of Carry Garrett, 801 Green Ln., died Sunday at 1:30 p.m. at City Hospital following a long illness. She was 57.

Mrs. Garrett was born in Schilling, W. Va., May 30, 1905. She lived in this vicinity 20 years.

In addition to her husband, she is survived by a step-daughter, Mrs. Lawrence (Edna) Bickel of East Liverpool, and three grandchildren.

Services will be held Wednesday at 2 p.m. at the Martin Funeral Home by the Rev. Albert J. Rodenhausen, pastor of the First Baptist Church. Burial will be in Columbiana County Memorial Park.

Friends may call at the funeral home Tuesday afternoon and evening.

Sidney Manypenny

Sidney Wendell Manypenny, 58, of Chicago, a native of New Cumberland, died in his sleep Sunday morning at his home.

He was born July 5, 1903, to the late Samuel Manypenny and Mary Jane Scott Manypenny. He served in World War II with the 1st Infantry. He was a member of American Legion Post 114 of Newell.

He leaves a brother, Robert Manypenny of New Cumberland, and two sisters, Mrs. Sadye Knapp and Mrs. Alberta Dickey, both of Newell. He was preceded in death by two older brothers, Harry Manypenny and Archie Manypenny.

The Fields Funeral Home in New Cumberland is arranging services.

Bannow Dies At 65

EASTON, Conn. (AP)—Rudolph Bannow, 65, former president of the National Association of Manufacturers, died Saturday. Bannow, president of the Bridgeport Machine Co., was stricken with a heart attack two months ago.

Alcoholism

help. It inevitably becomes a family problem, says Mrs. Marty Mann, executive director of the National Council of Alcoholism. She believes it involves a majority of families, if one includes cousins, in-laws, the "entire constellation" of a family.

3. Alcoholics now are seeking treatment at an earlier age, many in their late 20s or 30s, compared with an average age in the 40s and 50s a few years back. Earlier treatment improves chances of success.

4. Physicians have a few more helpful techniques of treatment, and more understanding, too. States have established 158 clinics to treat alcoholism.

5. Hidden alcoholics, especially women, are coming forward, recognizing their sickness, seeking help.

6. Industry and unions are increasingly and successfully dealing with alcoholism as a sickness, no moral degeneracy.

7. National population is increasing, but the number of alcoholics per 100,000 population possibly is not increasing, says Mark Keller, editor of the authoritative Quarterly Journal for Studies of Alcohol.

8. And, says Dr. Ruth Fox, medical director of the National Council, "Alcoholism is not a hopeless disease, even though the alcoholic may well not succeed the first time he tries to give up drinking."

The proof is that hundreds of thousands of former alcoholics now live useful, normal, and often highly successful lives — without alcohol.

Out of the 70 to 75 million Americans who drink occasionally, or even daily, 4½ to 5 million have become compulsive drinkers—although an accurate count is hard to come by. The alcoholic is defined by Mrs. Mann as "anyone whose drinking causes a continuing problem in any department of life."

The public image of alcoholics concentrated on skid row is erroneous. Actually, says the council, only 3 per cent are found there among the homeless and the chronically unemployed.

Today's alcoholic may be a businessman, lawyer, government official, doctor, bus driver, factory worker, baker, housewife—anyone, including some teenagers.

Usually it takes years before the drinking becomes uncontrolled. A small percentage of persons leap into full-blown alcoholism after the first few drinks.

Experts say alcoholism has complex psychological, physiological and social causes. The alcoholic becomes dependent on alcohol as a way of life, even though he frequently succeeds in going on the wagon for periods of time.

Fundamentally, says Mrs. Mann only the alcoholic can truly help himself. His first step is to recognize he's ill, that drink is a severe problem. Usually he won't do this until the damage to health, home, or job becomes obvious.

One helpful beginning, for himself or family, lies in the alcoholism information centers operated by many of the council's 75 local chapters, Mrs. Mann adds.

"He can walk in and find neutral ground, knowing he'll just find information, not treatment. He can walk in knowing that a trap door is not about to be sprung, with a noose around his neck."

This is one of the means now by which the alcoholic and distraught family members are finding there are more and more hands stretched out to help combat the sickness.

Program

old D. Cooley, D-N.C., chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, introduced a bill to continue the voluntary control program.

The committee takes up the measure today and hopes to finish work on it by nightfall.

The third major administration move of the week will involve the offering in the Senate of a modified version of the Kennedy plan for financing hospital and nursing care for the elderly through Social Security taxes.

Mansfield said the compromise will be offered as a rider to a House-passed welfare bill aimed at revising public assistance systems to rehabilitate those on relief.

The administration plan is to offer this rider Saturday, the final day of the current fiscal year. The welfare bill carries funds for aid of unemployed fathers of dependent children.

Since thousands of these persons would go off the rolls Saturday if the bill is not passed by then, this circumstance will be cited as a reason for quick action.

The major opposition to the health care program has been based on its system of financing—an increase in the Social Security tax paid by employes and employers—and on this point the administration has said it will not budge.

The major action in the House this week begins Wednesday, when Kennedy's sweeping new trade bill comes up for debate. The vote, perhaps late Thursday, will be the second major test in a week for the Kennedy legislative program.

Contracts

$446,900, while Sayre Electric Co. of East Liverpool was contracted for electrical work in the Chester elementary school for $33,305.

The expansion program will be financed with proceeds of a $5,283,000 bond issue approved by county voters in a special election May 17, 1961.

Plans call for construction of a new 600-pupil senior high school on a 96-acre tract on Gas Valley Rd. in Pughtown for North Hancock students, a new 1,000-pupil high school and 300-pupil junior high school in Weirton and a new 300-pupil elementary school on a 15.8 acre tract in Chester, former site of the Chester mill.

Kellam & Foley, Columbus architects, designed the new campus - style buildings seen necessary by the board to cope with a yearly boom in enrollment. Approximately 8,000 students now attend schools in the county system.

The board opened bids for the construction program April 25, but delayed awarding contracts because only one bid was received for electrical work. The board then re-advertised for electrical work and received several bids.

As most bids were higher than expected, the architects made several changes in the building plans but none were of much significance, the board said earlier.

When the board approved the designs of the buildings submitted by the architects last year, the date for occupancy of the new schools was set for September 1963. There was no announcement if the delay in awarding contracts is expected to alter the date for opening of the buildings, although a school spokesman indicated the date may be advanced a few weeks.

Supt. Robert H. Hall, who spearheaded the proposal for passage of the bond issue last year, is slated to speak at Marshall University in Huntington Tuesday at a summer institute on creative school administration. His topic will be "Capital Outlay as One Aspect of School Finance."

Summer To Mean Increase In Locally-Grown Vegetables

With summer's arrival, a wider variety of fresh produce, much of it grown in Ohio, is beginning to appear at area food markets, according to Richard Skinner, market information agent with the Agriculture Extension Service at Canfield.

Ohio-grown vegetables are beginning to appear at produce counters. Cabbage, mostly from southern Ohio, is now at some markets. Quality is quite good and prices may drop slightly as volume increases. Endive, escarole, green onions and radishes are other salad vegetables from Ohio fields.

Lettuce prices are most reasonable now that some Ohio-grown lettuce has reached the market.

Green house tomatoes will begin to decrease in supply during the coming weeks as the season nears its end. Souhern field tomatoes will become more plentiful as the harvest moves northward. Local tomatoes will be available in late July.

Fresh peas will be available in some markets. It is important that peas are used as soon after harvest as possible. E. C. Wittmeyer, Ohio State University extension horticulturist, says that the amount of sugar in peas decreases but starch content increases as fresh peas wait to be processed.

If peas cannot be processed soon after picking, then shell and pre-cool. The best way to pre-cool peas is to immerse them in ice water and then put in the refrigerator.

Sweet corn has been in reasonably good supply. However, reports from Florida indicate that the supply will be lower in the next couple of weeks which means prices will likely be up. Local sweet corn will find its way to market in about another four weeks if the weather is favorable. Cucumbers are an excellent shopping list possibility this week.

The next fresh fruits to be in season are raspberries and cherries. Look for more on these fresh fruits next week. Local strawberry growers report an earlier than usual end to the local strawberry crop because of the extremely hot and dry weather last weekend.

Watermelons should go lower in price in about two weeks. However, up until now, supplies are not as great as expected for this time by a considerable margin. They usually hit their period of peak supply near the Fourth of July.

Other new fruits on area produce counters are nectarines and grapes. Blueberries are in greater supply and more reasonably priced on some markets. Blueberries have become known by their pleasant flavor. Fresh blueberries keep longer than many other fresh berries. You can keep blueberries for more than a week under refrigeration. To insure ripeness, look for berries that have an even deep blue appearance.

Drivers Cited In 3 Mishaps

The Lisbon State Highway Patrol cited three drivers in separate district traffic accidents over the weekend.

Officers investigated eight mishaps Saturday and Sunday, including six in the Salem area. No one was injured.

Hilda V. Swisher, 40, of Canton was cited on a charge of driving while under the influence of alcohol after her car went left of center and sideswiped the car of William J. Fishback, 36, of 1301 Buckeye Ave., Wellsville, Sunday at 2:25 a. m. on Route 30, two miles south of Lisbon.

Cars of Hazel M. Stemple, 40, of 1322 Hillcrest Rd., Wellsville, and Bruce W. Falconer, 20, of Wellsville R. D. 1 collided Sunday at 1:15 a. m. on Route 45, two miles north of Wellsville.

Officers said Falconer, heading south, attempted to pass the woman's car as she was attempting a right turn. Falconer was cited on a charge of crossing over the yellow line.

Fred Shimer, 48, of Youngstown was cited for reckless operation after he made a left turn in front of the car of Antonios Glnatsis, 34, of Youngstown Saturday at 5:25 a. m. on Route 7, a mile south of Rogers.

Small-fry delight: tiny marshmallows added to fruit cup.

Jury Tries Again For Decision In Ratterman Trial

COVINGTON, Ky. (AP)—After an unexpected weekend vacation, the jury in the Ratterman civil rights trial was to try again today to reach a decision.

Testimony consumed 13 days in the trial of six men on charges they violated the civil rights of Campbell County Sheriff George Ratterman in a vice-raid arrest last year.

The jury reported Friday they could find no agreement in any particular in the case after studying it for almost seven hours.

But Judge Mac Swinford in U.S. District Court said, "It's important that this case be decided. I'm going to let you go home until Monday morning."

He told them to keep discussion of the trial to themselves and not talk to strangers.

The defendants are Upshere White, Newport police chief; detectives Patrick Ciafardini and Joseph Quitter; Charles E. Lester, Fort Thomas attorney, and Tito Carinci and Edward A. Buccieri, associated in operations of the Glenn Hotel - Tropicana Night Club.

Mainz, Germany, was so prosperous and influential in the Middle Ages that it is still known as "Golden Mainz."

K. Of C. Council Stages Program On Anniversary

The 62nd anniversary of Carroll Council 509, Knights of Columbus, was celebrated by a social gathering in the K. of C. home Saturday evening.

Highlighting the event was a talk by Francis T. Geon, past grand knight and past district deputy, who paid tribute to the charter members of the council and the long list of grand knights and officers who served the council.

Many of the council members served in high offices of the order on a national and state level, including Thomas J. Duffy, first grand knight of the council, who later served as state deputy of Ohio and as a member of the Supreme Board of Directors.

Edward Fitzgerald was elected state warden; Frank R. O'Hanlon, Ernest Purton, John Smith, Francis Geon and James J. McGowan served as district deputies, and John E. Johnston was appointed the first master of the Fourth Degree in the East District of Ohio when the district was formed in 1956.

The late William Bamer served as first chairman of the Columbian Squires Circle of Ohio.

Johnston is completing a term as grand knight of the council. He will be succeeded by McGowan Sunday.

The council will meet Tuesday evening.

They have a son, Leo Wilson, 214 Drury Ln., and two daughters, Mrs. Joseph (Eleanor) Walters, 5 Auburn Pl., and Mrs. Ralph (Ethel) Bowman of Columbus. There are 3 grandchildren.

The Mizpah Class of the First Methodist Church will hold a picnic Thursday night at 6 o'clock at the Roadside Park.

Members are to take table service and a coverdish. Meat, rolls and coffee will be furnished. The committee is: Mrs. Ida O'Hara, Miss Florence Dunn and Mrs. Laura Slonaker. If the weather is inclement, the picnic will be held in the church.

⁂ ⁂ ⁂

Mrs. Grace Fraser and her daughter, Mrs. Betsy Erwin, entertained 16 young people at a lawn party Thursday night at their home on the Lisbon Rd. in honor of their niece and cousin, Miss Madge Marie Snyder of Columbiana.

A pantomime by Jan Bright, a reading, "Mary Ellen Goes Calling," by Miss Snyder, games and square dancing were the diversions.

Lunch was served by the hostesses assisted by Mrs. Betty Bright and Joseph Erwin. The buffet table was laid with a pink cloth trimmed in white and decorated with garden flowers. The color scheme for the individual tables was pink and white and garden flowers were the centerpiece.

⁂ ⁂ ⁂

Mrs. Phyllis James of Route 39 was hostess Friday night to members of the Friday Niters Club.

Prizes were won by Mrs. James, Mrs. Bessie Carosiello and Mrs. Myrtle Cannon. Lunch was served by the hostess and Mrs. Millie Briggs.

Mrs. Theresa Lambright, who was received as a member, will entertain the club July 6 at her home on Eunice St., East Liverpool.

⁂ ⁂ ⁂

The auxiliary of Eagles Aerie 772 will meet tonight at 8 o'clock in the lodge home. A coverdish dinner will follow business. Mrs. Helen Watson is president.

⁂ ⁂ ⁂

Class 16 of the Riverside United Presbyterian Church will hold a "porch picnic" Tuesday night at 6:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Carolyn Vogel of Riverside Ave.

Each member is to take a coverdish and table service. Coffee, rolls and meat will be furnished. Mrs. Hazel Fraser will be in charge of the program.

Miss Julia Johnson Weds James Lewis At Chester

Miss Julia Jane Johnson became the bride of James Harrison Lewis the evening of June 16 at 7:30 o'clock in the Chester Westminster United Presbyterian Church in a ceremony conducted by the Rev. William L. Claghorn.

The church was decorated with lighted candles, palms and ferns.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alton Johnson, 557 California Ave., Chester, and her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Lewis, 508 Indiana Ave., Chester.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her white floor-length gown was styled with a lace bodice featuring a pearl and sequin decorated scooped neckline and long pointed sleeves.

The full skirt was of silk organza with lace bows appliqued in a scattered effect. The lace-trimmed chapel veil designed by the bride had a pearl and sequin headpiece.

Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom. She observed all the traditions. The bride carried a white Bible, a gift of Mrs. Helen Slonaker of Glenmoor. It was decorated with white rosebuds and stephonitis and white satin streamers tied with lovers knots.

Miss Thea McSwigen of Chester was maid of honor. She wore a cocktail-length organza sheath dress featuring a scoop neckline and a side draped pink lace overskirt. Her headpiece was a matching Dior bow with an attached theater veil. Miss McSwigen carried a Colonial bouquet of pink carnations and white rosebuds with pink streamers.

Bonnie Johnson, younger sister of the bride, was a junior bridesmaid. Her pink tiered nylon dress with lace trimming was designed by the bride. She wore a pink tulle half-hat with streamers and carried a miniature Colonial bouquet of pink and white flowers.

The bridesmaids were Mrs. Robert Jackson, sister of the bride, and Miss Delma Gibson of Wellsville. They were attired in pink gowns identical to that of the maid of honor. Their headpieces, shoes and flowers matched their gowns. The attendants wore pearl teardrops and white wrist-length gloves, gifts of the bride.

The bride's mother wore a beige lace dress with burnt orange accessories and a matching rosebud corsage. The bridegroom's mother was dressed in a beige lace dress with pink accessories and a pink rosebud corsage.

Mrs. Margaret McComb of Charleston, maternal grandmother of the bride, wore a Navy ensemble with white accessories and a rosebud corsage.

Robert Reep of Follansbee, a former classmate of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Robert Lewis of East Liverpool, brother of the bridegroom, and Robert Jackson, brother-in-law of the bride. Randy Roach, a cousin of the bride, was a junior usher. The bridegroom presented the ushers with matching ties and studs.

A reception for 100 was held in the social rooms.

The bridal table was covered with a white cloth overlaid with pink chiffon. Lighted silver candelabra and a three-tiered wedding cake made up the table appointments. The cake was topped with a bridal pair under a canopy decorated with a chapel bell and pink and white flowers.

Mrs. Theodore Martin, organist, played "Arioso" and "O Promise Me", with other traditional wedding music for the processional and recessional.

John Clovis sang "One Hand—One Heart," "Because," Wedding Prayer," "The Married Hymn," "At Dawning" and "I Love You Truly."

Out-of-town guests were from Wheeling, Follansbee, Aliquippa, Charleston, Salem, East Liverpool, Parkersburg, Newell, New Cumberland and St. Albans.

The bride was graduated from Chester High School. She was employed in the office of the Edwin M. Knowles China Co. Her husband was also graduated from Chester High School and is a graduate of West Virginia University. He is employed as a pharmacist at Mitchell's Drugstore at New Martinsville.

The newlyweds are touring the Southern states for their honeymoon. The bride was dressed in a white lace sheath dress with white accessories for traveling. She wore her wedding flowers.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis, parents of the bridegroom, entertained members of the two families and the bridal party at a buffet dinner in their home after the rehearsal June 15.

Scouts Finish 80-Mile River Trip In Canoe

Life in the time of the Indians was relived by 16-year-old Wellsville twins, David and Darius Hoffman, 816 Broadway, when they made an 80-mile canoe trip down the Allegheny River last week.

Lure of adventure and love of the outdoors led to the voyage, which began Tuesday at 7:30 a. m. at the borderline of New York state and ended Wednesday night at Oil City, Pa., and their arrival home Thursday by car.

They were taken to the starting point of the journey in a car by their older brother, Robert Hoffman of Kent, who followed by land and spent each night and morning with them.

The two Star Scouts of Troop 14 of the Riverside United Presbyterian Church saw various kinds of wild life and fish jumping around them, encountered dreary weather and rain, swift rapids and a current which made it difficult at times for them to make much progress.

At Tionesta, Pa., where they stopped to rest, they slept on the rocks. There they saw three deer. The other stop, for about six hours sleep, was at Warren, Pa., in a park where they were taken by a police escort after asking directions. Here they slept under their canoe.

They paddled 45 miles the first day of the trip and on the final lap of it they saw squirrels, great blue herons, wild ducks within five feet of them and came on the port side of an island near President, Pa., where buzzards were swarming around a dead tree.

The brothers encountered the swiftest rapids under the Oil City bridge. The boys cooked out, purchasing food only once at President, and made sandwiches in the canoe while traveling.

County Board To Meet

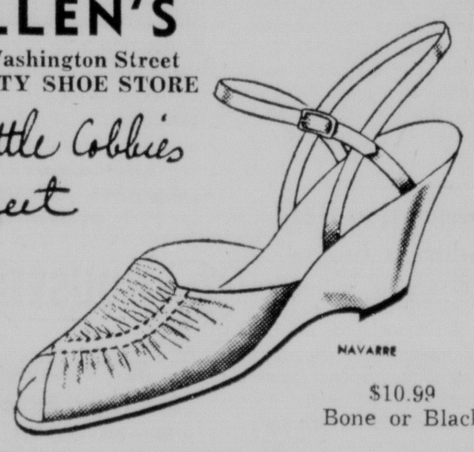

LISBON — The County Board of Education will meet Tuesday at 8 p. m. in the Courthouse. Mrs. Freeman Strabley of Salineville, president, will be in charge. The session was postponed a week to allow Supt. J. L. McBride to attend the Kiwanis International convention last week in Denver.

Auxiliary To Meet

LISBON — The auxiliary of the Fraternal Order of Eagles will meet Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the lodge rooms, with Mrs. Della Crosser, president, in charge. Officers will meet at 7:30 to go over several matters before the regular meeting.

Statistics Reveal Swing To Larger Potato Farms

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Census Bureau reports that 684,853 farms harvested potatoes in 1959. This is a drop of 58 per cent from the 1,649,906 farms harvesting potatoes in 1949.

However, potato production in 1959 totaled about 224 million hundredweight, 2 per cent more than was harvested in 1949.

During the 10-year period from 1949 to 1959 the shift has been constantly to larger potato farms. And during this period there has also been an increase in the per acre yield of potatoes.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department reports that 625,851,378 bushels of 1961 - crop corn had been put under price-support loans and purchase agreements through May.

This compared with the 611,440,943 bushels of 1960 - crop corn which had been under supports through May 1961 and the 512,242,111 bushels of 1959-crop corn put under supports through May 1960.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department reports that the total planted acreage of nine vegetable crops for commercial processing in 1962 was estimated at 1,683,780 acres.

This is 1 per cent more than the acreage planted to these same crops in 1961 and 12 per cent more than the comparable total for 1960.

The nine crops normally account for 94 per cent of the planted acreage of principal vegetable crops for freezing and canning.

Near the end of the 17th Century, the monks at St. Bernard acquired dogs. The animals guarded the monastery, turned spits in the kitchen and carried supplies. About 1750 the monks began to train the dogs for rescue missions.

500 Join In Annual Fishing Derby

Nearly 500 area youngsters participated in the fourth annual fishing derby of the Hancock County Fishermen's Club Saturday at the lake in Tomlinson Run State Park in Pughtown.

A large number of prizes, mostly fishing gear and camping equipment, was awarded. Ronald Baratie of Weirton, who caught a 13-inch catfish, and Nedra Scholtz of Weirton, with an 11½-inch trout, won trophies for the largest fish. Bobby Heidenthal won a prize for catching the smallest fish, a one-inch catfish.

Larry Rusinovich and Janet Myers won prizes as the boy and girl catching the first fish. Other prize-winners were Jack Davis, Miss Stouffer, Gary Rusinovich, Fred Gardner, Bill Slack, Peggy Meyers, Chuck Capito, Dana Casto, George Sweat, Lou Ann Ross, Don Selletti, and Jimmy Davis.

John Simbanian and Terry Arehart were judged the best sportsmen for "politeness and honesty." Mr. and Mrs. James H. Blank of Weirton, who donated the trophies, were judges.

Merchants donated the prizes. Vince Mundy's band provided entertainment. The club served wieners and soft drinks to the entrants.

4 Given Awards During Program Of K. Of C. Group

Four past faithful navigators of Cardinal Mercier General Assembly, Fourth Degree of Knights of Columbus, were honored and presented gold pins at a banquet Sunday evening at the Hotel Wilk in Wellsville. About 75 members, their wives and friends were present.

The honored past officers include Joseph Maley, John Johnston, and Frank R. O'Hanlon, all of East Liverpool, and Fred Baldasare of Wellsville. The pins were presented by James McGowan.

Guest speaker was Fr. Eugene Jacobs, pastor of the Sacred Heart Catholic Church of Chester, who said that "we were made or created to know God, to love Him and serve Him and to be happy with Him in Heaven." He also pointed out the importance of respect for superiors.

Other guests were Fr. Richard Filisky of Youngstown who was recently ordained and assigned as assistant pastor of St. Rose's Catholic Church at Girard, and Ronald Zidian, also of Youngstown, seminarian at the Catholic University at Washington, D. C.

John LaScola of Wellsville, retiring faithful navigator, was toastmaster. He will be succeeded by Joseph J. O'Hanlon Sunday.

Bar Association Head Will Address Judges

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—John C. Satterfield, president of the American Bar Association, will be the main speaker here Tuesday at a meeting of the National Council of Juvenile Court judges.

"Justice for youth through the law," will be the subject of his address.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

Dear Heloise: I buy moth crystals by the gallon jug. I fill my unmated socks with these crystals . . . to about the heel of each sock. Then I tie the top of the sock in a knot, and store the socks in a sealed jar.

These homemade bags of moth crystals are wonderful in many places. About once a week I put one of the bags in the living room, dining room and bedroom. I alternate these locations . . . one time I tuck one way down behind the sofa cushions, then on the floor under a low-built chair, or in a corner behind the drapes. Occasionally I even put one inside the piano.

This is a good preventive against mildew and moths and we also like the faint pleasant odor it seems to give a room.

If there are very young children in the home, I would suggest sewing the stockings on the machine so the children cannot get hold of them—they are poisonous if eaten.

KATHLEEN B.

-:-

And did you know that some people put cologne on the top of the sock where the knot is tied?

HELOISE

Welcome Gifts

DEAR HELOISE: People often wonder what to give friends who are sick or hospitalized. I always take post cards, stamps and stationery. People are pleased with them—they're different and useful.

VIRGINIA ARMSTRONG

To Avoid Wrinkles

DEAR HELOISE: Now that we have found a way to remove mildew from shower curtains, I would like to share my method of removing the wrinkles which they sometimes get after a spin dry.

After hanging the curtain on the line to drip dry, I put it on the ironing board and use a piece of old sheet as a pressing cloth over the curtain itself. I press it with a warm steam iron. My wrinkles disappear as if by magic. The curtains are also pliable again. One must use a steam iron for this.

HELEN

Pastries Protected

DEAR HELOISE: When I must take a cake or pie somewhere and don't want to take my cake cover, I put toothpicks in the icing or meringue and put waxed paper over it. The toothpicks keep the waxed paper from touching and they look much better than the meringue or icing messed up.

M. W.

Hankies Saved

DEAR HELOISE: My children are hankie users. The hankies always were lost before I discovered that they could have a button hole worked in each corner. The hankie can then be buttoned to a button on the dress.

I have found that I can sew a button on the pocket of any of my daughter's dresses, either inside or out, and the hankie is darling when buttoned to the dress.

I now buy colored hankies. Makes for variety and gives spiff to ordinary cottons.

MOMMY

Buttons Bandaged

DEAR HELOISE: When making buttonholes in a garment and you have fine or thin material but still need some sort of backing . . . just use gauze bandage rolls. They're thin and also keep the little facing straight.

Actress Dies At 83

NEW YORK (AP)—Lucile Watson, 83, an actress whose career spanned from the stage of 1900 to motion pictures and television, died Sunday of a stroke. Her first major triumph in New York was in "The Girl with the Green Eyes" in 1902. She was the widow of Louis Evan Shipman, author, editor and playwright who died in 1933.

Some of the small canned hams (three pounds and under) do not need to be refrigerated until they are opened, but after that refrigeration is imperative.

Mishaps Hurt 6 Youngsters

Six of the 11 persons treated at City Hospital over the weekend were children injured while playing.

Nine were treated Sunday, including Joyce Quimby, 14, daughter of Roy Quimby of Beechwood Ave., who suffered a possible fractured finger of the left hand when she fell while roller skating.

John Judy, 22, of 1503 Pennsylvania Ave., suffered a neck injury while playing golf.

Lisa Hargreaves, 3½, daughter of William Hargreaves, 933 Princeton Ave., was treated for a laceration of the forehead received when she fell from a bed.

Robert Bailey, 2, son of Donald Bailey, 603 E. 3rd St., suffered a laceration of the right foot when he stepped on a piece of glass.

Jeannie Young, 9, daughter of Harley Young, 419 Fairview Rd., Chester, suffered abrasions of the right arm when she hit a cement wall while riding a bicycle.

Park Flemming, 3, son of Marshall Flemming of LaCroft, cut his forehead when he fell while playing.

Harry Fitch, 731 Minerva St., strained his shoulder in lifting a motor while working at Watson Motor Co. garage.

The two treated Saturday were Wallace Carter, 1323 Clover St., Wellsville, who suffered a laceration of the forehead when he fell on a sidewalk and Janie Thompson, 9, daughter of Frank Thompson, 1421 Main St., Wellsville, who cut her right knee when she fell on a toy truck at home.

Drowns In Lake

RUSTBURG, Va. (AP) — A 16-year - old Mingo County boy drowned Sunday in a lake near Rustburg, Va. Ollie Kay Sayler told authorities her half brother, Jessie Parsley of Williamson, W. Va., was swimming far out in the lake when he suddenly sank. Rescue attempts were unsuccessful and the body was recovered about an hour later. Parsley was visiting in Rustburg with his family.

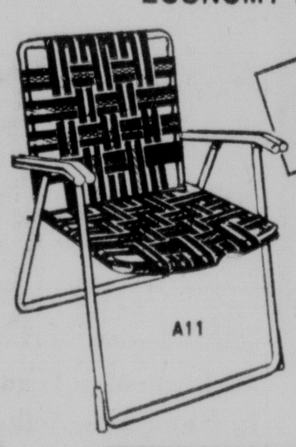

The shark is equipped with a powerful jaw and mouth, studded with rows of sharp, pointed teeth. It will eat anything.

PINK LOTION

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

Dear Heloise: I buy moth crystals by the gallon jug. I fill my unmated socks with these crystals . . . to about the heel of each sock. Then I tie the top of the sock in a knot, and store the socks in a sealed jar.

These homemade bags of moth crystals are wonderful in many places. About once a week I put one of the bags in the living room, dining room and bedroom. I alternate these locations . . . one time I tuck one way down behind the sofa cushions, then on the floor under a low-built chair, or in a corner behind the drapes. Occasionally I even put one inside the piano.

This is a good preventive against mildew and moths and we also like the faint pleasant odor it seems to give a room.

If there are very young children in the home, I would suggest sewing the stockings on the machine so the children cannot get hold of them—they are poisonous if eaten.

KATHLEEN B.

-:-

And did you know that some people put cologne on the top of the sock where the knot is tied?

HELOISE

Welcome Gifts

DEAR HELOISE: People often wonder what to give friends who are sick or hospitalized. I always take post cards, stamps and stationery. People are pleased with them—they're different and useful.

VIRGINIA ARMSTRONG

To Avoid Wrinkles

DEAR HELOISE: Now that we have found a way to remove mildew from shower curtains, I would like to share my method of removing the wrinkles which they sometimes get after a spin dry.

After hanging the curtain on the line to drip dry, I put it on the ironing board and use a piece of old sheet as a pressing cloth over the curtain itself. I press it with a warm steam iron. My wrinkles disappear as if by magic. The curtains are also pliable again. One must use a steam iron for this.

HELEN

Pastries Protected

DEAR HELOISE: When I must take a cake or pie somewhere and don't want to take my cake cover, I put toothpicks in the icing or meringue and put waxed paper over it. The toothpicks keep the waxed paper from touching and they look much better than the meringue or icing messed up.

M. W.

Hankies Saved

DEAR HELOISE: My children are hankie users. The hankies always were lost before I discovered that they could have a button hole worked in each corner. The hankie can then be buttoned to a button on the dress.

I have found that I can sew a button on the pocket of any of my daughter's dresses, either inside or out, and the hankie is darling when buttoned to the dress.

I now buy colored hankies. Makes for variety and gives spiff to ordinary cottons.

MOMMY

Buttons Bandaged

DEAR HELOISE: When making buttonholes in a garment and you have fine or thin material but still need some sort of backing . . . just use gauze bandage rolls. They're thin and also keep the little facing straight.

Actress Dies At 83

NEW YORK (AP)—Lucile Watson, 83, an actress whose career spanned from the stage of 1900 to motion pictures and television, died Sunday of a stroke. Her first major triumph in New York was in "The Girl with the Green Eyes" in 1902. She was the widow of Louis Evan Shipman, author, editor and playwright who died in 1933.

Some of the small canned hams (three pounds and under) do not need to be refrigerated until they are opened, but after that refrigeration is imperative.

Yanks Outlast Tigers, 9-7, In Long One--22 Innings

Tribe Splits With Nats; Twins Stunned Twice

NEW YORK	610	000	000	000	000	000	000	2 — 9
DETROIT	303	001	000	000	000	000	000	6 — 7

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

When it comes to staging a history-making baseball production, two unlikely candidates for starring roles would be a third-string outfielder named Jack Reed and a second-line relief pitcher named Jim Bouton.

But Reed and Bouton shared the spotlight Sunday as the New York Yankees overcame the Detroit Tigers, 9-7, in a 22-inning American League drama that lasted exactly seven hours. Reed provided the decisive punch, his first big league homer with a man on in the 22nd, and Bouton supplied the key pitching, seven innings of three-hit relief.

In time, the game at Tiger Stadium was the longest ever played in the majors. In innings only four other big league marathons have gone further. It started off as a Yankee runaway as they bombed Frank Lary for six runs in the first and another run in the second. While the Tigers were catching up and holding on, a succession of five Detroit pitchers shut out the Yankees for 19 innings before Reed blasted Phil Regan.

Long before the Yankee-Tiger duel was settled, other AL action was in the books. First-place Cleveland beat Washington 4-2 after losing the opener of the doubleheader to the Senators 3-1; Los Angeles trimmed Minnesota twice, 3-2 in 10 innings and 7-6, dropping the Twins a game and a half behind the Indians; Chicago handed Kansas City its seventh straight defeat, 6-1, then lost to the Athletics 5-2; and Boston downed Baltimore twice, 3-2 and 8-5.

Clete Boyer climaxed the Yanks' big burst against Lary in the first with a three-run homer, but the Tigers quickly routed New York starter Bob Turley. He was lifted with one out in the first after yielding two walks, a homer to rookie Purnal Goldy, then another walk. Another Yankee run came across in the second, then Detroit pushed three in off Jim Coates in the third and drew even against Bill Stafford in the sixth.

From then until the 22nd it was pitching, defense and a flurry of missed chances. In overtime, the Tigers had several opportunities to break it open—particularly in the 11th, when Colavito's triple and intentional walks filled the bases with none out. The threat died as Chico Fernandez lined out to short left and Dick Brown foul popped into a double play on a squeeze bunt.

With Regan on the mound as Detroit's seventh pitcher in the 22nd, Roger Maris drew a one-out walk and Reed—a defensive replacement for the hobbled Mickey Mantle—drove one into the seats in left.

Bouton, also the seventh pitcher for the Yankees, yielded just three singles and two walks in his seven-inning stint.

The major league record for longest game by innings is the historic 26-inning 1-1 tie between Brooklyn and Boston in 1920. The American League mark is 24 innings — Detroit-Philadelphia in 1945 and Philadelphia-Boston in 1906.

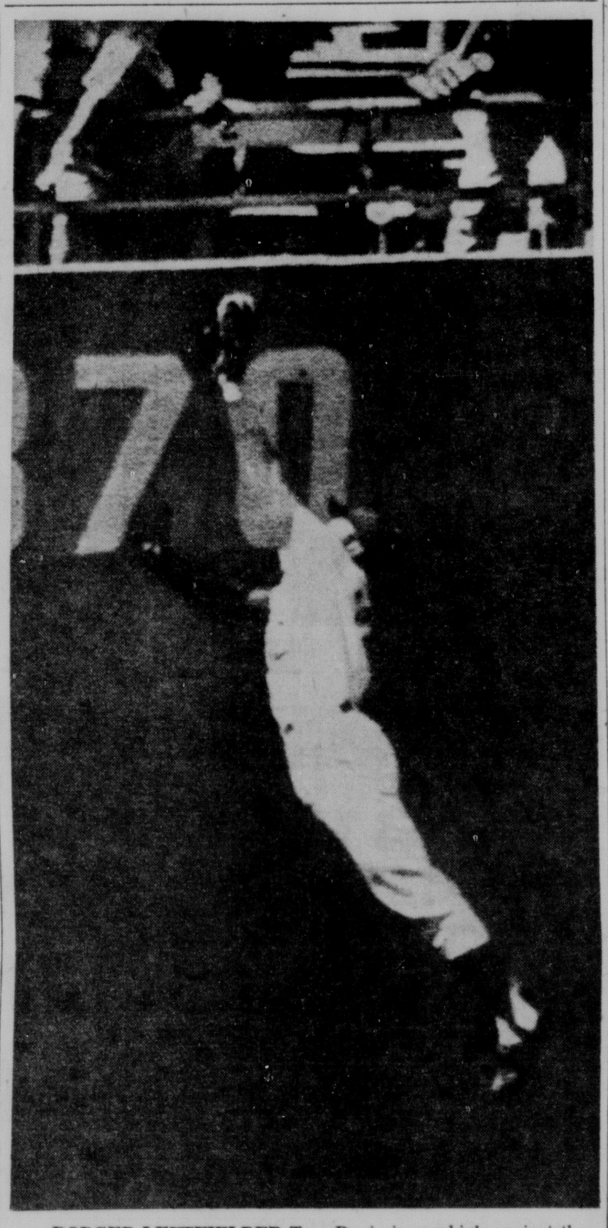

The Yanks used 21 players, had 85 official at-bats, 20 hits, 9 walks, and left 21 men on base. The Tigers used 22 men, had 82 at-bats, 19 hits, 10 walks and stranded 22.

Washington left-hander Claude Osteen held Cleveland to six hits in the Senators' victory, while Harry Bright chipped in with a homer and key single. The Indians gained a split with the aid of two unearned runs in the second game.

Billy Moran keyed the Angels' sweep over the Twins with a vital single in the first game and a decisive homer in the second. Albie Pearson and Moran singled in the top of the 10th of the opener, and Leon Wagner broke the 2-2 tie with a sacrifice fly. In the see-saw second game, Minnesota went ahead 6-5 in the eighth, but homers by Joe Koppe and Moran—his second of the day—won it for the Angels in the ninth. Twenty pitchers worked in the doubleheader, with Dean Chance and Jack Spring the winners, Dick Stigman and Georges Maranda the losers.

Ray Herbert scattered six hits as the White Sox whipped Kansas City, but the A's ended their losing string in the second game, foiling Early Wynn's fourth bid for his 296th career victory.

Robinson's 2 HR's Help Sink LA

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Frank Robinson, the National League's most valuable player of 1961, is in the midst of a hot streak that may not only carry him to his second straight MVP award but also bring the second straight pennant to the Cincinnati Reds.

The Reds, after a wretched start, were hanging doggedly in the race today, seven games behind league-leading Los Angeles after taking a 12-10 slugging match from the Dodgers Sunday. Four homers, two of them by Robinson, carried the Reds to victory. Robinson's homers, his 10th and 11th of the season, drove in four runs and gave the Reds fresh momentum after they had squandered an early 5-0 lead.

San Francisco's Giants defeated Warren Spahn and the Milwaukee Braves 3-1 to climb to within 1½ games of the Dodgers. Pittsburgh dropped a doubleheader to the Chicago Cubs, 4-3 and 8-4, to fall 6½ games off the pace, and only a half game in front of the fourth-place Reds. St. Louis split with Philadelphia, winning the second game, 5-1, after the Phils had won the opener, 3-1. Rain came pouring down during the third inning of the first game in New York and washed out a scheduled doubleheader between Houston and the Mets.

Robinson's first homer enabled the Reds to regain the lead, 6-5, after the Dodgers had scored five runs in the second to match Cincinnati's five in the first. The slugging outfielder homered again in the fourth, this time with two on.

Robinson has made 48 hits in the Reds' last 30 games, boosting his batting average from .250 May 25 to .316. During that stretch, he has hit at a .390 clip, with eight homers and 32 runs batted in.

Willie Mays doubled home two runs in the fifth to snap a 1-1 tie and give Juan Marichal his 11th triumph. The young San Francisco right-hander permitted the Braves only four hits as he outdueled the veteran Spahn, who absorbed his ninth defeat against six victories.

Ernie Banks drove in the 900th run of his career in the first game and hit his 20th homer of the season in the nightcap as the Cubs took both ends of a doubleheader from the Pirates.

Bright's Top Woodbine

A four-run third inning carried George Bright's to a 6-4 victory over Woodbine Saturday in a Pony League contest at Dopler Field. Another makeup game between Bright's and Golden Star was called at the end of the fourth inning because of rain.

Bright's collected only two hits but took advantage of three Woodbine errors to notch the victory. Blythe and Clendenning collected the hits off Nick Marchbanks. Clendenning wound up as the winning hurler scattering seven safeties. Smith led Woodbine with two hits.

Michigan Man Leads In Motorcycle Action

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Bart Markel of Flint, Mich., posted the fastest qualifying time for expert riders — 27.61 seconds, won an elimination heat and then led the field home in the American Motorcycle Association's 10-mile national championship race here Sunday.

Markel, who never trailed, toured the 20 laps around the State Fairgrounds' track in 9:17.50. Dick Klamfoth of Groveport was fourth.

In the eight-mile final for amateur riders, Duane Shadley of Des Moines, Iowa, barely beat David Estep of Columbus. Curt Zeiter of Mansfield was third.

Aussie Netters Are Favored In Wimbledon Play

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—The 76th Wimbledon Lawn Tennis Championships opened today, with the Australians favored to take the singles titles and the Americans as their principal challengers.

Rod Laver, last year's winner of the men's crown, was top seeded and a heavy choice to do it again.

Margaret Smith was the favorite to win the women's section, with Maria Bueno of Brazil and Darlene Hard of Long Beach, Calif., rated her most dangerous rivals.

The Australians dominated the first day's program, which was devoted entirely to the first round of the men's singles. There were 25 Australians in the first round, compared with 16 Americans and 15 Britons.

An official of the All-England Club, which runs the Wimbledon tournament, said the Australian entry is the biggest of all time.

Laver, as defending champion, was traditionally scheduled to lead off the championships on the center court. His opponent was Nareth Kumar of India.

Chuck McKinley of St. Ann, Mo., last year's defeated finalist and the United States' brightest hope in the men's event, faced Australian Owen French, who has not played at Wimbledon before.

One American who could spring a surprise was Jon Douglas, of Santa Monica, Calif. He was scheduled to meet Roy Emerson of Australia, the No. 2 seed.

Curt Flood, Carl Yastrzemski and Phil Linz, former Carolina League batting champions, are now playing in the major leagues.

Lynch Captures Medalist Honors In Florist Loop

Bantam Tommy Lynch captured medalist honors over the weekend in the Riverview Florists Golf League.

Lynch scored a 72 at East Palestine Saturday then came back Sunday with a 74 over the Edgewood course in Canton.

He was a member of the winning team Saturday which also included Chuck Heasley, George Maistros, Oscer Birch and Clyde Thornton. This fivesome took honors with an 11 under par 61.

Sunday a squad of Rube Wotring, Mike Cebula, Dick Osborn and Heasley fired 1-under 71 to come home on top at the Canton course.

The Los Angeles Angels lost all nine games in Yankee Stadium in 1961 and dropped their first 1962 test against the world champion Yankees.

Cox Rolls Over Smith In Pro Bowler Meet

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP)—Darylee Cox, Bellingham, Wash., defeated Harry Smith, St. Louis, Mo., to take the $3,000 prize money in the 16-game final of the Professional Bowlers' Association Spokane Open here Sunday.

Tom Hennessey, St. Louis, defeated Ev Collins, San Bruno, Calif., 246-188 to pass Smith and take second money of $1,500.

Joe Bonikowski of the Minnesota Twins faced only 27 men in pitching a Carolina League no-hitter for Wilson, N. C., in 1960. He walked one batter but picked him off first base.

Yanks Outlast Tigers, 9-7, In Long One--22 Innings

Associated Press Sports Writer

When it comes to staging a history-making baseball production, two unlikely candidates for starring roles would be a third-string outfielder named Jack Reed and a second-line relief pitcher named Jim Bouton.

But Reed and Bouton shared the spotlight Sunday as the New York Yankees overcame the Detroit Tigers, 9-7, in a 22-inning American League drama that lasted exactly seven hours. Reed provided the decisive punch, his first big league homer with a man on in the 22nd, and Bouton supplied the key pitching, seven innings of three-hit relief.

In time, the game at Tiger Stadium was the longest ever played in the majors. In innings only four other big league marathons have gone further. It started off as a Yankee runaway as they bombed Frank Lary for six runs in the first and another run in the second. While the Tigers were catching up and holding on, a succession of five Detroit pitchers shut out the Yankees for 19 innings before Reed blasted Phil Regan.

Long before the Yankee-Tiger duel was settled, other AL action was in the books. First-place Cleveland beat Washington 4-2 after losing the opener of the doubleheader to the Senators 3-1; Los Angeles trimmed Minnesota twice, 3-2 in 10 innings and 7-6, dropping the Twins a game and a half behind the Indians; Chicago handed Kansas City its seventh straight defeat, 6-1, then lost to the Athletics 5-2; and Boston downed Baltimore twice, 3-2 and 8-5.

Clete Boyer climaxed the Yanks' big burst against Lary in the first with a three-run homer, but the Tigers quickly routed New York starter Bob Turley. He was lifted with one out in the first after yielding two walks, a homer to rookie Purnal Goldy, then another walk. Another Yankee run came across in the second, then Detroit pushed three in off Jim Coates in the third and drew even against Bill Stafford in the sixth.

From then until the 22nd it was pitching, defense and a flurry of missed chances. In overtime, the Tigers had several opportunities to break it open—particularly in the 11th, when Colavito's triple and intentional walks filled the bases with none out. The threat died as Chico Fernandez lined out to short left and Dick Brown foul popped into a double play on a squeeze bunt.

With Regan on the mound as Detroit's seventh pitcher in the 22nd, Roger Maris drew a one-out walk and Reed—a defensive replacement for the hobbled Mickey Mantle—drove one into the seats in left.

Bouton, also the seventh pitcher for the Yankees, yielded just three singles and two walks in his seven-inning stint.

The major league record for longest game by innings is the historic 26-inning 1-1 tie between Brooklyn and Boston in 1920. The American League mark is 24 innings — Detroit-Philadelphia in 1945 and Philadelphia-Boston in 1906.

The Yanks used 21 players, had 85 official at-bats, 20 hits, 9 walks, and left 21 men on base. The Tigers used 22 men, had 82 at-bats, 19 hits, 10 walks and stranded 22.

Washington left-hander Claude Osteen held Cleveland to six hits in the Senators' victory, while Harry Bright chipped in with a homer and key single. The Indians gained a split with the aid of two unearned runs in the second game.

Billy Moran keyed the Angels' sweep over the Twins with a vital single in the first game and a decisive homer in the second. Albie Pearson and Moran singled in the top of the 10th of the opener, and Leon Wagner broke the 2-2 tie with a sacrifice fly. In the seesaw second game, Minnesota went ahead 6-5 in the eighth, but homers by Joe Koppe and Moran—his second of the day—won it for the Angels in the ninth. Twenty pitchers worked in the doubleheader, with Dean Chance and Jack Spring the winners. Dick Stigman and Georges Maranda the losers.

Ray Herbert scattered six hits as the White Sox whipped Kansas City, but the A's ended their losing string in the second game, foiling Early Wynn's fourth bid for his 296th career victory.

DODGER LEFTFIELDER Tom Davis jumps high against the wall in an effort to get Frank Robinson's homer, but sees it go into the stands in the fourth inning of Sunday's game at Los Angeles. Robinson drove in two runs in front of him. The Reds defeated the Dodgers, 12-10. (UPI Telephoto)

Robinson's 2 HR's Help Sink LA

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Frank Robinson, the National League's most valuable player of 1961, is in the midst of a hot streak that may not only carry him to his second straight MVP award but also bring the second straight pennant to the Cincinnati Reds.

The Reds, after a wretched start, were hanging doggedly in the race today, seven games behind league-leading Los Angeles after taking a 12-10 slugging match from the Dodgers Sunday. Four homers, two of them by Robinson, carried the Reds to victory. Robinson's homers, his 10th and 11th of the season, drove in four runs and gave the Reds fresh momentum after they had squandered an early 5-0 lead.

San Francisco's Giants defeated Warren Spahn and the Milwaukee Braves 3-1 to climb to within 1½ games of the Dodgers. Pittsburgh dropped a doubleheader to the Chicago Cubs, 4-3 and 8-4, to fall 6½ games off the pace, and only a half game in front of the fourth-place Reds. St. Louis split with Philadelphia, winning the second game, 5-1, after the Phils had won the opener, 3-1. Rain came pouring down during the third inning of the first game in New York and washed out a scheduled doubleheader between Houston and the Mets.

Robinson's first homer enabled the Reds to regain the lead, 6-5, after the Dodgers had scored five runs in the second to match Cincinnati's five in the first. The slugging outfielder homered again in the fourth, this time with two on.

Robinson has made 48 hits in the Reds' last 30 games, boosting his batting average from .250 May 25 to .316. During that stretch, he has hit at a .390 clip, with eight homers and 32 runs batted in.

Willie Mays doubled home two runs in the fifth to snap a 1-1 tie and give Juan Marichal his 11th triumph. The young San Francisco right-hander permitted the Braves only four hits as he outdueled the veteran Spahn, who absorbed his ninth defeat against six victories.

Ernie Banks drove in the 900th run of his career in the first game and hit his 20th homer of the season in the nightcap as the Cubs took both ends of a doubleheader from the Pirates.

JIM BEATTY (left) wins the greatest mile in American history during the 74th annual AAU meet. The time was 3:57.9. Three other men cracked the onetime invincible four-minute barrier. A photo finish separated second-place finisher Jim Grelle (right) and Gary Weislger (behind Beatty), who finished third. Each was timed in 3:58.1. Bill Dotson of Kansas came in fourth at 3:59. Bright's Top Woodbine

A four-run third inning carried George Bright's to a 6-4 victory over Woodbine Saturday in a Pony League contest at Dopler Field. Another makeup game between Bright's and Golden Star was called at the end of the fourth inning because of rain.

Bright's collected only two hits but took advantage of three Woodbine errors to notch the victory. Blythe and Clendenning collected the hits off Nick Marchbanks. Clendenning wound up as the winning hurler scattering seven safeties. Smith led Woodbine with two hits.

Michigan Man Leads In Motorcycle Action

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Bart Markel of Flint, Mich., posted the fastest qualifying time for expert riders — 27.61 seconds, won an elimination heat and then led the field home in the American Motorcycle Association's 10-mile national championship race here Sunday.

Markel, who never trailed, toured the 20 laps around the State Fairgrounds' track in 9:17.50. Dick Klamfoth of Groveport was fourth.

In the eight-mile final for amateur riders, Duane Shadley of Des Moines, Iowa, barely beat David Estep of Columbus. Curt Zeiter of Mansfield was third.

Aussie Netters Are Favored In Wimbledon Play

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—The 76th Wimbledon Lawn Tennis Championships opened today, with the Australians favored to take the singles titles and the Americans as their principal challengers.

Rod Laver, last year's winner of the men's crown, was top seeded and a heavy choice to do it again.

Margaret Smith was the favorite to win the women's section, with Maria Bueno of Brazil and Darlene Hard of Long Beach, Calif., rated her most dangerous rivals.

The Australians dominated the first day's program, which was devoted entirely to the first round of the men's singles. There were 25 Australians in the first round, compared with 16 Americans and 15 Britons.

An official of the All-England Club, which runs the Wimbledon tournament, said the Australian entry is the biggest of all time.

Laver, as defending champion, was traditionally scheduled to lead off the championships on the center court. His opponent was Nareth Kumar of India.

Chuck McKinley of St. Ann, Mo., last year's defeated finalist and the United States' brightest hope in the men's event, faced Australian Owen French, who has not played at Wimbledon before.

One American who could spring a surprise was Jon Douglas, of Santa Monica, Calif. He was scheduled to meet Roy Emerson of Australia, the No. 2 seed.

Curt Flood, Carl Yastrzemski and Phil Linz, former Carolina League batting champions, are now playing in the major leagues.

Lynch Captures Medalist Honors In Florist Loop

Bantam Tommy Lynch captured medalist honors over the weekend in the Riverview Florists Golf League.

Lynch scored a 72 at East Palestine Saturday then came back Sunday with a 74 over the Edgewood course in Canton.

He was a member of the winning team Saturday which also included Chuck Heasley, George Maistros, Oscer Birch and Clyde Thornton. This fivesome took honors with an 11 under par 61.

Sunday a squad of Rube Wotring, Mike Cebula, Dick Osborn and Heasley fired 1-under 71 to come home on top at the Canton course.

Cox Rolls Over Smith In Pro Bowler Meet

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP)—Darylee Cox, Bellingham, Wash., defeated Harry Smith, St. Louis, Mo., to take the $3,000 prize money in the 16-game final of the Professional Bowlers' Association Spokane Open here Sunday.

Tom Hennessey, St. Louis, defeated Ev Collins, San Bruno, Calif., 246-188 to pass Smith and take second money of $1,500.

Record Books Rewritten

4 Men Go Under 4-Minute Mile In Same AAU Race

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

WALNUT, Calif. (AP)—Track and field record books were in for a rewrite job today as a 40-man team headed for Chicago to prepare for upcoming meets with Poland and the Soviet Union and the 74th national AAU championships passed into history.

Missing from the American team which will face Poland in Chicago this weekend and the Soviet Union at Palo Alto, Calif., July 21-22 will be one of the nation's top sprinters and two of its 16-foot pole vaulters.

Villanova's Frank Budd is out with a bad leg injury, and the pole vaulting stars, Lt. Dave Tork and John Uelses, failed to qualify in the nationals.

Veteran Ron Morris of the Southern California Striders, vaulting 16 feet ¼ inch, and the University of Washington's John Cramer, at 15-8½, both made the U.S. team.

One world mark was tied and three American records were broken as the AAU carnival wound up Saturday night.

For the first time in American track annals, four men hit the tape in the mile under four minutes.

Paul Drayton, second best to Budd on the Villanova team, ran the 220-yard dash in 20.5, equalling the world standard around one turn set by Peter Radford of Great Britain in 1960.

Drayton also bettered the American mark of 20.6 established by Andy Stanfield in 1951.

Al Oerter broke his own pending national mark of 200 feet 5½ inches with a discus throw of 202-2, just one-half inch shy of a world record pending for the Soviet Union's Vladimir Trusenyov.

Canada's remarkable Bruce Kidd fractured the 6-mile record with 28:23.2 Friday night. The old one was 28:35.8 by Al Lawrence in 1960.

The dramatic mile was the climax of the final program as little Jim Beatty, Jim Grelle, Cary Weisiger and unheralded Bill Dotson battled to the tape.

Beatty's time was 3:57.9, equalling the meet record set by Herb Elliott; Grelle and Weisiger both had 3:58.1 and Dotson, from Lawrence, Kan., had 3:59.0.

The publicized 3-mile run was won handily by Murray Halberg of New Zealand, whose time of 13:30.6 was considerably under his world record of 13:10 flat.

Campbell Winning Hurler

EL Merchants Widen Lead With 11-2 Win At Lisbon

Bob Campbell was given ample support as he spaced seven hits and widened the East Liverpool Merchants' County-City League margin with an 11-2 victory over Lisbon Sunday at the county seat.

The righthander fanned six and allowed single runs in the fourth and ninth innings. Meanwhile, the locals came up with a big four-run fifth inning, then added three tallies in the eighth.

Campbell also helped his own cause with a triple and single while Ron Prentice belted a triple. Bob Hobbs and Jerry Murawski each added two hits to the Merchants' attack.

Slugging first baseman Rich Ashcroft walloped a long fly ball his first time to the plate, but it was caught. After that Lisbon hurlers refused to give Ashcroft anything good to hit. A scout representing the Cleveland Indians was in the stands.

In another league battle, Negley outlasted East Palestine Golden Dawn, 13-10.

Harold Johnson Hopes For Crack At Heavy Crown

BERLIN, Germany (AP)—Harold Johnson said today he hopes to get a crack at the world heavyweight title soon.

"Before I challenge the heavyweight champ, I want to see whether it's (Floyd) Patterson or (Sonny) Liston," Johnson said. Patterson is to defend his title against Liston in September.

I hope to have some more European title defenses before then."

Johnson successfully defended his world light heavyweight title against highly rated German Gustav Scholz Saturday. The champion won a unanimous decision in a 15-rounder, outboxing the clever German fighter.

After a Naples vacation, Johnson is to sail back to the United States. His wife Mildred is with him.

Expansion Aired By Football Loop

BOSTON (AP)—Expansion talk was expected to be the main topic of conversation today as the young American Football League opens its annual off-season meetings.

Franchise applications have been received from Atlanta, Ga., New Orleans and Kansas City. Representatives from the cities have been invited to attend the 3-day meetings.

Financier Warren Lockwood of Silver Springs, Md., who represents a Kansas City syndicate; W. V. McCane Jr. of Atlanta and David F. Dixon of New Orleans each has posted $25,000 in earnest money.

Another item of business is a decision whether to appeal a U.S. District Court ruling against the AFL in its anti-trust suit against the rival National Football League.

Ford Captures Eastern Open In Tense Finish

By GEORGE BOWEN

BALTIMORE (AP)—Bob Goalby had something else to remember today from his close traveling golf companion, Doug Ford: Don't get rattled when the heat's on.

Goalby had a first-hand exhibition of Ford's dogged temperament gained in 13 active years on the money circuit.

They played together in the last trip of the Eastern Open golf tournament Sunday.

Ford, who had enjoyed a six-stroke lead at the end of 36 holes, saw it melt away during the fourth round. The last man with a chance at him was Goalby.

With three holes to play, Ford was ahead by one stroke. At the 16th, Goalby sank a six-foot putt for a birdie. Ford matched it with a four-footer.

At the next-to-last hole—which Ford had tabbed early in the tournament as key spot on the Mount Pleasant course — Goalby drove the 201-yard green and Ford missed it. But Doug calmly chipped to four feet of the cup and sank his par.

On the last hole, Goalby's second shot was 15 feet past the cup and Ford was a dozen feet to the side. Goalby, twice nervously waving gnats away from the ball, putted boldly but the ball fell off sharply to the left at the last second and missed.

Ford putted out safely in two for a tense one-stroke victory. He had matched par 72 on the last round and gone over by one in the third round.

In the first 36 holes he had been 10 under par. His total 279 was nine under par, second highest score to win the Eastern.

It was the second victory of the year for the 39-year-old Ford and the first prize of $5,300 boosted his take to $21,341.

Jacksonville Boosts Lead To Five Games

By The Associated Press

The Jacksonville Suns have opened up a five game lead in the International League standings.

The hard - hitting Suns pounded out 27 hits in sweeping a doubleheader from Syracuse 11-3 and 6-3 Sunday. Those two, combined with Richmond's 3-2 edge over Buffalo, allowed the Suns to add 1½ games to their margin over the second place Bisons.

Laughlin Scores 25 Points To Win Club Golf Event

Jim Laughlin scored 25 points to win Sunday's par-birdie-eagle contest at the East Liverpool Country Club.

Don E. Smith was runnerup in the event with 24 points while T. H. Kashuba, C. F. Metz Jr., Everson Hall, E. B. Rohrer and J. S. Probst all scored 23.

Dick Heddleston won second division honors with 21.

In Saturday's match play against par, Don E. Smith finished 7 up to gain honors. J. T. Hall was 5 up, H. M. Crossley 4 up, Jim Jordan 3 up and Don Schreckengost, Bill Hocking and Bill Kelly 2 up.

Heddleston and L. W. Smith Jr. tied for the second division crown, both finishing 1 up.

Palmer And Nicklaus Made Co-Favorites

CHICAGO (AP)—Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus are co-favorites to win the Western Open Golf Championship which begins Thursday at the tough Medinan No. 3 course.

Palmer, the Masters Champion who lost to Nicklaus in a playoff for the U.S. Open title, will be defending the Western crown he won last year at Grand Rapids, Mich.

The top golfers in the nation will be on hand including the pro circuit's top 30 money winners this year and the first 12 finishers in the U.S. Open.

Yesterday's Stars

Bating—Jack Reed, Yankees—Reed's home run in the 22nd inning, his first in the major leagues, with a runner on base, gave the New York Yankees a 9-7 triumph over the Detroit Tigers in the third longest game in American League history.

Pitching—Juan Marichal, Giants—Marichal pitched a four-hitter for his 11th triumph as the Giants defeated Warren Spahn and the Milwaukee Braves 3-1 on Willie Mays' two-run double in the fifth inning.

Record Books Rewritten

4 Men Go Under 4-Minute Mile In Same AAU Race

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

WALNUT, Calif. (AP)—Track and field record books were in for a rewrite job today as a 40-man team headed for Chicago to prepare for upcoming meets with Poland and the Soviet Union and the 74th national AAU championships passed into history.

Missing from the American team which will face Poland in Chicago this weekend and the Soviet Union at Palo Alto, Calif., July 21-22 will be one of the nation's top sprinters and two of its 16-foot pole vaulters.

Villanova's Frank Budd is out with a bad leg injury, and the pole vaulting stars, Lt. Dave Tork and John Uelses, failed to qualify in the nationals.

Veteran Ron Morris of the Southern California Striders, vaulting 16 feet ¼ inch, and the University of Washington's John Cramer, at 15-8½, both made the U.S. team.

One world mark was tied and three American records were broken as the AAU carnival wound up Saturday night.

For the first time in American track annals, four men hit the tape in the mile under four minutes.

Paul Drayton, second best to Budd on the Villanova team, ran the 220-yard dash in 20.5, equalling the world standard around one turn set by Peter Radford of Great Britain in 1960.

Drayton also bettered the American mark of 20.6 established by Andy Stanfield in 1951.

Al Oerter broke his own pending national mark of 200 feet 5½ inches with a discus throw of 202-2, just one-half inch shy of a world record pending for the Soviet Union's Vladimir Trusenyov.

Canada's remarkable Bruce Kidd fractured the 6-mile record with 28:23.2 Friday night. The old one was 28:35.8 by Al Lawrence in 1960.

The dramatic mile was the climax of the final program as little Jim Beatty, Jim Grelle, Cary Weisiger and unheralded Bill Dotson battled to the tape.

Beatty's time was 3:57.9, equalling the meet record set by Herb Elliott; Grelle and Weisiger both had 3:58.1 and Dotson, from Lawrence, Kan., had 3:59.0.

The publicized 3-mile run was won handily by Murray Halberg of New Zealand, whose time of 13:30.6 was considerably under his world record of 13:10 flat.

Campbell Winning Hurler

EL Merchants Widen Lead With 11-2 Win At Lisbon

Bob Campbell was given ample support as he spaced seven hits and widened the East Liverpool Merchants' County-City League margin with an 11-2 victory over Lisbon Sunday at the county seat.

The righthander fanned six and allowed single runs in the fourth and ninth innings. Meanwhile, the locals came up with a big four-run fifth inning, then added three tallies in the eighth.

Campbell also helped his own cause with a triple and single while Ron Prentice belted a triple. Bob Hobbs and Jerry Murawski each added two hits to the Merchants' attack.

Slugging first baseman Rich Ashcroft walloped a long fly ball his first time to the plate, but it was caught. After that Lisbon hurlers refused to give Ashcroft anything good to hit. A scout representing the Cleveland Indians was in the stands.

In another league battle, Negley outlasted East Palestine Golden Dawn, 13-10.

Harold Johnson Hopes For Crack At Heavy Crown

BERLIN, Germany (AP)—Harold Johnson said today he hopes to get a crack at the world heavyweight title soon.

"Before I challenge the heavyweight champ, I want to see whether it's (Floyd) Patterson or (Sonny) Liston," Johnson said. Patterson is to defend his title against Liston in September.

I hope to have some more European title defenses before then."

Johnson successfully defended his world light heavyweight title against highly rated German Gustav Scholz Saturday. The champion won a unanimous decision in a 15-rounder, outboxing the clever German fighter.

After a Naples vacation, Johnson is to sail back to the United States. His wife Mildred is with him.

Las Vegas Digs What Networks Won't

Something is cockeyed when a Las Vegas casino hires a first-rate string orchestra to entertain gamblers, yet TV audiences are lucky if they get Bernstein once a month and a nightly vocal arrangement of a sponsor's verse.

Hal Humphrey

"It's a case of TV's looking down on its audience, and if it does so long enough, the audience will become a midget in size," says Clebanoff, the intense Russian-American conductor whose instrumental record albums have been on the best-seller lists.

-:-

THE ONLY compromise Clebanoff has made while playing for audiences at Las Vegas was decking his 20-piece ensemble in gold dinner jackets. His musical selections are standards ("Am I Blue?") and "pops" arrangements of semiclassical pieces.

Clenbanoff (his first name, Herman, was dropped by Mercury Records for "more dramatic effect") succumbed to his first night club engagement because he enjoys an audience and, as he says, there aren't too many opportunities these days.

"I was concertmaster with NBC's staff orchestra, and we played the old 'Garroway at Large' show," Clebanoff says. "In those days TV was doing something about music, but it went from something to nothing."

-:-

HE LOOKS on Leonard Bernstein's occasional forays into TV as just a sop the networks toss at us to keep their so-called "public service" credit with the FCC.

"Can you imagine anyone watching a program on music appreciation at 7a.m.? Well, I turned on my TV the other morning at that hour, and there it was. Now really!" Clebanoff exploded.

NBC's board chairman Bob Sarnoff argues that if people want something badly enough, they'll find the hour it's available and watch it, regardless. In his book, the intellectual must be on 24-hour call, like Dr. Ben Casey.

-:-

"IT'S A WELL-KNOWN fact," adds Clebanoff, "that Van Cliburn couldn't get arrested on TV, or anywhere else in our country, until he won the competition in Moscow. You have to be a winner here before anyone will hire you.

"Has anyone heard of Sidney Harth? He's a fine violinist, who just missed winning a competition by a single point. He wasn't a winner, so he's dead."

When a major musical event does take place on TV, it is as if the eighth wonder of the world has been born.

Last week CBS and a hair shampoo premiered Stravinsky's dance drama, "Noah and the Flood," and the National Federation of Music Clubs was inspired to hail it as "a service to the cause of music, dance, drama and fine art."

Unfortunately, the Stravinsky opus was a classic bust, so the federation may not have an opportunity to get this ecstatic about such TV service for another 10 years.

-:-

CLEBANOFF sees it as shameful that not one of the major networks has its own symphony orchestra on staff.

"In Europe," he points out, "nearly every country has at least one TV-supported symphony. Is it too much to ask that we have one here?"

Even popular music is slighted by TV, Clebanoff emphasizes. The Perry Como Show, in his opinion, is the only TV show which seems to take pains and pride with its music, which is played by Mitchell Ayres' Band.

"I saw Julie Wilson singing on Sullivan's show recently, and I couldn't even hear the rhythm section," Clebanoff complains. "So much emphasis is put on camera work that no one has time to think about how the orchestra will sound."

IF CLEBANOFF had any doubt about the public's interest in good music, he has had it dispelled on his current engagement at Las Vegas, where he's competing against slot machines, crap table croupiers and roulette wheels.

"The lounge is jammed, and they're listening to the music," he says, with a slightly startled look.

148 From Area Continue Studies On Water Safety

A total of 148 district residents enrolled in the free water safety program of the East Liverpool Red Cross Chapter are beginning their second week of instruction at Thompson Park pool, Miss Marilyn Eckert, director, said today.

A breakdown of enrollment shows that 98 are in the beginners' class, 19 are intermediates and 16 are learning Junior and Senior life-saving. Don Eckert teaches 15 adults.

Fourteen water safety aides, who qualified by passing a water safety examination, assist Miss Eckert. They are Larry Stiteler, Janet Birch, Kerry Jarvis, Judy Jones, Nancy Chetwynd, Joe Maley, Bruce Birch, Donna Shawl, Bill Wotring, Vicki Smith, Mary Ann Cartwright, Peter Cartwright, Steve Sant and Billie Ann Smith.

The course will continue until July 7. On July 9, another three-week session will begin. A water show and presentation of certificates will be held July 27.

Applications now are being accepted for the second course at the Red Cross office in Mary Patterson Memorial. Questions concerning registration or eligibility requirements should be referred to the office in person or by telephoning FU. 6-4144, Miss Eckert said.

Duke Hospital Erases Segregation Policies

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Duke Hospital has eliminated its policy of racial segregation for private rooms.

The hospital announced Saturday that "private patients of all races, creeds and origins may now be admitted to private rooms at the hospital."

Duke University opened its graduate schools to all races 15 months ago, and earlier this month opened the undergraduate school to Negroes.

Methodist Assignments

Moreland Pastor Chosen To Serve Orchard Grove

The Rev. John F. Stilts of the Moreland Methodist Church in the Canton District has been assigned as new pastor of the Orchard Grove Community Methodist Church, succeeding the Rev. James Gardner, transferred to the Saybrook Church, near Ashtabula.

The assignment of Rev. Stilts was one of a series of changes affecting East Liverpool area churches announced Saturday night at Lakeside by Bishop Hazen G. Werner of Columbus, resident bishop of the Ohio Area of the Methodist Church, as a climax of the six-day annual meeting of the North-East Ohio Methodist Conference.

Announcement of Rev. Gardner's impending transfer was made in mid-June. He served at the North Side church five years.

The bishop's announcement also confirmed the transfer of the Rev. Carl Beighley from the Calvary Methodist Church to the First Methodist Church of Mineral Ridge and the assignment of the Rev. Irwin E. Jennings, pastor of the Reynolds (Ind.) Methodist Church as his successor.

The Rev. R. W. McNary was transferred from Mineral Ridge to Youngstown Brown Memorial Church.

The Rev. Allen Rose was assigned as pastor of the Salineville Methodist Church from the Hopedale Church. The Rev. Leland Floyd was assigned as minister of the Hopedale Church.

The Rev. Theodore Nusser Jr. was assigned to the Mt. Zion Methodist Church, near Rogers, from the Pine Grove Church, near Hammondsville. The Rev. Leona Rodgers, formerly pastor of the Mt. Zion Church, was assigned to the Fosterville Church.

The Rev. Oscar Burchfield was assigned to the Pine Grove Church.

Six district ministers and six lay delegates attended the conference from this area. It marked the 150th anniversary of Methodism in Ohio.

All the changes will take effect Sunday, when the ministers will preach their first sermons at their new charges.

Wet Blacktop Blamed After 3-Way Crash

Wet blacktop pavement was blamed for a three-way "chain reaction" crash Saturday night at 7:36 on Pennsylvania Ave. at Lee St., police reported.

The crash involved a 1962 sedan driven by Hector Barelli, 52, of Magnolia, a 1960 imported compact sedan operated by Robert D. Pass, 19, of Maywood, Ill., and a 1958 sedan operated by Harvey L. Lampkin, 46, of Smiths Ferry R. D. 1.

Barelli told police he was halted for a traffic light when his car was hit from the rear by the Illinois man's German-made compact. Pass told officers his car was rammed from the rear by Lampkins' and driven forward into Barelli's.

Lampkin told police he applied his brakes, but couldn't stop in time because of the wet pavement. His car was undamaged. The crash damaged the rear bumper of the Barelli auto and both the front and rear of the Pass compact, officers said. All three were westbound.

A parked auto was damaged in another mishap Sunday at 9:16 p. m. on W. 3rd St., police said.

A 1957 sedan operated by William S. Lodge, 64, of 721 Sophia St. collided with a 1952 four-door sedan of Arlie Davis, 27, of 603 E. 3rd St., police were told.

Davis told police Lodge was backing when his car hit the parked Davis auto, damaging the left front door. The Lodge car was undamaged, police said.

Old Home Week Plans Will Be Aired July 18

A meeting has been scheduled Wednesday, July 18, to discuss the future of Old Home Week, Inc., the organization which sponsored week-long celebrations each fall for about eight years, Patrolman Paul Lemal, chairman, said today.

Officer Lemal, who announced previously he will submit his resignation as chairman, said it will become effective at the close of the meeting in mid-July. He has held the post approximately 10 years.

The celebration group is comprised of members of Fraternal Order of Police Lodge 29 and its civilian affiliate, FOP Associates Lodge 26.

The French Academy elects a new member only when death creates a vacancy.

Fete Opened At Wellsville

The Wellsville volunteer fire department's 23rd annual homecoming celebration started today.

The Golden Empire Shows of the Hunt Amusement Co. set up carnival rides at Central Park and will open this evening at 6. The show moved onto the lot Sunday and completed erecting rides and concession stands today.

It is the largest carnival ever to appear in Wellsville, the sponsors said. Firemen said placards advertising the carnival were not distributed throughout the surrounding territory because they were not received from the printing company.

"Family Night" will be observed Thursday and a children's matinee will be held Saturday afternoon. The rides then will be at reduced rates.

The annual parade will be held Friday night at 7:30.

The homecoming was inaugurated in 1936, but was not held during World War II.

Charles Leatherberry is homecoming chairman. Proceeds will be used to purchase new fire-fighting equipment.

148 From Area Continue Studies On Water Safety

A total of 148 district residents enrolled in the free water safety program of the East Liverpool Red Cross Chapter are beginning their second week of instruction at Thompson Park pool, Miss Marilyn Eckert, director, said today.

A breakdown of enrollment shows that 98 are in the beginners' class, 19 are intermediates and 16 are learning Junior and Senior life-saving. Don Eckert teaches 15 adults.

Fourteen water safety aides, who qualified by passing a water safety examination, assist Miss Eckert. They are Larry Stiteler, Janet Birch, Kerry Jarvis, Judy Jones, Nancy Chetwynd, Joe Maley, Bruce Birch, Donna Shawl, Bill Wotring, Vicki Smith, Mary Ann Cartwright, Peter Cartwright, Steve Sant and Billie Ann Smith.

The course will continue until July 7. On July 9, another three-week session will begin. A water show and presentation of certificates will be held July 27.

Applications now are being accepted for the second course at the Red Cross office in Mary Patterson Memorial. Questions concerning registration or eligibility requirements should be referred to the office in person or by telephoning FU. 6-4144, Miss Eckert said.

Duke Hospital Erases Segregation Policies

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Duke Hospital has eliminated its policy of racial segregation for private rooms.

The hospital announced Saturday that "private patients of all races, creeds and origins may now be admitted to private rooms at the hospital."

Duke University opened its graduate schools to all races 15 months ago, and earlier this month opened the undergraduate school to Negroes.

Methodist Assignments

Moreland Pastor Chosen To Serve Orchard Grove

The Rev. John F. Stilts of the Moreland Methodist Church in the Canton District has been assigned as new pastor of the Orchard Grove Community Methodist Church, succeeding the Rev. James Gardner, transferred to the Saybrook Church, near Ashtabula.

The assignment of Rev. Stilts was one of a series of changes affecting East Liverpool area churches announced Saturday night at Lakeside by Bishop Hazen G. Werner of Columbus, resident bishop of the Ohio Area of the Methodist Church, as a climax of the six-day annual meeting of the North-East Ohio Methodist Conference.

Announcement of Rev. Gardner's impending transfer was made in mid-June. He served at the North Side church five years.

The bishop's announcement also confirmed the transfer of the Rev. Carl Beighley from the Calvary Methodist Church to the First Methodist Church of Mineral Ridge and the assignment of the Rev. Irwin E. Jennings, pastor of the Reynolds (Ind.) Methodist Church as his successor.

The Rev. R. W. McNary was transferred from Mineral Ridge to Youngstown Brown Memorial Church.

The Rev. Allen Rose was assigned as pastor of the Salineville Methodist Church from the Hopedale Church. The Rev. Leland Floyd was assigned as minister of the Hopedale Church.

The Rev. Theodore Nusser Jr. was assigned to the Mt. Zion Methodist Church, near Rogers, from the Pine Grove Church, near Hammondsville. The Rev. Leona Rodgers, formerly pastor of the Mt. Zion Church, was assigned to the Fosterville Church.

The Rev. Oscar Burchfield was assigned to the Pine Grove Church.

Six district ministers and six lay delegates attended the conference from this area. It marked the 150th anniversary of Methodism in Ohio.

All the changes will take effect Sunday, when the ministers will preach their first sermons at their new charges.

Wet Blacktop Blamed After 3-Way Crash

Wet blacktop pavement was blamed for a three-way "chain reaction" crash Saturday night at 7:36 on Pennsylvania Ave. at Lee St., police reported.

The crash involved a 1962 sedan driven by Hector Barelli, 52, of Magnolia, a 1960 imported compact sedan operated by Robert D. Pass, 19, of Maywood, Ill., and a 1958 sedan operated by Harvey L. Lampkin, 46, of Smiths Ferry R. D. 1.

Barelli told police he was halted for a traffic light when his car was hit from the rear by the Illinois man's German-made compact. Pass told officers his car was rammed from the rear by Lampkins' and driven forward into Barelli's.

Lampkin told police he applied his brakes, but couldn't stop in time because of the wet pavement. His car was undamaged. The crash damaged the rear bumper of the Barelli auto and both the front and rear of the Pass compact, officers said. All three were westbound.

A parked auto was damaged in another mishap Sunday at 9:16 p. m. on W. 3rd St., police said.

A 1957 sedan operated by William S. Lodge, 64, of 721 Sophia St. collided with a 1952 four-door sedan of Arlie Davis, 27, of 603 E. 3rd St., police were told.

Davis told police Lodge was backing when his car hit the parked Davis auto, damaging the left front door. The Lodge car was undamaged, police said.

Old Home Week Plans Will Be Aired July 18

A meeting has been scheduled Wednesday, July 18, to discuss the future of Old Home Week, Inc., the organization which sponsored week-long celebrations each fall for about eight years, Patrolman Paul Lemal, chairman, said today.

Officer Lemal, who announced previously he will submit his resignation as chairman, said it will become effective at the close of the meeting in mid-July. He has held the post approximately 10 years.

The celebration group is comprised of members of Fraternal Order of Police Lodge 29 and its civilian affiliate, FOP Associates Lodge 26.

Fete Opened At Wellsville

The Wellsville volunteer fire department's 23rd annual homecoming celebration started today.

The Golden Empire Shows of the Hunt Amusement Co. set up carnival rides at Central Park and will open this evening at 6. The show moved onto the lot Sunday and completed erecting rides and concession stands today.

It is the largest carnival ever to appear in Wellsville, the sponsors said. Firemen said placards advertising the carnival were not distributed throughout the surrounding territory because they were not received from the printing company.

"Family Night" will be observed Thursday and a children's matinee will be held Saturday afternoon. The rides then will be at reduced rates.

The annual parade will be held Friday night at 7:30.

The homecoming was inaugurated in 1936, but was not held during World War II.

Charles Leatherberry is homecoming chairman. Proceeds will be used to purchase new fire-fighting equipment.

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: The letter signed "No Doctor in the House" burned me up. So the church was packed, was it, and when someone in the crowd fainted not a single doctor was present to administer aid to the stricken.

The writer facetiously suggested it was safer for a person with a weak heart to go to the country club and play golf on Sunday than to attend church services, since the country club was where all the doctors could be found.

My husband is a physician. He would love to attend church but he had to give it up.

When we moved to this community several years ago we started out by attending church services regularly. And then it began — the lineup on the church steps and in the vestibule. People moved into our pew, they collared him on the way out and waited at the curb beside our car.

"It's my shoulder, Doctor. I can hardly move my arm. Do you think it's bursitis or did I pull a ligament when I painted the garage?"

"I hate to bother you, Doctor, but this little mole on Edgar's cheek seems to be getting bigger. Does it look like anything serious?"

"Doc, I don't want to take your time in the office but I've had this dry cough for months. Can you suggest a cough syrup that will help?"

The final straw came when, during the singing of a hymn, a woman moved next to my husband with her child and asked him to look in the girl's throat and decide if she should have her tonsils removed.

That was six years ago and he hasn't been back to church since.—IN SYMPATHY.

Reader Writes

Dear Ann: This is the first time I've been moved to write to a newspaper. That letter signed "No Doctor in the House" did it.

May I respectfully suggest that there may have been a dozen doctors in the house but they may have been too smart to make their presence known?

There have been many cases where physicians have rushed to the aid of someone who had fainted or been injured. Then what happened? The patient died and the family sued the well - meaning physician for malpractice.

A plumber wouldn't hazard a guess concerning which faucet is leaking simply by standing outside the house. So why should a physician be expected to make a diagnosis and prescribe treatment when, if he is wrong, it could mean the end of his practice? —
DALLAS READER

Doctor's Wife

Dear Ann: I'm an RN who is married to a physician. May I give your readers an inside story?

Sunday my husband came home from church disgusted. He said, "I'm through attending services. This morning the minister was interrupted twice to call me to the telephone. Last Sunday I was called out, and the Sunday before that I hadn't even sat down before an usher handed me an emergency message."

Would you like to know the nature of the last "emergency"? A woman was passing through town and her doctor in Houston asked her to phone to say hello.

The "emergency" before that involved a woman who had a headache. She wanted to know whether to take a sleeping pill or a pain killer.

Now he says he is through with Sunday services. Do you blame him?—INSIDE STORY.

Daughter Has Say

Dear Ann: I am 10 years old. My daddy is a doctor. He has to get out of bed almost every night to take care of some sick person. The only time he can catch up on his sleep is Sunday morning.

My daddy is a good man and he needs his rest. Mom says God knows everything, so He surely will forgive my daddy for not going to church on Sunday morning.—ELLEN.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Freed American Denies Red Claim He Attacked U.S.

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) —A U.S. soldier has denied Communist claims he denounced the United States while a prisoner of Viet Cong guerrillas. He charged the Reds tried to brainwash him at gunpoint.

Spec. 4 George F. Fryett Jr. of California, released Sunday after six months captivity, told U.S. officials he did not cooperate with the Communists despite their attempts to indoctrinate him politically.

The Viet Cong in a recent broadcast claimed Fryett, 26, had told them he learned he was "an accomplice of the criminal maneuvers of U.S. imperialism and the Diem administration of South Viet Nam."

The broadcast quoted Fryett as saying:

"The only thing I can say is that I am very sorry for having played a role in the forces that are being exploited in South Viet Nam. The truth has been concealed from the American public. This situation should not be allowed to continue."

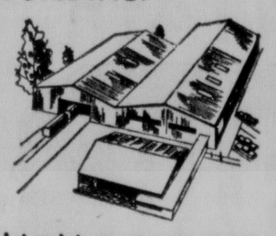

Fryett told officials here that, other than gun threats during some of the brainwashing sessions, his captors did not mistreat him.

Fryett was not allowed to see newsmen. He was described as tired but apparently in good health. Officials said he had lost about 25 pounds since he disappeared Christmas Day.

The soldier said he was set free about 60 miles north of Saigon near the village of Cham Thang and put on a bus. He said he had no idea he was to be released until Sunday morning.

There Must Be Ventilation Behind Basement Covering

By DOUGLAS TUOMEY

One of the first things a new home owner usually wants to do is to finish off the basement into a recreation room, provided, of course, that it has not already been done for him by the builder.

No doubt this is a very worthy ambition and will add considerably to the attractiveness of the house, but it is something that must be approached with caution.

Unless the job is done with full appreciation of the fact that most basement walls sweat or admit moisture, we can promise you that before long you will have a musty odor, and probably an excellent crop of water bugs and other vermin.

Conditions in some basements where the walls have been closed in with knotty pine or other decorative cover have become so bad that the entire job had to be torn out.

There is only one way in which a below-grade cellar or basement wall can be sealed in with the hope that it will be satisfactory. That is by furring out the walls with furring strip and making provision for ventilation by slots or ventilating plugs at top and bottom of every third or fourth plank or board.

If the venilating slots appear too unsightly, they can be substituted for by drilling holes through the boards and inserting small, round brass grommets.

There simply must be ventilation behind any basement wall covering unless you want to risk an unhealthy condition. If you have any doubt about this, just ask an experienced builder or architect.

There is one other bit of advice in connection with sheathing cellar walls. That is to back-paint wood if that is what you are using. If you use any type of wallboard, we suggest that the back receive a good coat of shellac.

Cincinnati Area Receives Vaccine

CINCINNATI (AP) — Residents of greater Cincinnati turned out in crowds Sunday to receive doses of sabin oral polio vaccine.

The turnout was strongest in Northern Kentucky and adjoining Clermont County, Ohio, both areas where the vaccine had not previously been offered in a public drive.

The public offering of vaccine was started a week ago after a 6-month-old Cincinnati boy entered Children's Hospital with paralytic polio in his leg. It was the first polio case in the Hamilton County area in two years.

In Cincinnati, 186,876 persons took doses of vaccine, given on sugar lumps for ease in swallowing. In Hamilton County, 183,431 received the vaccine.

Public health officials said they were a bit disappointed at the turnout since Hamilton County has about 860,000 residents. A spokesman said another public offering may be made next Sunday.

The vaccine used was against Type III polio virus, one of the most serious cripplers. Vaccine for Types I and II will be distributed later this summer.

In adjoining Clermont County, 17,000 doses were administered Sunday.

In Northern Kentucky, 68,384 took the vaccine in Kenton County, 53,712 in Campbell County and 15,000 in Boone County.

ECONOMY-SIZE HOUSE contains three bedrooms and maximum livability in 1215-square-foot area. Modified rectangular shape minimizes building costs and a semicircular pierced masonry wall extends the apparent length of the house and provides an outdoor living area beyond the sliding glass doors of the living room. Interior projection of the chimney and fireplace creates a foyer; the kitchen offers an eating space as well as abundant storage and counter tops. The bedrooms are sound separated from the rest of the house by the stairway, the split baths and the closets. Plan HA244M was designed by architect Rudolph A. Matern, 90-04 161 St., Jamaica 32, N. Varied Factors Go Into Selection Of Proper Motor

AP Newsfeatures

Question: I have just bought a second - hand electric power tool without a motor.

I have been doing some reading about motors, but am a little confused by such terms as universal, split-phase and capacitor. Can you tell me something about them and what kind I should get?

Answer: Since you did not mention the type and size of power tool, no specific answer is possible. But this general information should be of assistance to you.

A universal motor operates on either alternating or direct current. Usually, it is built in the housing of small portable power tools. And since the machine you bought came without a motor, it's unlikely you have any need for a universal motor.

Split - phase and capacitor motors are for alternating current, the type in most homes. Where there is no great starting load, as with a drill press, a split-phase is fine. Where the starting load is considerable, then the capacitor is recommended.

There are other things involved with motors, such as the horsepower, motor speed, pulleys and belts, all of which play a part in efficiency of operation.

For that reason, you should seek the advice of the dealer where you purchase the motor. Before you see him, write down the kind and size of power tool and any other information on its name plate. This data will enable him to have all the necessary details to assist you in making a decision.

CD Unit And Firemen Combine In Fire Drill

The Glenmoor volunteer fire department and Civil Defense Group and Liverpool Township east fire department participated in a fire drill Sunday afternoon at Lake Samary at Glenmoor.

Police teams and mass feeding teams also took part in the drill, directed by Herman Heiney. Coffee and doughnuts were served afterward.

Joe Arcuragi will direct the next Civil Defense meeting July 10 at the Glenmoor fire hall. Anyone interested in Civil Defense may attend.

Dynamite Explosion Rocks New Building

CLEVELAND (AP)—Suburban Brecksville police are investigating a dynamite explosion which broke several windows Sunday night in a building under construction at the Brecksville shopping center.

The building near the heart of town is to be occupied by a branch of the National City Bank of Cleveland.

Chief William L. Senkbeil said he believed not more than one stick of dynamite was used. He declined to speculate on reasons for the bombing.

Shootings Kill Two

CINCINNATI (AP) — Detectives say Son Kyle, 58, of Cincinnati has denied any part of the shooting death of his wife, Alberta, 65, but admitted he shot and killed her brother, William Garth, 57. Officers said both were killed Saturday night on a downtown street. No charge was filed immediately.

Ideas Offered For Repair Of Counter Tops

By DOUGLAS TUOMEY

The better made covered counter tops usually have metal or plastic edging covering the edges of the linoleum.

In less expensive equipment, the covering meets the edging, but is not held down by it. As a result, frequent soaking with water and detergents causes the edge of the material to bulge.

Once bulging occurs, it is almost impossible to make the material lie flat again. Recementing will not hold, as the bulge in the material is well set.

This condition can be cured, however, by a careful job of cutting. The procedure is to take a razor blade, preferably in a holder, and slice through the bulge at the highest point, right back to the spot where the bulge meets the normal level.

The next step is to lap over the two sides of the cut and carefully draw a line where they overlap. This will show you the segment, a pie-shaped piece of the bulge, that should be cut out. When the two flaps are laid down again they will meet along the line of the second cut and lie flat on the counter.

After the fit is made, the surface of the counter should be cleaned of all old cement or glue and a new cement film should be spread on both counter top and the underside of the flaps. Allow it to set slightly, and then press firmly in place. Heavy books or a flat-iron should be placed over the seam until the cement has hardened.

An excess of cement which has squeezed out of the cut can be scraped off after the weights are removed. If a piece of waxed paper is placed over the cut before the weights are applied, it will prevent their sticking to the area.

Converse Victor Over Rebel Bloc

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Frank Converse, who has headed the Ohio chapter of the International Union of Operating Engineers for 35 years, has been re-elected despite a strenuous campaign by a rebel group.

Following an all-night vote counting session Saturday night, Converse emerged the victor over rebel leader William Brewer of Dayton in the business manager race, top post in the union. The vote was 2,729 - 1,759.

The Converse slate won every office.

It was the first time in the Ohio union's history a full slate of officers opposed Converse. Twice before slates were proposed but were ruled off the ballot by technicalities.

Police stood guard during the ballot counting session. The insurgent members had charged Converse forces with plans to stuff the ballot box and obtained a court injunction ordering Converse not to destroy the envelopes in which the 4,483 ballots were returned.

'Don't Quit School,' Says One Who Knows

ALEXANDER, N.Y. (AP)—Harold Merle, 23, who quit high school six years ago but returned later to finish, found himself the commencement speaker when his class graduated. His advice: Don't quit school.

Care Advised On Picking Of Plumber

CHICAGO — The good plumbing contractor, like the good doctor, is worth shopping for.

The plumber you pick for installing equipment in your home and making checks and repair on any part of the plumbing system is as much a guardian of your health as a doctor.

Many people, when moving to a new town or neighborhood, make it a point to locate and confer with a good doctor and dentist long before their services are needed.

Just as you might contact a medical association for information on doctors, a good way to get recommendations of fully-qualified and reputable plumbing contractors in your area is to call the local association of plumbing contractors or master plumbers. This way, you know you are geting the names of men who are dedicated to their trade and to serving the public.

Beyond this, always check with your neighbors, and perhaps with one or two other people who have lived in the neighborhood for a long time.

A strong word of caution from the Plumbing - Heat - Cooling Information Bureau: no handyman can properly be called a plumber and such a 'serviceman' should be avoided like the plague. Only the fully qualified plumbing contractor and the experienced journeyman and apprentices he employs and oversees can guarantee the satisfactory and safe job you have the right to expect.

Once you have chosen a plumbing contractor, be sure to jot down his name and phone number near the telephone. If a plumbing emergency should arise, there will then be no delay in good service.

4 In Safe Job Due Hearings

LISBON — Hearings are scheduled today before County Judge Herbert Arfman in East Palestine for four men linked to a $125 safe cracking Friday at the Boyd Lumber Co. in Glenmoor—three charged with theft of a Glenmoor district car and the other accused of carrying a concealed weapon.

The auto theft charges were filed against L. D. Lafever, 28, Glenn Lee, 19, and Bodie Price, 26, all of Akron, and the concealed weapons charge faces Norman Lefever, 25, also of Akron.

The three are accused of taking an auto owned by Mrs. Elizabeth Beatty of State Route 267, near Glenmoor. Following the safe burglary, the auto was abandoned in Portage County and the three suspects were take into custody on foot.

Norman Lefever, brother of L. D. Lefever, was arrested by Salem police at the request of sheriff's deputies.

4-H News

A four-member committee to make arrangements for a bake sale was appointed at a meeting of the Greene Township Sewing 4-H Club Thursday in the Hookstown Grange Hall.

It includes Lois Swearingen, Joan Stewart, Elizabeth Dawson, and Marilyn Soisson.

During business conducted by Sandy Reed, president, it was announced that Evelyn Soisson, Ellen Glenn and Patty Waugamon plan to attend a 4-H camp in July.

Leaders present were Mrs. Jean Soisson, Mrs. Ethel Glenn and Mrs. Marie Andrews.

Next meeting is July 27 in the Grange Hall.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Jealous Girl Poses Unique Problem

From all you have read and observed, you may have concluded that in a family, more often than not, it's the older of two children, or the one next to the youngest of several, or the eldest of several children, who is most likely to reveal jealousy. But this is not always true. It's sometimes the younger of two, or any child in a family of several children, who may suffer most from jealousy. Besides, the predominance of jealousy may shift back and forth when there are only two children or from one to another in a larger family.

Dr. Garry Meyers

YOU PARENTS WHO have grown sensitive to possible jealousy in any one child, and strive to build him up to feel more secure, may have found that you have gone too far in dwelling on the strengths and feeling of security in this child.

Wonderful are parents who are always aware of the possibilities of jealousy in any child and are constantly trying to find ways of helping each child to feel as secure and worthwhile as every other child in this family.

Writes a mother from Nebraska:

"My two - year - old girl has always been jealous of her older brother, five years old. He has never shown any signs of jealousy of her but, recently, he has started resenting her posessiveness.

"From the time she was six months old, she would push him away if he sat next to me. She just doesn't want me to have anything to do with him. She has always had plenty of attention.

"Much seems to be written about the older child being jealous of the new baby, but this has never been my problem."

MY REPLY IN part:

During the many years I have writen this column, though I have received hundreds and hundreds of letters about jealousy in a child, I don't recall any letter quite like yours. Yet I'm sure what you reported could happen. Perhaps some other mothers will now report similar instances.

Your younger child naturally needs more of your help and care than her big brother. It is apparent that you let her command you not to enjoy him. As she succeeds in doing so, she becomes more tyrannical.

Let me advise you to make sure this little girl does not use her brother's things without permission. Let her often see you making and doing things with him and for him.

While you and Dad should read a great deal to her, the big brother will enjoy some stories too hard for her to enjoy. If you read to both of them together, let him choose the rhyme or story as often as she does.

—:—

OFTEN DAD might read to her while you read to him or vice versa, but don't let either choose which of you parents is to do the reading.

As these children grow older, aim to help each to cultivate playmates of his or her own age.

My bulletins, "Preventing and Reducing Jealousy" and "Why Read to Baby and Young Child," may be had by sending a self-addressed stamped envelope to me in care of The Review.

Trading Statistics Studied In Recent Market Setback

WASHINGTON (AP)—The public kept buying and stock exchange specialists sold more heavily than usual during the January-June period of the sharp market slump.

This is the major finding in an Associated Press study of trading statistics compiled by the New York Stock Exchange.

Through June 1 exchange members had sold 91.9 million shares and bought 85.3 million—a net reduction of 6.6 million shares. At the same time, public investors were buying 356.2 million shares and selling 349.1 million—adding 7.1 million shares to their portfolios.

The principal question raised by the study: Did the specialists' dealings tend to depress prices?

The figures would seem to indicate they might have. The exchange officials questioned their significance.

Said G. Keith Funston, president of the exchange: "In the face of the highest volume in more than three decades, exchange specialists exceeded their recent performance records for stabilizing transactions and maintaining price continuity."

Normally, exchange members sell more shares than they buy because of the disposition of stock acquired through splits, the conversion of debentures and similar developments.

One function of specialists is to sell stocks when sellers are scarce and to buy when there are few buyers. They also try to prevent sharp price fluctuations between successive transactions in the stocks they handle.

Funston reported that in the three-day trading period that began May 28 —Black Monday— 92 per cent of all transactions by specialists in 50 key stocks "were stabilizing in nature—that is, specialists bought when others wanted to sell, and supplied stock when others wanted to buy."

On Black Monday the public sold 330,000 more shares than it bought, but by Thursday the public was in strong buying mood and its purchases that day exceeded sales by 1.6 million shares.

During the entire week, the public bought 1.7 million more shares than it sold. In the same period, round lot sales by exchange specialists, floor traders and members off the floor exceeded purchases by 1.4 million shares. Specialists accounted for 948,000 of the total.

Snake Halts Station

WHEELING (AP) — Wheeling radio station WHLL was off the air for a short while Sunday due to a visit to the station by an uninvited guest — a five - foot black snake. Station officials said the snake crawled under the console and that announcers were afraid to get too close, so the station temporarily shut down operations. The reptile led a policeman and the staff on a merry chase and finally disappeared into a crevice in the wall.

Realtors feel that the uncertain condition of the stock market will have a dampening effect on the home buying attitudes of the high income groups, but point out that about 80 per cent of the nation's families do not own stocks in corporations.

Should the insides of enclosed porches be painted with exterior or interior paints and enamels?

It depends on whether the area to be painted is subject to extremes of temperature. An unheated porch, in a section of the country where the temperature drops considerably in the winter, should be painted with exterior finishes. Interior paints, used under such conditions, are subject to cracking and peeling.

Builders of basementless homes built on concrete slabs are showing considerable interest in a new method of installing hardwood strip floors over concrete without the use of wood subfloors.

The technique involves the use of a double layer of 1-by-2-inch wooden boards, nailed together with a moisture barrier of polyethylene film between them.

The electric heat industry feels that insulation is a vital part of the complete comfort package and spends as much time selling insulation as selling electric heat.

University of Minnesota tests show that insulation raises wall temperatures from 55 degrees Fahrenheit to 67 degrees, while storm windows raise glass surface temperatures about 15 degrees.

To keep a hot water heater in good condition, the householder should open the valve at the bottom of the water heater tank every two or three months. A bucketful of hot water should be drained out each time. This helps to remove accumulated scale and sediment.

E. W. Foss, rural safety specialist at Cornell University, feels that more complete records would enable a better job to be done in preventing residential fires.

He thinks this could be done if better records were available from either or both insurance companies and the fire services.

Youth Admits Bludgeoning Of Girls With Tire Wrench

MORRISTOWN, N.J. (AP)—James H. Vance Jr. has admitted bludgeoning two teen-age girls to death with a tire wrench.

An authority quoted Vance as saying he "blew his top" the night of the crime.

Vance, 18, a schoolmate of the two victims, called a detective to his cell Sunday morning and admitted the double slaying, according to Morris County Prosecutor Frank Scerbo.

"He just wanted to get it off his chest," Scerbo said.

After admitting the crime, the youth was taken by police to his home about a mile from where the girls were murdered.

He led two detectives to the attic of the frame house and, shoving aside loose floorboards, uncovered a blood-stained jacket he said he had been wearing the night of the slayings.

At his home, Scerbo said, Vance admitted the murders to his father.

The battered bodies of the victims—Margaret Ann Kennedy, 16, and Noreen Buckley, 17, both of Morris Plains, were found off a lonely road in a wooded area in adjoining Morris Township.

A bloody tire wrench found near the bodies was the murder weapon, Scerbo said. Vance admitted earlier that the wrench resembled one missing from his car. He said he used it to change a tire Wednesday night—the night the girls were last seen.

Their fully clothed bodies were found Thursday afternoon. Police said they had not been sexually molested.

Authorities said Vance gave this account:

He met the girls in front of a luncheonette and they asked him for a ride home. When they realized he was using his father's automobile, they asked him where his car was. He told them he had wrecked it while racing on a dirt lane on an old estate.

Vance said the girls did not believe him and he agreed to take them to the area to show them the car. He said he left the car there—with the Buckley girl in it—while he and the Kennedy girl walked into the woods in search of his own wrecked auto.

Police had towed the wreck from the area but Vance and the girl found the place where the car had been.

He left the Kennedy girl and returned to his father's car for the Buckley girl. Authorities said he and the Buckley girl argued and he killed her. Officials declined to say what the argument was about.

He then went into the woods and killed the other girl, authorities said.

Vance was charged with murder Saturday and was confined to the Morris County jail without bail.

Care Advised On Picking Of Plumber

CHICAGO — The good plumbing contractor, like the good doctor, is worth shopping for.

The plumber you pick for installing equipment in your home and making checks and repair on any part of the plumbing system is as much a guardian of your health as a doctor.

Many people, when moving to a new town or neighborhood, make it a point to locate and confer with a good doctor and dentist long before their services are needed.

Just as you might contact a medical association for information on doctors, a good way to get recommendations of fully-qualified and reputable plumbing contractors in your area is to call the local association of plumbing contractors or master plumbers. This way, you know you are getting the names of men who are dedicated to their trade and to serving the public.

Beyond this, always check with your neighbors, and perhaps with one or two other people who have lived in the neighborhood for a long time.

A strong word of caution from the Plumbing - Heat - Cooling Information Bureau: no handyman can properly be called a plumber and such a 'serviceman' should be avoided like the plague. Only the fully qualified plumbing contractor and the experienced journeyman and apprentices he employs and oversees can guarantee the satisfactory and safe job you have the right to expect.

Once you have chosen a plumbing contractor, be sure to jot down his name and phone number near the telephone. If a plumbing emergency should arise, there will then be no delay in good service.

4 In Safe Job Due Hearings

LISBON — Hearings are scheduled today before County Judge Herbert Arfman in East Palestine for four men linked to a $125 safe cracking Friday at the Boyd Lumber Co. in Glenmoor—three charged with theft of a Glenmoor district car and the other accused of carrying a concealed weapon.

The auto theft charges were filed against L. D. Lafever, 28, Glenn Lee, 19, and Bodie Price, 26, all of Akron, and the concealed weapons charge faces Norman Lefever, 25, also of Akron.

The three are accused of taking an auto owned by Mrs. Elizabeth Beatty of State Route 267, near Glenmoor. Following the safe burglary, the auto was abandoned in Portage County and the three suspects were take into custody on foot.

Norman Lefever, brother of L. D. Lefever, was arrested by Salem police at the request of sheriff's deputies.

Sheriff Russell J. VanFossan said his department is continuing its investigation of the safe burglary.

4-H News

A four-member committee to make arrangements for a bake sale was appointed at a meeting of the Greene Township Sewing 4-H Club Thursday in the Hookstown Grange Hall.

It includes Lois Swearingen, Joan Stewart, Elizabeth Dawson, and Marilyn Soisson.

During business conducted by Sandy Reed, president, it was announced that Evelyn Soisson, Ellen Glenn and Patty Waugamon plan to attend a 4-H camp in July.

Leaders present were Mrs. Jean Soisson, Mrs. Ethel Glenn and Mrs. Marie Andrews.

Next meeting is July 27 in the Grange Hall.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Jealous Girl Poses Unique Problem

From all you have read and observed, you may have concluded that in a family, more often than not, it's the older of two children, or the one next to the youngest of several, or the eldest of several children, who is most likely to reveal jealousy. But this is not always true. It's sometimes the younger of two, or any child in a family of several children, who may suffer most from jealousy. Besides, the predominance of jealousy may shift back and forth when there are only two children or from one to another in a larger family.

YOU PARENTS WHO have grown sensitive to possible jealousy in any one child, and strive to build him up to feel more secure, may have found that you have gone too far in dwelling on the strengths and feeling of security in this child.

Wonderful are parents who are always aware of the possibilities of jealousy in any child and are constantly trying to find ways of helping each child to feel as secure and worthwhile as every other child in this family.

Writes a mother from Nebraska:

"My two - year - old girl has always been jealous of her older brother, five years old. He has never shown any signs of jealousy of her but, recently, he has started resenting her possessiveness.

"From the time she was six months old, she would push him away if he sat next to me. She just doesn't want me to have anything to do with him. She has always had plenty of attention.

"Much seems to be written about the older child being jealous of the new baby, but this has never been my problem."

—:—

MY REPLY IN part:

During the many years I have writen this column, though I have received hundreds and hundreds of letters about jealousy in a child, I don't recall any letter quite like yours. Yet I'm sure what you reported could happen. Perhaps some other mothers will now report similar instances.

Your younger child naturally needs more of your help and care than her big brother. It is apparent that you let her command you not to enjoy him. As she succeeds in doing so, she becomes more tyrannical.

Let me advise you to make sure this little girl does not use her brother's things without permission. Let her often see you making and doing things with him and for him.

While you and Dad should read a great deal to her, the big brother will enjoy some stories too hard for her to enjoy. If you read to both of them together, let him choose the rhyme or story as often as she does.

—:—

OFTEN DAD might read to her while you read to him or vice versa, but don't let either choose which of you parents is to do the reading.

As these children grow older, aim to help each to cultivate playmates of his or her own age.

Driver Given 10-Day Term By City Judge

A Midland motorist was sentenced to a 10-day term in the County Jail today after pleading guilty in Municipal Court to a charge of driving without an operator's permit.

Sentencing of a Glenmoor youth on a similar charge was continued until 9 a.m. Friday by Judge Samuel M. Chertoff.

John W. Parson, 432 Midland Ave., drew the jail term plus costs after admitting he was operating a car he bought a month ago without an operator's permit.

Parson was arrested at 2:38 a. m. Sunday on Pennsylvania Ave., police said.

William Gary Heffner, 19, of Glenmoor also pleaded guilty to a similar charge filed by the State Highway Patrol, but sentencing was delayed until Friday morning.

Heffner was cited by the patrol in a traffic check on Lisbon St. Friday night. His operator's permit expired last Nov. 30, the patrol said.

Robert M. Basinger of Lisbon R.D. 3, cited by the patrol late Friday night for speeding 70 miles an hour on Route 7, was fined $15 and costs. Late in reaching court, Basinger explained he had a blowout while en route.

Daniel Ray Deyarmon, 21, of 929 Florence St. forfeited a $32.50 bond on a reckless driving charge. Deyarmon was arrested by city police at 3:24 a.m. Sunday on Dresden Ave. Police said the defendant drove east on 6th St., swerving back and forth across the center line.

James Raneri, 50, of Lisbon R. D. 2, who had been granted several continuances on a charge of failing to yield the right-of-way, appeared before Judge Chertoff and was fined $10 and costs.

Raneri was cited June 4 by the State Highway Patrol after an accident in Glenmoor in which three were injured.

A city motorist is due for a hearing Wednesday at 9 a. m. on two charges filed by the patrol after an accident Thursday night on Route 267.

Wilbur H. Seaman, 325 Broadway, was cited by the patrol for reckless driving and driving without an operator's permit. The patrol said Seaman's car ran off the right side of the highway and struck a parked vehicle.

Robert R. Keefer, 720 Broadway, Wellsville, is due for a hearing July 5 at 9 a. m. on a charge of speeding 75 miles an hour on Route 7. He was cited Friday night by the patrol.

New GOP Group Names Officers

Officers, headed by Paul Zehnder, president, were elected at a meeting held Friday night at the Travelers Hotel to organize the East Liverpool Area Young Republican Club.

Other officers named are Richard Johnston, vice president; Curt Hague, secretary; Mrs. Dorothy Welch, assistant secretary, and Robert C. Miller, treasurer. Vincent LaNeve and Dick Spahr were named membership chairmen and Hague and Jim Welch were appointed publicity chairmen.

Twenty-one attended. Guests included Atty. Charles Pike of Lisbon, Columbiana County GOP chairman; Miss Gladys DeBolt of East Liverpool, county chairwoman; State Rep. Clarence Wetzel of Lisbon; John J. Carrigg, congressional candidate from the 18th District; Don McHugh, treasurer of the Ohio League of Young Republicans, and John Thompson, city GOP chairman.

Pike, Wetzel and Miss DeBolt spoke briefly. Anyone interested in joining may contact any of the officers. The next meeting will be July 10 at 7:30 p.m. at the Potters Savings & Loan annex.

Church Disturbance Stirs Fatal Shooting

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A man whose antics broke up a Sunday School session at his church was shot and killed by a policeman trying to arrest him.

Officers said Lawrence Woodard, 32, Nashville Negro, was shot Sunday by patrolman William Adcock after Woodard grabbed the patrolman's night stick and began beating him with it.

The Rev. Anthony Rouquier, who called police, said Woodard was in the pulpit playing a transistor radio.

"When he started tearing up the Bible page by page, we suspected that something was wrong with him, and when he kicked over the pulpit, we knew there was," the minister said.

War's Anniversary Observed By Korea

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—The 12th anniversary of the outbreak of the Korean War was observed quietly here today.

There were no parades or rallies, but South Korean and U.N. authorities reaffirmed their determination to block any repetition of the Communist invasion of 1950.

Formosa Patrol Being Bolstered By U.S. Vessels

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — U.S. warships were speeding from Japan today to reinforce the 7th Fleet's Formosa patrol in the face of a reported Chinese Communist military buildup on the coast opposite the Nationalist offshore islands of Quemoy and Matsu.

Most of the 7th Fleet ships that had been in the big Yokosuka, Japan, naval base pulled out over the weekend. A spokesman said only that they were "deploying for operations at sea," but Pacific fleet headquarters in Honolulu confirmed that they were strengthening the patrol in the Formosa Strait off Red China's Fukien Province.

A Navy spokesman in Honolulu said the move was almost routine in the light of reports of the Communist buildup. He refused to say how many ships were on patrol, but an unconfirmed report from Japan said reinforcements from there included the carrier Coral Sea.

The Chinese Nationalist Defense Ministry said the Communists are evacuating noncombatants from the entire coastal area opposite Formosa.

The Defense Ministry has estimated that the Communists have 400,000 men, 300 planes and 400 small naval craft on the "invasion front." It also said Sunday that the Reds have 30 submarines, but did not pinpoint them as being in the Formosa Strait, which is relatively shallow and narrow.

Orders were reported to have gone out to commanders on Quemoy and Matsu to be especially vigilant against possible Communist action. Quemoy received one of its sporadic Communist shellings over the weekend.

Senate Probe On B-Girls Linked To Sleeping Pills

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Police hope to question today a night club singer and dancer who they said took an overdose of sleeping pills allegedly as the result of threats received after she testified before the Senate Investigations subcommittee about B-girls.

Detective Walter Ryan reported today that the singer, Pat Kobalski, 34, known professionally as Pat Lynne, was unconscious and in critical condition at Graduate Hospital. An operation was performed Sunday night to open her throat so she could breath easier.

Ryan said Miss Lynne was rushed to the hospital about 7 a.m. Sunday from the residence of a friend, Paul W. Hackett, 33.

When Miss Lynne testified before the subcommittee on June 12 her name was listed as Mrs. Pat Lynne Hackett.

Detective Stanley Greenfield quoted Hacket as saying that Miss Lynne told him that last Saturday two strange men approached her car in a downtown parking lot and ordered her out of the car. She locked the doors and drove off.

Later in the day, according to Hackett, Miss Lynne asked him to check her car because there was a tape recorder in it and the doors had been left unlocked. Hackett said it was reported to police that the tape recorder and a quantity of clothing were stolen from the car.

Greenfield quoted Hackett as saying that around 4 a.m. Sunday he and Miss Lynne began drinking a few beers and when she appeared drowsy she told him she had taken the sleeping pills.

Greenfield also quoted Hackett as saying that Miss Lynn told him that she received two threatening phone calls from strange men several days ago while she was in Metropolitan Hospital being treated for an infection stemming from amputation of her right leg as the result of an auto accident three years ago.

The strangers told her not to say anything more about what she had testified before the subcommittee, Hackett said.

Miss Lynne had told the subcommittee that while working for a now defunct Philadelphia supper club she was required to mix with customers and solicit drinks at the bar.

Midland Boy Held To Court In Car Theft

A Midland youth who became 18 a month ago was bound over to the Grand Jury for theft of a city man's auto at a preliminary hearing today in Municipal Court.

Jesse James Smith Jr., 758 Midland Ave., pleaded not guilty to the charge filed by Police Lt. William McDaniel and Patrolman K. J. Montgomery following his arrest early Saturday by Rochester police.

Meanwhile, an East Liverpool youth, also held for theft of another auto, has been turned over to juvenile authorities after police determined he was 17 instead of 18, as he claimed originally.

Judge Samuel M. Chertoff set Smith's bond at $1,000 after hearing testimony from Police Capt. R. H. Pyle, acting chief, who joined in questioning of the youth, and an unsworn statement from the defendant.

Judge Chertoff repeatedly advised the youth, and his mother, who was in court, to secure an attorney, warning the charge is a felony punishable by a penitentiary term upon conviction.

The judge also advised Smith to "forget the first part of your name." Speaking seriously, Judge Chertoff told the defendant he believed other youngsters laughed at him because of his given names.

"The more they laughed, the harder you tried to live up to the names," he declared.

Smith is charged with the theft of a 1955 auto owned by Harry O. Hull, 429 Elm St., which was taken from its parking place at Elm St. and Pennsylvania Ave. between noon Thursday and Friday night.

Capt. Pyle testified Lt. McDaniel and Patrolman Montgomery were en route to Midland to return the city youth in the other stolen car case when they spotted Hull's auto parked about a fourth of a mile west of Midland on Route 68.

In checking the auto, Capt. Pyle said the city officers found Smith's identity card and he was picked up at 3:30 a. m. by the Rochester police and returned to Midland, where he was interrogated before being brought back to East Liverpool.

Smith gave police the name of a 16-year-old Midland youth, who was picked up by Midland officers and turned over to authorities at the Allencrest Detention Home near Beaver.

The two youths had been in Chester and East Liverpool and the 16-year-old wanted to steal a car but Smith claimed he had talked him out of it, Capt. Pyle related.

Finally spotting Hull's car, the 16-year-old got in it and drove it out onto Pennsylvania Ave. and picked up Smith, who admitted he knew the car was stolen, the captain continued.

The two drove toward Midland but the car quit running, apparently out of gas, and the two pulled to the side of the road and walked into Midland, Capt. Pyle said.

Officers said James Ernest Saunders, 1053 Pennsylvania Ave., is being held at the County Jail in Lisbon for the theft of a car Friday night owned by Nathan Chafins Jr., 1060 Jennings Ave.

Saunders, who was released from the County Jail last week after serving time on another car theft charge, will be arraigned before Juvenile Judge Louis Tobin, police said.

He was taken into custody Friday night, on 4th St. in Midland by Midland officers, 33 minutes after Chafins reported his station wagon missing.

Water Bill Was High, For A Good Reason

PENRITH, England (AP) — Farmer William Young has finally found why his water bills are so high. For six years he has been supplying the town's public swimming pool.

"I did not quibble at first because the bills were the same every year and I have a lot of animals drinking water," said Young.

"But now council workmen digging up an old water system in the neighborhood have discovered the supply for the swimming pool has been passing through my meter—thousands of gallons of it."

The council said there was no way of telling how much of the water went into the pool and how much into Young's livestock. They are refunding all he's paid since 1957.

An auto collision Sunday in which one car skidded sideways into an oncoming auto claimed the lives of four persons and accounted for nearly one-third of the Ohio weekend highway death toll.

In all, at least 14 died in highway mishaps between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Sunday. Besides these, three drownings and two electrocutions were reported to The Associated Press.

The collision near Laurelville in Hocking County was one of the worst reported in Ohio this year. The accident occurred on Ohio 56. The highway patrol said one of the cars went out of control, skidded sideways down the highway and was hit broadside by the approaching car.

The fatalities:

Friday Night

Ed Williams, 70, Cleveland, struck by a car while crossing a Cleveland street during a heavy rainstorm.

Saturday

Donald L. Reaves, 31, Williamsburg, when his car collided with a truck on U. S. 68 about 1½ miles north of Mount Orab in Brown County.

Owen Eugene Cain, 23, Columbus, when his milk truck went out of control on rain-slick Ohio 315 about 2½ miles south of Delaware.

Mrs. Hazel Davis, 41, Rt. 1, Portsmouth, and Jessie M. Johnson, 37, Columbus, passengers in two cars which collided head-on two miles north of Portsmouth on U. S. 23.

Dawne Pavlisin, 20, Burton (Geauga County), in a two-car collision on Ohio 87 south of Chardon.

Willie Gleaves, 35, Toledo, drowned in the Maumee River in Toledo where he had been swimming.

John Stammen, 10, Fort Recovery, electrocuted when he touched a worn electric cord while standing in about an inch of water in his basement.

Sunday

Charles A. Reinecke, 49, Brecksville, when his car crashed into the rear of a stopped auto on U. S. 21 in the Cleveland suburb of Independence.

Pleasant Woods, 40, Dry Ridge (Lawrence County), electrocuted when a light bulb exploded in his hand as he touched a car.

Mrs. Elizabeth Hafner, about 65, Chillicothe; her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Saundra Lee Hafner, 24, Chillicothe; Jerry Eugene Howard, 17, Columbus, and Jennie Lee Wilson, 18, Columbus in a broadside collision of two cars on Ohio 56 about two miles east of Laurelville in Hocking County.

Roy Matthews, 27, near Delaware, drowned in the Delaware Dam Reservoir after the boat he was in struck a log or stump and overturned.

Charles L. Dyer, 27, Cambridge, drowned in Seneca Lake in Noble County when he fell while water skiing.

Samuel G. Pickering, 60, Piqua, of injuries suffered Friday night when his car jumped a divider on Interstate 75 as he attempted to turn onto the exit ramp at the Ohio 70 interchange.

Mrs. Carrie Louise Fay, 37, Cincinnati, when her car skidded on rain-slick Mill Creek Expressway and hit a highway divider pole.

Mrs. Jenny Klopp, 82, Columbus when the parked car from which she was leaving was struck in the rear by another auto on a Columbus street.

Over 200 Remain Idle In Crucible's Walkout

The Midland Works of the Crucible Steel Co. today reported its Blooming Mill is down and its Conditioning Department is operating on a reduced schedule, both because of lack of steel resulting from a work stoppage Friday evening in the Open Hearth Department.

The company said it is continuing efforts with United Steelworkers Local 1212 to get the crews back to work. The company said the stoppage apparently was due to the early retirement of an open hearth supervisor.

About 200 in the open hearth department are involved in the strike, but other workers are affected by lack of steel.

Colorful, Stormy Era Ends In Education

CAMPTON, Ky. (AP) — A colorful but stormy chapter in public education came to an end this spring when the doors to the battered old one - room Tar Ridge school were closed permanently.

Pupils ranging in age from 4 to 24 attended classes in the school at the same time. For years, the favorite sport of older pupils was frightening away their teachers. As many as six teachers were employed at the school in one year.

The 100-year-old structure was the target of many a rifle bullet and shotgun blast. The inside walls and floors show evidence of blood stains resulting from fights among the pupils and perhaps involving a teacher or two.

Driver Given 10-Day Term By City Judge

A Midland motorist was sentenced to a 10-day term in the County Jail today after pleading guilty in Municipal Court to a charge of driving without an operator's permit.

Sentencing of a Glenmoor youth on a similar charge was continued until 9 a.m. Friday by Judge Samuel M. Chertoff.

John W. Parson, 432 Midland Ave., drew the jail term plus costs after admitting he was operating a car he bought a month ago without an operator's permit.

Parson was arrested at 2:38 a. m. Sunday on Pennsylvania Ave., police said.

William Gary Heffner, 19, of Glenmoor also pleaded guilty to a similar charge filed by the State Highway Patrol, but sentencing was delayed until Friday morning.

Heffner was cited by the patrol in a traffic check on Lisbon St. Friday night. His operator's permit expired last Nov. 30, the patrol said.

Robert M. Basinger of Lisbon R.D. 3, cited by the patrol late Friday night for speeding 70 miles an hour on Route 7, was fined $15 and costs. Late in reaching court, Basinger explained he had a blowout while en route.

Daniel Ray Deyarmon, 21, of 929 Florence St. forfeited a $32.50 bond on a reckless driving charge. Deyarmon was arrested by city police at 3:24 a.m. Sunday on Dresden Ave. Police said the defendant drove east on 6th St., swerving back and forth across the center line.

James Raneri, 50, of Lisbon R. D. 2, who had been granted several continuances on a charge of failing to yield the right-of-way, appeared before Judge Chertoff and was fined $10 and costs.

Raneri was cited June 4 by the State Highway Patrol after an accident in Glenmoor in which three were injured.

A city motorist is due for a hearing Wednesday at 9 a. m. on two charges filed by the patrol after an accident Thursday night on Route 267.

Wilbur H. Seaman, 325 Broadway, was cited by the patrol for reckless driving and driving without an operator's permit. The patrol said Seaman's car ran off the right side of the highway and struck a parked vehicle.

Robert R. Keefer, 720 Broadway, Wellsville, is due for a hearing July 5 at 9 a. m. on a charge of speeding 75 miles an hour on Route 7. He was cited Friday night by the patrol.

New GOP Group Names Officers

Officers, headed by Paul Zehnder, president, were elected at a meeting held Friday night at the Travelers Hotel to organize the East Liverpool Area Young Republican Club.

Other officers named are Richard Johnston, vice president; Curt Hague, secretary; Mrs. Dorothy Welch, assistant secretary, and Robert C. Miller, treasurer. Vincent LaNeve and Dick Spahr were named membership chairmen and Hague and Jim Welch were appointed publicity chairmen.

Twenty-one attended. Guests included Atty. Charles Pike of Lisbon, Columbiana County GOP chairman; Miss Gladys DeBolt of East Liverpool, county chairwoman; State Rep. Clarence Wetzel of Lisbon; John J. Carrigg, congressional candidate from the 18th District; Don McHugh, treasurer of the Ohio League of Young Republicans, and John Thompson, city GOP chairman.

Pike, Wetzel and Miss DeBolt spoke briefly. Anyone interested in joining may contact any of the officers. The next meeting will be July 10 at 7:30 p.m. at the Potters Savings & Loan annex.

Church Disturbance Stirs Fatal Shooting

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A man whose antics broke up a Sunday School session at his church was shot and killed by a policeman trying to arrest him.

Officers said Lawrence Woodard, 32, Nashville Negro, was shot Sunday by patrolman William Adcock after Woodard grabbed the patrolman's night stick and began beating him with it.

The Rev. Anthony Rouquier, who called police, said Woodard was in the pulpit playing a transistor radio.

"When he started tearing up the Bible page by page, we suspected that something was wrong with him, and when he kicked over the pulpit, we knew there was," the minister said.

War's Anniversary Observed By Korea

There were no parades or rallies, but South Korean and U.N. authorities reaffirmed their determination to block any repetition of the Communist invasion of 1950.

Formosa Patrol Being Bolstered By U.S. Vessels

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — U.S. warships were speeding from Japan today to reinforce the 7th Fleet's Formosa patrol in the face of a reported Chinese Communist military buildup on the coast opposite the Nationalist offshore islands of Quemoy and Matsu.

Most of the 7th Fleet ships that had been in the big Yokosuka, Japan, naval base pulled out over the weekend. A spokesman said only that they were "deploying for operations at sea," but Pacific fleet headquarters in Honolulu confirmed that they were strengthening the patrol in the Formosa Strait off Red China's Fukien Province.

A Navy spokesman in Honolulu said the move was almost routine in the light of reports of the Communist buildup. He refused to say how many ships were on patrol, but an unconfirmed report from Japan said reinforcements from there included the carrier Coral Sea.

Keep In Trim

By IDA JEAN KAIN

New Interests Can Absorb Latent Energy

Spark your plan to slim down with the catalyst of interest. The physical energy represented by body weight can be calculated. But the energy of the spirit — the mind — is beyond measure. Combine the two and the sky's the limit!

Ida Jean Kain

Let your goal be exuberant health with slim good looks and the admiration of your husband and friends. Purposeful living bolsters your self - respect and lets you hold that bump of self - esteem on the top of your head very high. It feels good to stand tall! Who has to be left out of the fun of active sports? Not you! All of these goals engender enthusiasm and make slimming down exciting.

The creative power within you can grow into a positive force which leads to triumph for you as a person.

THIS QUICKENED spirit can be the trigger to encourage nature to draw on the energy that is stored in those excess pounds. When you welcome each day to further your goal, eating falls into its proper place.

The reason for eating is to provide fuel to cover physical needs. The occasion has also become a center of social life. It is when you substitute food for other satisfactions that can never be met through eating that you run into trouble.

Why not adventure to make eating a means of getting what you really want? With a mature attitude towards food and scientific eating, reducing is a natural.

Enthusiasm carries with it excitement and an expectation of achievement. You picture success. Half the job is done when you tackle it with this frame of mind.

Instead of lamenting that food seems to get more fattening as time goes by, recognize that inactivity leads to boredom, and boredom leads to overeating and overweight. Being bored means that you have no absorbing interest that excites you and energizes you into action.

Refuse to be bogged down with self-pity. Why is self-pity so ruinous to a dieter? It's a way of finding a justification for not doing anything about the problem. When you spend your energy in resentment, you haven't any left over to make constructive changes.

BE WILLING to put forth the effort to develop the interest that can make life wonderfully satisfying. It takes action to stir up interest. Make slimming down and shaping up a means to an end, not the end itself, and a bright new world emerges.

Interest in living is the secret of having dynamic energy!

West Virginia VFW Selects Grafton Man

CLARKSBURG (AP) — James W. Fawcett of Grafton has been elected commander of the West Virginia chapter of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

He was chosen here yesterday at the closing session of the VFW's three-day, 41st annual convention. He succeeds Richard Cooper of Weston.

Leo C. Shuck of Keyser was advanced from junior vice commander to senior vice commander to fill the position vacated by Fawcett.

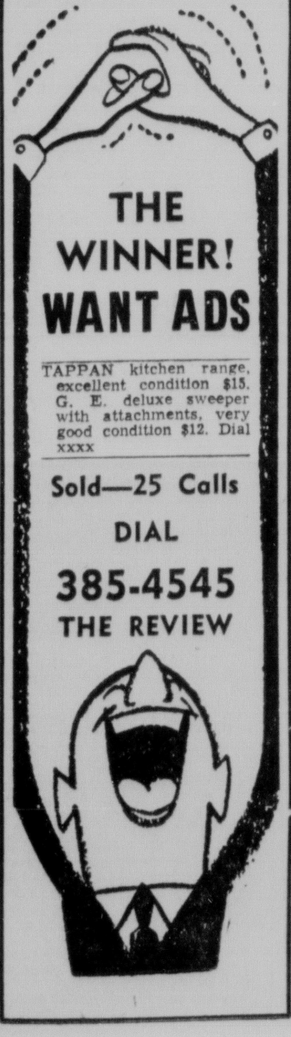

The state VFW chapter will have a member in the national VFW council next year. Richard Homan of Sugar Grove, Pendleton County, also will represent Ohio and Kentucky.

Mrs. Geraldine Pierce of the Martinsburg was named president of the VFW's women's auxiliary, which held its 33rd annual convention in conjunction with the men's group.

Other officers named yesterday include: John L. Frazier of Morgantown, junior vice commander; Ralph Stump, Weiron, quartermaster adjutant; James M. Sprouse, Charleston, judge advocate; Charles Price, Huntington, surgeon, and Richard Weidlick, Weston, Chaplain.

Steel Official Dies

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Services will be held Tuesday at the Stewart- Kyle Funeral Home in Hubbard for Hull Hamill, manager of Republic Steel Corp.'s Truscon Division since last April 12. Hamill, 60, died Saturday night in St. Elizabeth Hospital. He started with the company 40 years ago as a clerk.

West Virginia Lists 10 Dead

By The Associated Press

The past weekend was one of the deadliest of the year on West Virginia highways, with nine fatalities reported — boosting the overall total to 191. One person died by drowning.

Five of the fatal road mishaps occurred Friday with the remaining four taking place Saturday. No highway fatalities were reported yesterday.

Saturday's victims:

Ovie Hoy Harris, 41, a Gilmer County coal miner, was killed in a one-car accident near Stout's Mill in Gilmer County. Harris apparently drowned when his car plunged into the Little Kanawha River.

Michael Beckett, 17, of Milton, fatally injured when the car in which he was riding spun off the Teays Valley Road in Putnam County.

Mrs. Rena Blankenship of Delorme, Mingo County, died Saturday in a Williamson hospital of injuries she received Friday when a car backed into her at her home.

Mrs. Mae Leona Kerschensteiner, about 43, of Garrett, Pa., and John L. Rakocky, 41, of Fairmont. Rakocky was killed in a one-car mishap at Fairmont, while Mrs. Kerschensteiner died in a head-on crash on U.S. 19 just south of Fairmont.

Eighteen-year-old Arthur D. Hanlan of near Maidsville was killed Friday when he fell from a truck on W. Va. 100 near Morgantown. William L. Stein Jr., 39, of Springfield was driving an auto which left W. Va. 28 near Romney and overturned. He was killed instantly.

An elderly Putnam County man, Henry E. Thacker, 73, of Hurricane died Friday when his car smashed into a truck on W. Va. 33 in Putnam County.

Mrs. Ruth Reeder, 50, of Belington, was the only pedestrian to be killed. She died instantly when struck by an auto near Belington.

The drowning victim was James Thomas May, 17, of near Lenore, Mingo County. May drowned Saturday in Tug River while on a fishing trip with his parents.

100,000 Jam Airport At Dedication Rites

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — The final day of dedication ceremonies for the new $3.5-million terminal at Akron - Canton Airport attracted more than 100,000 persons, officials estimated.

Those who came Sunday saw balloon ascensions, parachute jumps, stunt flying, experimental aircraft, military displays, industrial exhibitions and were given a guided tour of the facility.

Summit and Stark County sheriff's deputies said traffic jams stopped cars three or four miles from the airport.

The new terminal has an eight-story tower. The terminal includes 77,837 square feet of space, most of it in two main floors.

Ohio Attorney Dies

CINCINNATI (AP)— Funeral services are scheduled Tuesday for Leslie W. Cors, 58, longtime Cincinnati attorney and onetime law partner of Ohio Congressman Gordon H. Scherer. Cors died Sunday after a long illness.

Keep In Trim

By IDA JEAN KAIN

New Interests Can Absorb Latent Energy

Spark your plan to slim down with the catalyst of interest. The physical energy represented by body weight can be calculated. But the energy of the spirit — the mind — is beyond measure. Combine the two and the sky's the limit!

Ida Jean Kain

Let your goal be exuberant health with slim good looks and the admiration of your husband and friends. Purposeful living bolsters your self - respect and lets you hold that bump of self - esteem on the top of your head very high. It feels good to stand tall! Who has to be left out of the fun of active sports? Not you! All of these goals engender enthusiasm and make slimming down exciting.

The creative power within you can grow into a positive force which leads to triumph for you as a person.

THIS QUICKENED spirit can be the trigger to encourage nature to draw on the energy that is stored in those excess pounds. When you welcome each day to further your goal, eating falls into its proper place.

The reason for eating is to provide fuel to cover physical needs. The occasion has also become a center of social life. It is when you substitute food for other satisfactions that can never be met through eating that you run into trouble.

Why not adventure to make eating a means of getting what you really want? With a mature attitude towards food and scientific eating, reducing is a natural.

Enthusiasm carries with it excitement and an expectation of achievement. You picture success. Half the job is done when you tackle it with this frame of mind.

Instead of lamenting that food seems to get more fattening as time goes by, recognize that inactivity leads to boredom, and boredom leads to overeating and overweight. Being bored means that you have no absorbing interest that excites you and energizes you into action.

Refuse to be bogged down with self-pity. Why is self-pity so ruinous to a dieter? It's a way of finding a justification for not doing anything about the problem. When you spend your energy in resentment, you haven't any left over to make constructive changes.

BE WILLING to put forth the effort to develop the interest that can make life wonderfully satisfying. It takes action to stir up interest. Make slimming down and shaping up a means to an end, not the end itself, and a bright new world emerges.

Interest in living is the secret of having dynamic energy!

Send a stamped, self addressed, long envelope for leaflet "Choose To Lose Diet." Address your request to Ida Jean Kain, in care of The Review. Postcard requests cannot be answered.

LEGAL NOTICE

Ralph Wood, who resides at 7851 National, Millington, in Shelby County, State of Tennessee and Arlene Wood Dunagan and John Wood, whose residences are unknown, and the unknown heirs, devisees, legatees of Alfred L. Moore, deceased, will take notice that John A. Wood, as administrator of the estate of Alfred L. Moore, deceased, on the 18th day of May, 1962, filed a petition in the probate court of Columbiana County, State of Ohio, alleging that it was necessary to sell the real estate to pay debts and expenses of Administration, that the decedent was seized in fee simple of an undivided one-half interest in the following described real estate situated in the City of East Liverpool, County of Columbiana, and State of Ohio, and bounded and described as follows:

Known as and being that certain Lot number Thirty-six Hundred Eighteen (3618), as said Lot is numbered and distinguished upon the recorded plat of the Pleasant Heights Land and Improvement Company's Addition. Said plat is recorded in Plat Book 5, Page 44, of the records of the Recorder's Office, Columbiana County, Ohio.

The prayer of said petition is for the sale of said premises for the purpose of paying debts and expenses of administration.

The persons first above mentioned will further take notice that they have been made parties defendant to said petition and that they are required to answer the same on or before the 14th day of July, 1962.

West Virginia VFW Selects Grafton Man

CLARKSBURG (AP) — James W. Fawcett of Grafton has been elected commander of the West Virginia chapter of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

He was chosen here yesterday at the closing session of the VFW's three-day, 41st annual convention. He succeeds Richard Cooper of Weston.

Leo C. Shuck of Keyser was advanced from junior vice commander to senior vice commander to fill the position vacated by Fawcett.

The state VFW chapter will have a member in the national VFW council next year. Richard Homan of Sugar Grove, Pendleton County, also will represent Ohio and Kentucky.

Mrs. Geraldine Pierce of the Martinsburg was named president of the VFW's women's auxiliary, which held its 33rd annual convention in conjunction with the men's group.

Other officers named yesterday include: John L. Frazier of Morgantown, junior vice commander; Ralph Stump, Weiron, quartermaster adjutant; James M. Sprouse, Charleston, judge advocate; Charles Price, Huntington, surgeon, and Richard Weidlick, Weston, Chaplain.

Steel Official Dies

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Services will be held Tuesday at the Stewart- Kyle Funeral Home in Hubbard for Hull Hamill, manager of Republic Steel Corp.'s Truscon Division since last April 12. Hamill, 60, died Saturday night in St. Elizabeth Hospital. He started with the company 40 years ago as a clerk.

West Virginia Lists 10 Dead

By The Associated Press

The past weekend was one of the deadliest of the year on West Virginia highways, with nine fatalities reported — boosting the overall total to 191. One person died by drowning.

Five of the fatal road mishaps occurred Friday with the remaining four taking place Saturday. No highway fatalities were reported yesterday.

Saturday's victims:

Ovie Hoy Harris, 41, a Gilmer County coal miner, was killed in a one-car accident near Stout's Mill in Gilmer County. Harris apparently drowned when his car plunged into the Little Kanawha River.

Michael Beckett, 17, of Milton, fatally injured when the car in which he was riding spun off the Teays Valley Road in Putnam County.

Mrs. Rena Blankenship of Delorme, Mingo County, died Saturday in a Williamson hospital of injuries she received Friday when a car backed into her at her home.

Mrs. Mae Leona Kerschensteiner, about 43, of Garrett, Pa., and John L. Rakocky, 41, of Fairmont. Rakocky was killed in a one-car mishap at Fairmont, while Mrs. Kerschensteiner died in a head-on crash on U.S. 19 just south of Fairmont.

Eighteen-year-old Arthur D. Hanlan of near Maidsville was killed Friday when he fell from a truck on W. Va. 100 near Morgantown. William L. Stein Jr., 39, of Springfield was driving an auto which left W. Va. 28 near Romney and overturned. He was killed instantly.

An elderly Putnam County man, Henry E. Thacker, 73, of Hurricane died Friday when his car smashed into a truck on W. Va. 33 in Putnam County.

Mrs. Ruth Reeder, 50, of Belington, was the only pedestrian to be killed. She died instantly when struck by an auto near Belington.

The drowning victim was James Thomas May, 17, of near Lenore, Mingo County. May drowned Saturday in Tug River while on a fishing trip with his parents.

100,000 Jam Airport At Dedication Rites

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — The final day of dedication ceremonies for the new $3.5-million terminal at Akron - Canton Airport attracted more than 100,000 persons, officials estimated.

Those who came Sunday saw balloon ascensions, parachute jumps, stunt flying, experimental aircraft, military displays, industrial exhibitions and were given a guided tour of the facility.

Summit and Stark County sheriff's deputies said traffic jams stopped cars three or four miles from the airport.

The new terminal has an eight-story tower. The terminal includes 77,837 square feet of space, most of it in two main floors.

Ohio Attorney Dies

Junior Editors Quiz on GEOGRAPHY

QUESTION: Why does the equator run north and south instead of east and west?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: Like the girl in our picture, the reader who sent us this question is a little mixed up. The diagram in the upper left should straighten things out. The equator is an imaginary line about the middle of the earth. Thus it runs east and west, not north and south. It divides the earth into two equal halves. Paralleling the equator are other imaginary lines around the world called lines of latitude. These are numbered by degrees north or south of the equator.

Lines running north and south around the world are not parallel to each other. Instead, they all pass through the north and the south poles. They are called meridians. The meridian numbered zero passes through Greenwich, England. Meridians east and west of this are numbered by degrees east and west of the line, as far as the 180th meridian, on the opposite side of the world.

Why was the system set up this way? Simply because the early geographers found it the most convenient and logical one.

★ ★ ★

FOR YOU TO DO: Get a map, note the degrees numbered opposite the parallels of latitude and the meridians, and work out the exact location of your town in degrees. For example, New York City is 40 degrees and 45 minutes north latitude, and 74 degrees west longitude.

★ ★ ★

Senior Class Hires Boat On 'Big Night'

BOSTON — The senior class at suburban Wakfield High School found a new wrinkle for post graduation parties designed to keep classmates out of trouble on their "big night."

The class hired a Boston Harbor excursion boat and whooped it up on a midnight dance cruise under the watchful, but lenient, eyes of chaperoning parents.

Steelworkers Honor M. J. Hohan

Michael J. (Mickey) Hohan, far right, former president of United Steelworkers Local 1212 of the Crucible Steel Co. was honored "for his long and faithful service to Local 1212 and the United Steelworkers" at a dinner Saturday evening at Midland.

About 50, including local officers, grievance committeemen and special guests, attended the dinner at the Esquire Restaurant. Mullen was the toastmaster. There also were remarks by Kluz and D'Alesio.

Hohan, a retired steelworker, served as president in 1945-1948 and from 1952-1958. He has held various other offices in the local, including grievance committeeman and trustee.

He joined the local in June 1936 and received one of the first dues cards in 1937. Married, he lives at Smiths Ferry R. D. 1. He has three children, including two married daughters. One is a nurse and the other a school teacher. A son is employed with the Ohio Bell Telephone Co.

Goodyear To Expand Research Facilities

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—A $5 million expansion of research and development facilities was announced today by the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co.

The program was outlined by E. J. Thomas, chairman, at the dedication of a new $1.5 million wing for the Goodyear research building.

Russell DeYoung, president, noted that a wealth of new materials has been developed in the rubber industry in recent years but said the most important job of the company's research scientists will be to make present products obsolete.

"If they don't, somebody else will," he said.

A conservative grayish shade called Army green has replaced olive drab for Army uniforms.

Sunspots in 1960 caused one of the worst worldwide communications blackouts in recent years. For days the United States was cut off from most of Europe and the Far East.
